SPARE RIB.

The hog belongs to the pachyder-mata, and they pack a dear matter of him after he is killed.

The tail of the pig is insignificant, hardly big enough to hack a hog; but pigtail is tobacco nevertheless.

When I speak of pigmy, I do not refer to my pig, but to a pig of another color; that is to say, he is not the pigment.

It has been said that you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear; but for all that, a souse ear is not so bad. If we had a souse here, you should see for yourselves. As the ear cannot pursue you, however, let us not pursue the subject further.

Some parts of the animal are not usually consi lered good to eat, but I have known lots of people who could go the whole hog.

The whole hog, by the way, is not so big as the hogshead. 'Twas not a hog said this. He was too pig headed.

The hog is a porcine animal, and there are many poor seen where he is kept.

The man who takes care of him, though not necessarily a poor creature, is still a pork reacher.

The hog—I mean the four legged animal—does not smoke until after he is dead and he only does it then to save his bacon. Care must be taken that you do not get too much of a bake on.

The hog's head is sometimes called minister's face, but I cannot say why, and will therefore parson.

Hogs are sometimes fed on mast. Like the poor sailor, they don't get much to eat before the mast.

The tie which binds the pig to his home is the pigstye.

The hog gets very fat, but no matter how fat he is, you will always see him lean against something. Although he does not own his stye he has a lien on it.

He does not take fat evenly; he always has two spare ribs. This is not saying, mind, that he has two ribs to spare.

Although a hog is a hog, he never turns the cold shoulder to his benefactor during life.

The meanest kind of a hog is the two legged variety. It makes one almost bristle up to think of him.

He is not a pleasant subject for contemplation, and I will not bore you by describing him.

He is generally a poor shote. I need not attempt to show it to you.—"Boston Transcript."

A Miser's Strange Death.

The William H. Yost of Theresa, Jefferson county, who committed suicide in England recently, early in life formed a resolution to acquire a fortune of $100,000. He came of a family of means and had a good start in life as a farmer. When he had secured $70,000, some six years ago, he married a Miss Mitchell. She was well connected in every respect and worthy of any man, but, owing to Mr. Yost's resolution to get $100,000, he forced his family to live in the meanest and poorest way. His penuriousness and grasping ambition allowed his wife so few of the comforts of life that quarrels ensued; and when she found that she was not cared for she applied for a divorce.

The newspapers were filled with the Court proceedings and the scandal was in everybodys mouth. Judge and jury took the part of the wife and she got alimony amounting to a considerable sum for the support of herself and only child—a boy. To get clear of judgment and avoid paying the money her husband went to Canada, living most of the time at Kingston. He took with him $7,000 or $8,000 worth of drafts. It was his fatal mistake, for, instead of getting them cashed and carrying the money, he sent them back for collection. As soon as they reached the bank officers of the law seized them and applied them on the alimony. He then went to Europe, and the news of his suicide is the first intelligence his friends received from him.—"Troy Times."

TREATMENT OF SCIATICA.—This troublesome disorder may be often cured and greatly relieved by a resort to the Turkish bath; but as that is often out of reach of the patient, a good substitute may be found in very hot compresses. Wring out at night, before going to bed, a large towel wet in water as hot as can be emersed, and ferment the parts over the affected for half an hour. After the fermentation rub the parts vigorously with the hands, and cover with thick flannel for the night. Persevere with this treatment for several days, and the patient will generally be richly rewarded in a greater or less release from the trouble.

DR. SPINNEY

No. 11 Kearny Street,

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases.

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind of character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays, from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5. Call or Address
