The lecture at the hall of the Champions of Honor last Monday night was well attended. John Boesen, the lecturer, placed the use of whisky and vaccination on the same footing as useless for its cure or prevention of disease and he presented a great deal of professional testimony as follows: 23,000 children who had been vaccionted die annually in London of the small pox and many who were robust and healthy, were never well after inoculation. A conquary of soldiers were vaccinated with matter taken from a Spanish girl and every one was soon afflicted with syphilis. Another company was vaccinated, some died and the rest of them had to be discharged on account of the same disease.

Give the animal much water to dring, and if chances of recovery are observed, 4 ounce doses of Mindererus's spirit, or solution of the acctate of ammonia, must be given every 4 hours. As the animal rallies, it may be desirable to admi-ister a mild purge of Epsom or Glauber salts. The local treatment consists in incisions into the awollen parts, care being taken that the joints are not penetrated. The incisions must be washed with the following lotion; Chloride of zine, 1 drachm; wa ter. 12 ounces; dissolve and apply with inen rag or lint, confining the moisture by gutta-percha or oil-silk. Treat nent is not often successful, but we have the facilities for prevention by deed draining, whereby many pasture lands have been rendered perfectly safe -after having repeatedly ruined tenant farmers-from destruction by black quarter. In some hill lands, where Irainage does not appear the cause, the ma adv may be prevented by giv ing to all the cattle on the farm a weekly dose of an ounce of nitre. The animals that thrive most rapidly should have the medicine rather more frequently, though not to such an extent as to reduce their condition.
