

OREGON SENTINEL

JACKSONVILLE: SATURDAY, MARCH 29, 1884.

A call for a national convention of the Greenback Labor party has been issued and the time and place have been fixed as Indianapolis and the 28th of May.

San Francisco, March 21.—At the world's fair committee meeting last night, the secretary reported progress as follows: Petitions asking government aid to the amount of $2,000,000 have received 9000 signatures in thirteen days. With few exceptions, Governors of the respective states and territories have appointed commissioners where they have had power to do so, and where they have not such power the favorable attention of the legislature will be called to the matter.

The bill introduced in the senate for the admission of the State of Tacoma provides for the consolidation of the present territory of Washington and part of Idaho into a State, and its admission to the union, subsequent to its formation of State government and the adoption of a constitution by a convention of delegates representing the electors of the proposed State, to be held at Walla Walla, and ratification of the action of that convention at a special election, the electors to reside within the limits of the proposed State. It provides, however, that the admission shall not take place until after March 4, 1884.

Oregon has been a State for 25 years, and yet, says the Corvay county "Post," the Republican candidate for Congress was never from Southern Oregon. In this a political accident. Southern Oregon embraces half of the area of the State, and fully one half of our seaboard; yet there seems to be a charmed circle around it, inside of which a Republican need not aspire for a nomination to Congress. The people are beginning to ask if it is not time to do away with this charmed circle. There is an unwritten law of political reciprocity, which is becoming very plain to the people of this section. We have pulled so long in the very same harness that the traces are liable to break one of these days. Sugar plums and promises are very good while fresh, but they grow stale after a while. The interests of our seaboard and harbors, of our timber and mineral lands, of our coal fields, of our ship building and shipping interests, are of sufficient importance, compared with other interests of our State, as to warrant from us an occasional demand for proper representation in Congress. Let the Republicans of Southern Oregon press their claims this year, and they will certainly win, if there is as much generosity among Republicans in other sections as we have shown toward them; but if not we will have served a notice that our claims cannot always be ignored.

A Washington special to the "Press" gives an interview with Senator Sherman regarding the issues now before the Republicans. This is the first time Sherman has given his views for publication this year.

"What will be the vital issues of the canvass?" asked the interviewer.

"The tariff and the southern question. The attitude of the Democratic party upon the economic question, as well as the action of the present house, has clearly marked out the tariff as the leading issue, and the passage of the Morrison bill very sharply defines the standing of the two parties upon this question. The Republican party has a consistent record in favor of protection, and it was a mistake to have marred it by the reduction made in the bill passed by the last congress. Especially is this true of the attack made on the wool industry, in which a million of farmers are interested. The true Republican position is to stand firmly for protection, and leave tariff agitation to the Democracy."

Next to the tariff the southern problem will probably be the most important issue. This question must be boldly met, and the sooner the better. This year we will have a new phase of it. There will be an united south against the business as well as the political forces of the north. Despite their material interests they will follow a free trade president and party often against conviction because of their ambition to get control of the national administration. There is a strong protection sentiment in the south, but it will not appear in a presidential year, and that section will for a long time, perhaps always, be Democratic. I think there will be no difficulty in carrying Ohio this year—a good candidate can do it. I am in no sense a candidate, and would not make an effort for the nomination. A united and enthusiastic party is more important than one man. Hence I am for bending every energy for the first purpose and am not a candidate.

The New Book! "Our Famous Women."

Ever since it became known that twenty of the most distinguished women writers of our time had associated themselves together for the novel purpose of writing this book, it has been most eagerly anticipated and its appearance is now hailed with a degree of enthusiasm rarely accorded to any new book.

It gives a full and authentic account of the life history and life work of the following famous American women:—Louisa M. Alcott, Susan B. Anthony, Catherine E. Beecher, Clara Barton, Mary L. Booth, The Doctors Blackwell, Frances Hodgson Burnett, Rose Terry Cooke, Charlotte Cushman, Lydia Maria Child, Mary Clemmer, Mary Mapes Dodge, Margaret Fuller, Abby Hopper Gibbons, Julia Ward Howe, Clara Louise Kellogg, Mary A. Livermore, Lucy Larcom, Maria Mitchell, Lucretia Mott, Louise Chandler Moulton, Harriett Prescott Spofford, Elizabeth Peabody, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Mary Virginia Terhune ("Marion Harland"), Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Anne Whitney, and Frances E. Willard.

