HOUSE BILL No. 13.

PLAIN CHAP.—As you seem to talk pretty plainly on different subjects will you do a constant reader a favor by touching up the hoodlums, who are so common in this city. W.

Now, Mr. Hoodlum, you may consider yourself on the stand. You are a bad, worthless lay, and should be ashamed of yourself for the careless, selfish manner in which you live. There is nothing manly at all in the way in which you conduct yourself, you good for nothing fellow. Now, what earthly benefit did you ever derive from disturbing religious meetings? Does it do you any good to see the worthy par-tou of the Methodist church confused by your foolish antics. In San Francisco your brothers in hoodlums are known by the clothes they wear; their stiff brimmed hats and flanged pants give them away, and they steal with the impunity of a highway robber, that's a part of their business. You may not wear a stiff hat and a pair of flanged pants, but your actions give you away "all the same," and although you do not steal money and jewelry, you steal other people's comfort and happiness and peace of mind, which is just a bad.

Oh, you say, "boys will be boys." That is true, but it is no excuse for their being rowdies and hoodlums. One can be a boy and have a big enjoyable time while young, and still be manly and noble in his character. It is all right to have all the fun you can, but it is not right to make everybody about you uncomfortable and disagreeable, do you appreciate that fact? I am taking to quite a number in Albany, for I am sorry to say many of the boys in this city have got it in their heads that it is a fine thing to be a hoodlum, and make fun in public meetings, and hang round corners and insult people as they pass, and the like. But I know better. I would plant the seed for a dissipated, unreliable, unsuccessful life. It is all very well to talk about its being necessary to sow wild oats, but they never helped any one yet, and no one ever heard of their coming up wheat; they nearly always beget mere wild oats. Hoodlum men generally succeed hoodlum boys.

And now about the girls, I have been astonished at the number here who are genuine, out and out hoodlums. Lacking refinement, they are careless in their habits and take more pride than the boys in making those around them wretched. Just think of young ladies going around the streets insulting people. Yet there are several in this city who make a practice of it. They treat no one with respect, and what they are good for is a mystery to me, but I suppose some of them will grow into bad wives and others into worse ones, sometimes, perhaps, into better ones. Girls, for the sake of pure womanhood, stop it before you are ruined. It is as easy to be a lady as a hoodlum, and far better. I would rather be a cat bird or a hyena, and would think more of myself as a boa constrictor.

Young people, think of the contumely of being condemned by public opinion, of being looked upon with disgust by those around you. You can't afford it if you ever have any ambition to go into business, or get married, or if you even expect to live you should do something to merit the respect of yourself, if of no one else.—"Albany Democrat."

A traveler from abroad is telling a very amusing story. With his wife he sought for accommodation at a hotel near Geneva and found the place so full that he and madame had to be contented with a bed chamber improvised out of a bathroom. During the night the husband pulled a cord attached to the wall, which he supposed to be a bell rope. The immediate response was a terrible douche of cold water. The bed-drenched pair yelled for assistance and were speedily the cynosure of a highly amused crowd of guests and writers, attired in all sorts of costumes.

The Jacksonville Sentinel announces that its rooster is to sick to appear in public. Why not trot him out brother Krause; give him an airing and let him flap his wings; he will feel better and can crow louder in 1884. Give him a chance and you will find that "even though vanquished he can holler still."—"Curry County Post."

TRANSIT OF VENUS.—The transit of Venus across the sun's disk, according to the almanac men, will occur Dec. 6th. This is the last transit of Venus that will occur for two centuries, the next transit taking place on June 8th, 2004, which we do not expect to witness. At San Francisco and in most portions of the northwest, ingress will take place before sunrise. In all the Eastern States of the Union the whole transit will be visible from a little after 8 and 9:30 A. M. until 11:30 A. M. and 2:50 P. M., with middle of transit at noon, while on this coast, at San Francisco, the middle of transit will be at 8:59 A. M. and the egress at 11:42 A. M. the egress taking place over an hour before sunrise.

The "Oregonian" says that Dr. A. J. Nicklin, of Eugene, has accepted the position of physician at the insane asylum made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Notage, and will enter upon his duties at once. Dr. Nicklin has resided in Eugene for the past 8 or 10 years, establishing in that time an excellent reputation as a skillful physician. He is a brother of Dr. T. L. Nicklin of Portland.
