

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President, James G. Blaine, of Maine. For Vice President, John A. Logan, of Illinois. Nominees for Presidential Electors, D. P. THOMPSON, of Multnomah, WARREN TRUITT, of Polk, J. C. LEASURE, of Umatilla.

The Coming Campaign.

We appreciate the fact that the coming campaign will be carried on an unscrupulously by the Democratic party as the two preceding ones were and there is work for every Republican paper to do. Already the opposition have begun to flood the country with sensational dispatches, representing that there is great dissatisfaction in the Republican party east and especially in Massachusetts and New York over the nomination of Blaine and Logan. Of course we have anticipated everything of that sort, and shall not try to refute the idle and silly stories set afloat by these political schemers. Their managers seem to be in sore straits as to who shall be the Democratic candidate. They have urged Tilden to accept the nomination with an eye single to the amount of money he would be likely to bring into the contest and the influence he might have in the State of New York. So far the old man, who is evidently in his dotage, has neither accepted nor declined positively and seems to be swayed about in the hands of the party without much will of his own and is evidently utterly unfit for the position. Tilden does not seem to enjoy the "glory of defeat" and is certainly reluctant to let his name be used again while he seems equally as willing to relinquish his last chance for the Presidency, and just now it would be rather hard to determine who will be the next Democratic sacrifice. It will doubtless be hard to find men willing to accept the nominations with inevitable defeat staring them in the face. Blaine and Logan are satisfactory to the Republican party and in a fair and honorable contest can be elected easily, but we must not forget the campaigns of '76 and '80 and that one success will depend upon the united and earnest effort of our party.

The pious edition of our contemporary says that our explanation of the appointing of bailiffs by the Circuit Judge is quite lame and does not satisfy the people—which we suppose, of course, means the Nickel-plated side of the house. To satisfy our neighbor and "the people" we publish the law in full and it will be found on page 282 section 866 of the code: Each circuit court has the power to appoint a crier and such number of bailiffs as may be necessary for the term. The legal fees of such crier, bailiffs or other officer of the court for attendance thereon, shall be ascertained by the court and directed to be paid by an order thereof, and not otherwise. Upon the presentation of a certified copy of such order to the proper officer of the county wherein such court is holden, it shall be the duty of such officer to draw his warrant on the treasurer of such county, for the amount therein specified. The bailiffs this term received $4 per diem, more than some others have drawn heretofore, although the same amount was allowed, and possibly that where the shoe pinches.

A peregrinating medical laboratory has been doing the town this week. It consists of vocal and instrumental music and is under the management of Dr. McConkey, manufacturer of a well-known compound called Vigor of Life. The Dr. is a man very much after the style of Geo. Francis Train with the splendid physique of Henry Ward Beecher and the massive proportions of a New York alderman, all of which he claims is the result of a habitual use of the Vigor of Life which is sufficient recommendation for the medicine. The musical repertoire consisting of one lady and two gentlemen is very good and as the performance is free it has been extensively patronized and therefore we cheerfully recommend it.

The "Times" says "the people have endorsed the policy of this paper." The way prominent democrats are endorsing the policy of his paper is by ordering it discontinued at once. He says that three copies have been discontinued. Now if the reader will let 30 represent the unknown quantity (the number of pieces for which Julius betrayed his master) he will have about the correct amount and a fair illustration of the motive that prompted Mr. N. to betray his party.

Can Win Without it.

There is a great bluster and fuss on about Wall street, New York, over the nomination of Mr. Blaine by the Chicago convention, while all the rest of the Republicans in the United States except, a few aristocratic blokes at the Hub, are correspondingly enthusiastic and well pleased. The New York "Times" and George William Curtis of "Harper's Weekly" are the mouth-pieces of these growlers, for pay. It is not a matter of principle; hence, when the cause which prompts the editorials in these journals is known to the country, they will have but little effect. These Wall street fellows know that with Mr. Blaine as president, there is going to be mighty little chance for them to work through so many of their nefarious schemes to plunder the treasury and fleece the unsuspecting people by fluctuating markets. For a steady nerve and honest heart at the head of state often averts these calamities.

