

OREGON SENTINEL.

JACKSONVILLE

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1885.

United States Senators from Oregon from 1859 to the present time are as follows: Joseph Lane, Delazon Smith, Edward D. Baker, B. Hardin, J. W. Nesmith, Resj. Stark, Geo. H. Williams, H. W. Corbett, James K. Kelly, John H. Mitchell, L. F. Grover, James H. Slater and J. N. Dolph.

Mrs. Sarah Althea Sharon's lawyers are in a wonderful state of exaltation over the result of the trial. It is anticipated that the case will be appealed, but pending the appeal they expect to divide among themselves $100,000 in the shape of fees, while Mrs. Sharon will pocket $65,000 as back alimony and $5,000 a month for three years as additional alimony until a decision is reached on the appeal.

The San Francisco "Chronicle" says the appropriation of $150,000 for the break water at Port Orford is to be utilized. Work is to be commenced on it next spring under the superintendence of Captain Charles F. Powell of the United States corps. When this is finished, with the railroad connecting Port Orford with Roseburg, which is to be commenced at the same time, the Columbia river will be deprived of her shipping trade, as the deep water ships will all go to Port Orford.

The Mortgage Tax Law is receiving a general overhauling at the hands of the press of the State, and although opinions differ as to its merits, it is quite apparent that the law has had a different effect from what was expected and is detrimental to the farmers, who generally condemn it. Some of the members of the legislature who favored its passage now favor its repeal, claiming as a reason that after talking with their neighbors they find that a large portion of them are damaged instead of benefited thereby.

Palmer, one of Michigan's Senators, who has an income of $195,000 a year, is said to have purchased a charm in early youth to which he attributes much of his luck. This charm was made in Paris and secured by young Palmer during his three years' wanderings in Spain, where he so injured his feet with long tramps that he has been able to wear only cloth shoes since. He said the other day that life was almost wholly made up of illusions. "The happiest man," said he, "is the one who has the most illusions. There are only three real substantial things that you can get out of life, and the man who has those at the required intervals are as well off as the richest. The three realities are a full stomach, a good suit of clothes and a bed to sleep in. Everything else belongs to the realm of illusions."

The New York Sun remarks: We record the fact with pleasure, and we congratulate the Messrs. Harper. Their weekly journal, which appeared yesterday, was entirely free from the usual political articles. It shows how charming an elegant periodical illustrating the events and the art progress of the day may be made to appear. Yes, the mercenary Harpers, now that the time for renewal of subscriptions has come, would sing you as sweetly as sucking doves. They have abused Republicans and the Republican party for six months, with all the villainy and versatility of accomplished and compensated malignity. Now, remember that nine out of ten of the subscribers of their weekly and two-thirds of the subscribers to all their publications are Republicans, they would love to suck politics and catch all their old subscribers for renewal.

Jay Gould is represented as saying that business is depressed for various reasons: "One is that we pass through just such periodical depressions at least every ten years. At such times it is to be expected stocks will go below their normal value. Again, the season about the period of a presidential election is always one of despondency. The prospects of a change of administration cause a great many enterprises to hesitate. Business men are uncertain as to the policy of any incoming administration and they fear to make ventures. This feeling of apprehension, I believe, however, is passing away." When asked if he thought the outlook for business was encouraging:

"Most certainly, I do." I believe that after the 1st of January we shall begin a new era. I think that the year 1885 will be a money making year. The balance of the trade of the world is in our favor. Foreign nations are buying more of us than we are buying of them. They are paying us the difference in hard gold coin. Millions of this reach us on every incoming steamer.

JACKSONVILLE, Or., Jan. 3, 1885.

EDITOR SENTINEL:—The last issue of the "Times" contained a letter from Judge DePeat of Ashland who seems to be awaiting somewhat about two certain telegrams and your comments upon them that appeared in last week's SENTINEL. I have only this to say about them, that I suppose that Mr. Eubanks meant the contents of his telegram to me and I know that I meant every word of the answer, and as to your comments upon them which seems to so disturb the Judge, I would simply say that they were true. The Judge says in his letter "the County Court has never refused to allow any legal fees that Mr. Kent is entitled to." This assertion is substantially false and is intended to convey the idea to the public that I have been demanding illegal fees to be allowed by Judge DePeat's court, which is also utterly false. I never asked or demanded any illegal fees from the county at the hands of Mr. DePeat's court, and I would ask Judge DePeat to stand up before the people and answer this question: Does not the record of your court disclose the fact that in the November term of said court, in the case of the State vs. Richard Davis, charged with rape, allow me only two dollars and fifty cents as District Attorney fees when I was justly entitled to five dollars, according to your letter published in the "Times"? And is it not a further fact that you, after the will being certified up to your court for allowance by Justice Foudray of this place, that you erased five dollars and placed two dollars and fifty cents instead, the same being the item of District Attorney fees? And in the face of this fact how can you justify yourself before the public in making an assertion which contradicts your own record? Of course your excuse will be that when you made this statement you had forgotten about wrongfully disallowing my legal fees. As to the reason why I took certain matters before the Grand Jury at its last session for investigation, that was a matter of duty and not prejudice, which in the future I will fully explain.

T. B. KENT.

The deliberations and judgments of a miner's meeting in the early days on this coast, though not conducted according to the rules of the courts, were in a majority of cases just. The judgments were based on the same ground as a bar at Somer's diggings, and a miner's meeting was called to settle the matter in the usual way. At the time appointed the miners assembled at a grocery to hear the parties and meet out justice. After the meeting was called to order, one of the claimants arose and stated his case and sat down. The other claimant, who was standing near the bar, made a short statement of his case and proposed to divide the house, and put the question himself, saying, "all who think that 'Coarsegold' ought to have the claim will please step to the other side of the room, and all who believe that I have the best claim to the bar, will step this way," and turning to the barkeeper, carelessly dropped a twenty on the counter, and told him to "set out the stuff." The verdict was unanimous against "Coarsegold," as all present stepped up to the bar and indulged. One of the party after emptying his glass, turned to the defeated claimant and said: "Pshaw Coarsegold, you're best, come up and take a drink like a man, and let the matter drop." "Coarsegold" did as requested, and gave up all claim to the ground in dispute. The successful claimant is now a County Judge in Oregon, but does not meet out justice the same as did the meeting at Somer's diggings in his case.—Gold Beach Gazette.

Raising Corn.

For some time past, corn has been on this market selling readily at $1.40 per hundred. The kernels are large, and when it is cooked properly is very palatable, approaching the famous Eastern article. Inquiry develops the fact that it came from the vicinity of Jacksonville, where several enterprising farmers planted a few acres, more as an experiment than anything else. Encouraged by the quality of their production, many farmers in the valley will sow corn next spring instead of wheat, which will be beneficial in many ways. If they go into hog raising at the same time they will always have plenty of food to feed their swine, eventually establishing a port-packing establishment in this State, thus shutting out the importation of hams, shoulders, etc., from the East, and also by planting alternate crops of corn and wheat, the soil can be saved from impoverishment which always follows when the soil is only used to grow one sort of cereal.—Northwest News.

A Portland gentleman, says the News, who has been spending several months in Southern Oregon, says there is a disposition on the part of farmers to divide their big and unwieldy farms and dispose of enough land to pay their debts and begin life anew. This feeling is more prevalent than ever, and there is but little doubt the matter will take active shape this spring. The farmers of Oregon have been bowed down with debt for many years, and now feel that life would be more enjoyable if the burden were lifted from their shoulders. There is room in Southern Oregon for half a million more people, and the coming spring should see thousands of newcomers seeking homes in that section of this rich State.