It is almost wholly a record of Self-Made Women. How did they make themselves? What is the secret of their success? What of their early struggles, their dark days of toil and privation, their heroism, patriotism, self-sacrifice, and devotion—what of the years of waiting before the goal was reached—what are the lights and shadows of their lives—what is the story beneath the glory? These questions are all fully answered in this new book. No one can fail to be thoroughly entertained, elevated, and emboldened by these inspiring narratives of women who have become great in their respective spheres, many of whom begin life in obscurity and poverty, earned their own living, faced opposition and persecution, braved dangers and risked their lives for duty and humanity, suffered loss of friends, standing, and money,—yet steadily rose to high position and world-wide glory by perseverance, hard work, and unflinching courage. The whole volume is full of Romantic Story, Lively Humor, True Faith, Brilliant Wit, Anecdotes, Incidents, etc., and is replete with personal Reminiscences and Experiences.

"From grave to gay, from misery to merriment, no part of which has ever before been given to the public. An already stated, this great work is the joint production of TWENTY of the most distinguished writers of our day. Their names are: Harriet Beecher Stowe, Rose Terry Cooke, Harriett Prescott Spofford, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Mary Clemmer, Marion Harland, Kate Sanborn, Louise Chandler Moulton, Mary Livermore, Lucy Larcom, Lucia Gilbert Runkle, Elizabeth Blackwell, Elizabeth Peabody, Elizabeth M. Atwood, Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Susan Douglas Howe, Laura Curtis Ballard, Lillian Whiting, Elizabeth Bryant Johnston, Elizabeth T. Spring, and Maria Howa. The combination of the talent and labors of TWENTY such women—queens of living American writers—for the production of a single volume, is a remarkable enterprise, and one deserving the hearty support of the public.

As might be expected this magnificent volume is meeting with an enormous sale, and agents are reaping a harvest. We do not begrudge success to book agents who introduce a work of such sterling merit as this. We believe that the best way to keep out poor books is to introduce good ones, and we know not when seven hundred pages of reading have given us more real pleasure than has the perusal of "Our Famous Women."

Of the many splendid portraits which adorn the book too much cannot be said in praise. Although the names of these famous women are known the world over, most of their faces are now for the first time presented to the public. No better evidence of the high character of the volume need be given than the fact that these distinguished women sat for special photographs to be used in this work alone.

We advise our readers to buy "Our Famous Women" at the first opportunity. It is not a book merely for a day, or for any one class of people; it is a thoroughly standard work for all. Let every father, every mother, in fact, let everybody buy and read it. Put it into your homes. Let your children have it. It will be read over and over again. You can, in our opinion, much better afford to dispense with a dozen other books than not possess this. Once begun it will not willingly be laid aside till the last page is finished. It is sold only by subscription through canvassing agents, and we are glad to know that an agent will soon canvass this neighborhood for it. Give the book a hearty welcome.

The strength of the Republican protective doctrine was well proved in the recent election of a successor to Congressman Haskell of Kansas. The district composed one-fifth of the vote of the State, and the fight was a square fight of protection against "revenue reform." On the side of protection the Republicans were alone; ranged on the free trade side were Democrats, Greenbackers and Knights of Labor, yet the Republican candidate was elected by more than 5000 majority. The New Orleans "Picayune" points out that this will be the spectacle presented on a large scale throughout the country if the Democrats persist in making their fight on revenue-reform ground.

Interesting To Farmers. ROCK POINT, Jackson Co., Or., Jan. 26th, 1884. D. M. Osborne & Co. Portland, Oregon: Gentlemen.—I bought one of the Osborne No. 11 Twine Binding Harvesters for the harvest of 1883, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all farmers, for it gives perfect satisfaction in cutting and elevating the grain, and in binding it. It is the "boss." The more I use it the better I like it. The expense of harvesting with the Osborne No. 11 is less than heading or reaping.

Yours truly, G. W. LANGR. ASHLAND, Or., Jan. 25, 1884. D. M. Osborne & Co. I bought one of your No. 8 Independent self-rake Reapers this last harvest. It did the out of work I ever saw done with any reaper. I cut some green oats hay, which was the heaviest work I ever saw done with a reaper. I raked off bunches that would weigh a hundred pounds.

THINK OF IT NOW! Although much is said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it is possible that the subject has never seriously claimed your attention. Almost every person has some form of venereal poison latent in his system. When this develops in Scrophulous Sores, Ulcers, or Erysipeloid in the form of Sycosis, or Organic Disease, the suffering that ensues is terrible. It is the only medicine that cures these diseases, and cures them quickly.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla will thoroughly eradicate this evil from the system. As well except life without this Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "Orville, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1882.—Having been subject to a bronchial affection, with frequent coughs, for a number of years, I hereby certify that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL gives me prompt relief, and is the most effective remedy I have ever tried."