One great difficulty is that there is more corruption in political parties in New York city than in all the balance of the Union. It is not so much a matter of parties with the average New Yorker as it is men. They all look at the election of a president through their money. If they get the man nominated for president in either party that they can use, as above the nominee in the other party, they vote for him regardless of party affiliation, the interests of the government or the common people never entering into their minds. Like the Oakland "Vidette" we are one of those who believe that James G. Blaine can be elected in the face of the opposition of the New York "Times," George William Curtis, Thos. Nast, the Wall street sharks and money kings, and eastern dudes, and even without the aid of New York, for that matter. The great heart of the American people goes out to this leader of leaders—this true type of American manhood—and he no doubt will be overwhelmingly elected. Money cannot check the enthusiasm of the people.

Butler's Views on the Political Situation.

NEW YORK, June 17.—General Butler, according to the "Sun" says: "The battle ground is New York. The Republicans who voted for Cleveland in 1882 will now go back to Blaine, so it would seem to be unwise for the Democracy to count on that vote for carrying the state of New York. That this vote is not to be depended upon by the Democratic governor who was so triumphantly elected is seen by the fact that the next year, when the governor caused his friend to be nominated for secretary of state, the leading office on the ticket (Maynard), he was defeated by some 30,000 votes, while the rest of the Democratic ticket was elected, making a decided change in one year."

Butler doubted greatly if anybody could carry New York against so great a man as Blaine, and continued: "Success at the coming election is an indispensable necessity, for failing to carry the election this year gives four more years of power to the Republican party, and under bold and daring leadership, great patronage, large resources, and the agile policy of the man who has shown more political sagacity, and who, by his unaided efforts, has wielded more political power than any man of the present generation,—the party will so trench itself in the possession of the government that it hold upon the nation cannot be overthrown, in this generation at least. When it is it will be done by some new party."

"More Persecution."

The "Times" calls our paper the snut-mill, which is very appropriate, for we have been grinding a very dirty grist lately consisting of the "Times" double edition, bake shop, script brokerage, and all, and it is a rusty old mess, but it has got to go through if it ruins the mill, for the people want the thing ground up and the snut-mill has got the contract to do the work and it don't intend to light up.

The "Times" goes and accuses us of influencing the grand jury to find an indictment against Sheriff Jacobs. Now of course we never suspected that people thought we had so much influence. Why we are almost tempted to go and issue a "double edition" this week.

Tilden is the slyest con of them all, knowing that he could not be elected President with Blaine as his opponent he positively declines the nomination. That's right, Sammy, save your bar, and besides people would commence calling you an indiscreet young man.

For lame back side or chest use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Brook keeps it.

The increase in the voting strength of states, and the tendency, as in the Garfield canvass, to an almost an evenly divided vote, makes a national election not only impressive, but a source of anxiety to prophets who realize that a narrow margin divides the parties. The popular vote in 1880 aggregated 9,210,970. About 300,000 votes were cast for other candidates than Garfield and Hancock. In a total of nearly 9,000,000 Garfield's plurality over Hancock was 7018. The popular vote in 1882 showed a Democratic plurality of 581,970, the aggregate being about 100,000 less than that of the two years before. These figures seem enormous compared with those of early elections. For example, in 1828 Jackson had 647,097, or together scarcely more than the vote of New York in 1880. In the famous Harrison campaign of 1840 the whole vote was little above 2,400,000, or less than the combined vote of New York, Pennsylvania and Indiana at the last Presidential election.

Osborne Machinery.

Interesting To Farmers. Rock Point, Jackson Co., Or., Jan. 26th, 1884. D. M. Osborne & Co., Portland, Oregon: Gentlemen.—I bought one of the Osborne No. 11 Twine-Binding Harvesters for the harvest of 1883, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all farmers, for it gives perfect satisfaction in cutting and elevating the grain, and in binding it. It is the "boss." The more I use it the better I like it. The expense of harvesting with the Osborne No. 11 is less than heading or reaping. Yours truly, G. W. LANCE.

ASHLAND, Or., Jan. 25, 1884. D. M. Osborne & Co. I bought one of your No. 8 Independent self-rake Reapers this last harvest. It did the best of work I ever saw done with any reaper. I cut some green oats hay, which was the heaviest work I ever saw done with a reaper. I raked off bunches that would weigh a hundred pounds. Yours truly, BENNETT MILLION. WARRANTY.
