court house.

When this paper appeared, we, of course, said no more about the matter. It now transpires, that the part of the editorial which contained the endorse ment of Day and Cook and a declaration favoring a court house did Nor appear in the edition of the "Times" which was sent to a large part of the country outside the vicinity of the county seat. The part of the editorial thus omitted appears in another column of this paper and we beg leave to commend it to those of our readers who may be interested in knowing the position of our enterprising though somewhat weak-kneed cotemporary. It will no doubt occur to many fair-minded persons as a very singular circumthe papers issued by the "Times." In are almost tempted to add one more to the questions already propounded to our neighbor, and to ask, Why is this, thusly? But we forbear. It may be that the editor, who is not very ready a sort of katydid, katydid'nt statechanged his MIND after some of his befallen it. We had intended to suggest to the "Times" that it might suc- liberal, though critical and discrimicessfully conciliate all interests and triumphantly straddle the question, by issuing two editions of its paper, one court house, and the other anti-court in the "Times" office-or something else-has forestalled the suggestion and the "Times" has shown that it needs no suggestions from anybody on the art of straddling, only it ought to have remembered the old adage, "Let not your right leg know what your left leg doeth,"-and more especially the SENTI-

As an example of journalistic enterprise in the difficult feat of straddling we commend to all editors who desire to inculge in such acrobatic performances, the "Times" "pie"bald edition of last week.

Murder.

In Pike county, Kentucky, there recently lived a young man named Mc-Loy. At an election held there a short time since a man named Chatfield, attempted to compel young McLoy to vote as he directed. To do this, he found it necessary to use a pistol, and McLey, in defending himself, killed Chatfield. Upon this, Chatfield's cronies banded together, captured Mc-Loy and two of his brothers, (who had taken no part in the row), took them into a neighboring woods, tied them all to one tree and shot each one through the head. Seldom has a more heartless, cold-blooded murder stained yet the people of Pike county appear to have taken no means to punish the THE LEGISLATURE.

The Legislature which assembled on by good work, the Democrats will be ready to claim a large share of the credit. If the contrary, the Republicans must expect to bear the full blame. There is a growing disposition on the part of many practical men of all parties, to look upon State Legislatures as neccessary nuisances. A sort of a periodical colic that the State must get through with, the best she can, but which at best, costs a good deal of nursing and attention, with the chances

We find among the stockholders of this company Alex Martin, J. T. Glenn, L. L. Bradbury and E. C. Sessions, all former residents of Jacksonville. The Oakland Home has recently deposited $50,000 in U. Fer, ry, White & Co. Policies will be issued and losses paid by this department, the same as if the head office ofthe company was located at Portland, thus making Oakland Home for all practical purposes an Oregon company. From official publications from the insurance department of California we extract the following information; "The Oakland Home" was the only company that had all of its losses paid up when the annual statement was filed January 1, 1882. To one acquainted with the history of the matter, it would be amistery why this building has been kept in use so long and thousands of dollars wasted in its repair. This court-house bugbear has haunted Jackson county a long time; but until now no board of County Commissioners has been called upon to settle the proposition. The same Commissioners who have solved this leading question decided negatively when it came up a year ago. But when the people spoke out last June and re-elected Robt. A. Cook upon an issue the anti-court house side had made themselves it became evident that the time had arrived for action. No one should be surprised now that a new court house has been decided upon and will be built immediately. As before stated, the temple of justice will be a neat, substantial structure. It will not be an expensive, flashy building, but just such a one as is needed. Neither will it cost $40, 000, as the "Tidings" says it should The expense will be fully one-third less and we are assured upon the best of authority that the taxes will not be raised a single iota by reason of it. Messrs. Day and Cook feel that they are voicing the will of a majority of the people and we are of the same orinion. They are acting conscientiously in the matter and for the best interests of all. Now criticised in some quarters, when the court house has been built and matters that are agitating their criticisers are dispelled, their course will be generally endorsed."
