

OREGON SENTINEL.

JACKSONVILLE:
SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1882.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

Supreme Judge,
W. P. LORD, of Marion.

Representative,
M. C. GEORGE, of Multnomah.

Governor,
Z. F. MOODY, of Wasco.

Secretary of State,
R. P. EARHART, of Multnomah.

State Treasurer,
ED. HIRSCH, of Marion.

State Printer,
W. H. BYARS, of Douglas.

Supt. Public Instruction,
E. B. McELROY, of Benton.

A WESTERN MAN ON THE TARIFF.

The following is from a speech of Hon. John A. Kasson of Iowa on the tariff, delivered in the House of Representatives March 28th 1882. On the course of a most able speech he said: I challenge theories with the presentation of facts. I show you Ireland, once prosperous with diversified industries which were sustained by protective duties, since the act of union and abolition of these duties, crushed, bleeding, ruined, depopulated, wretched, without recovery. I point you to India, whose former wealth and glory have been the theme of historians and poets, prostrated and impoverished by the compulsory free trade forced upon her by her conqueror. I point you to Turkey and Japan, struggling against the manacles imposed on them by non-terminable free trade treaties long ago secured by England, and still prostrating their home industries. I direct your attention to Russia, Austria, Germany, France, abandoning the revenue-tariff treaties at their expiration two years ago, refusing their renewal, and returning to the protection of their national industries. I ask you to look at colonial Canada, alarmed at her migrating people and her treasury deficit, establishing a protective system against Great Britain, and now congratulating herself upon her full treasury and the contentment of her people.

And I especially ask you to direct your eyes upon your own country after twenty years of this so called "protective-tariff robbery." The war found us with a low tariff and obliged us to order even the clothing of our soldiers from foreign countries at prices advanced by our very necessities. It found the Confederate States with scarcely a factory or machine-shop within all their borders, and dependent on foreign countries for many of their most important supplies. The South would then have voted millions for those home manufactures so necessary to national independence. But they had persistently and for years opposed the principle under which alone they could be called into existence. Decidedly protective duties were now imposed by the United States, in part for revenue and in part to encourage home industry. They have in the main continued ever since. The demands of the war created in many departments increased activity to manufacture. After the war a million of men deposited their arms and took up the labors of peace with a promptitude and good order without precedent in the world's history; our home market was retained for our own industry, and all found employment; new factories, instead of poorhouses, were built; the revenues of the country were ample and were freely paid; depreciation of currency disappeared by steady, progressive steps; rates of interest for public and private debts were reduced as the national credit advanced; the public debt has been paid off at a rate for which the whole world shows no precedent, and upon which we ourselves look with grateful admiration and amazement.

Our contemporary up the street affects to think that Mr. Beckman would have made a better race than Moody and with his little cotton handkerchief is wiping away a copious effusion of "crocodile" tears. This is the man, the daily recipient of personal favors from Mr. Beckman but who never yet omitted an opportunity to give him a stab, and he may as well understand that his slobbering sympathy is plainly recognized and taken at its real value, and if he had any perception he would see the point and perceive that it is not needed.

The "Democratic Times" got off its guard lately and doubted the "democracy" of the Lake county "Examiner" and there is music in the air. So far the "Examiner" has the best of it, intimating that the "democracy" of the "Times" is only sound when it is paid for.—Sail in brothers.

MR. FENTON'S SPEECH.

Last Saturday Hon. W. D. Fenton, Democratic nominee for Congress, addressed a large audience here. His subjects were the tariff and the Chinese question, the first a matter of policy about which there is a national division between the two parties; the last a question of local policy on this coast on which both parties are solidly united. Therefore: Mr. Fenton could present nothing new and only established a reputation as a very fair speaker but presented no satisfactory reason why the interests of Oregon would be better served by sending him to replace our present faithful representative at Washington. Mr. Fenton will find it difficult to reconcile his desire to protect labor from Chinese competition with his free trade or low tariff theories. There is a manifest inconsistency in any attempt to harmonize the two ideas. If we are to have free trade, or an exceedingly low tariff, the Chinese working in their own country could shut up every American workshop and might as well stay here and manufacture as to do it in China. It could hardly be expected of Mr. F. to settle the tariff question. It is the national puzzle, ever defying our wisest statesmen to find a true solution or to adjust it in perfect equilibrium and with fairness to all interests and sections. Mr. Fenton's own party is divided on the tariff question and so is Mr. George's so that: so far as the policy of a low or high tariff is concerned, Oregon would gain nothing by exchanging one man for the other. George was one of the ablest advocates of the anti-Chinese sentiment in Congress—no one worked harder than he and, as an opponent of servile labor, it is scarcely fair to assume that Mr. Fenton would be his superior and we do not believe that he makes any such claim. Mr. Fenton is a pleasant, gentlemanly speaker, avoiding personalities and may, in time, reach Congress, but to ask the voters of Oregon to send a representative to Congress, whose main recommendation is the ability to make promises, and recall one who has shown his ability to do solid service for the state, is asking what the people will hardly do. Mr. George had the ability to push himself into a position of great advantage to his state—evidenced by largely increased appropriations and the people would be a set of simpletons to push him out of it for a new man.

"Soft Solder."

The Democratic "Times" charges the SENTINEL with giving the Irish citizens of Jackson county "soft solder" in the hope of catching votes and adds: "We have too much confidence in the intelligence and manhood of its intended victims to think they will be caught with such 'sympathetic chaff.'" We are glad to say that the sage opinion of Irish intelligence ventured by our contemporary is quite correct and that there is no Irishman in Oregon so low in the scale of intelligence that he would be benefited, in the slightest degree, by the profoundest wisdom ever exhibited by the venerable editor of the "Times." The "Times" is the Democratic organ of Jackson county and it strikes us that its high estimate of "Irish intelligence" is of very recent birth. The Democratic party of Jackson county has been materially strengthened by the votes of "Irish citizens" but the instance has never been recorded when it placed an "Irish citizen" on its ticket for an office worth ten cents a year. On the contrary the Republican party twice honored Irish born citizens to office; those of School Superintendent and County Clerk (and the "Times" dare not say they were not creditably filled) and twice supported an Irish Catholic, Mr. P. Donegan for an office much sought after by the people of another alien race—the Treasurership—and given to them continuously for the past twelve years. The SENTINEL never bid for Irish voters but defended them from slander. Its editor is of Irish birth, not ashamed of it and always ready to speak for his people. If it is called "tally" it costs the Irish nothing—being partly a matter of self gratification—but the Irish citizens of Jackson county are beginning to learn that all the Democratic tally they get is paid for at a good round price in "cash" or the sacrifice of the "manhood" the "Times" has so lately discovered in them.

Our highly esteemed neighbor says "Mr. Fenton is the superior of Mr. George in every respect." This is too funny to make Mr. George cry and, paradoxical as it may appear, not funny enough to make Mr. Fenton laugh and, coming from the source it does, will hardly hasten our congressman's departure from Washington. Our neighbor is also sadly troubled at Mr. George's lack of success and asks "what has he done?" We will just answer: that he has procured double the appropriation ever given to Oregon before, and ten times more than she is entitled to according to the ratio of population and has done every thing he was asked to do for Southern Oregon. The "Times" can put this answer in its pipe and smoke it and then ask some hard question.
