Piles! Piles! Piles!

A SURE CURE FOUND AT LAST!
NO ONE NEED SUFFER!

A sure Cure for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. William (an Indian Remedy), called Dr. William's Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 or 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Licious instruments and electricities do more harm than good. William's Ointment absorbs the humor, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed) acts as a poultice, gives instant relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and for nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry of Cleveland says about Dr. William's Indian Pile Ointment: I have used scores of Pile Cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. William's Indian Ointment. For sale by all druggists or mailed on receipt of price, $1.00.

TUTT'S PILLS
TORPID BOWELS,
DISORDERED LIVER,
and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the disease of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels constive, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Irritability, aversion to food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Bots before the eyes, Highly colored urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. Analytical chemists have shown that TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt, removing all impurities through these organs "sweepers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular action of skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect cure for MALARIA.

Reminiscences of Public Men.

Sherrard Clemens, of the Wheeling District of Virginia, was the first Southern representative who spoke boldly against secession. He proved to the Unionists that their scheme was long since matured, and would embrace the opening of the African slave trade, and consequent destruction of all the interests of Virginia in slavery. He quoted all the abolitionists, English and American, upon the secessionists, showing both to be working to the same end, the dissolution of the American Union. He showed how the suicide of slavery was being precipitated, and its grave dug by the very men who had withdrawn from Congress to protect it more effectually. He told the South that if they fought till the last armed foe expired, they could never expect from the North the same guarantees for slavery enjoyed under the existing constitution. The speech was full of gems. It was nervous and energetic in manner, brave, incisive, at times terribly sarcastic and surcharged with earnestness and power. Coming from the source it did, it fell on the House and thronged galleries like a thunderbolt. All Union men thanked God and breathed easier, while among disunionists was great wrath. His merciless invective, when he showed up the secessionists as playing directly into the hands of the abolitionists and all the enemies of free government all over the world, was a most bitter dose for some of them. Many Virginia and Kentucky members were very reticent and tried to conceal their chagrin by loud laughing, talking and marching about the hall. Some fled totally, imitating the example of the secessionists. Clemens charged them with cowardly treason to the common interests of the slave-holding States. He paid a beautiful tribute to Mr. Adams on the floor for seeking means to harmonizing difficulties. On the whole, it was the brilliant speech delivered in the House of the session, and it produced great excitement and admiration in an immense audience.

Emerson Ethridge, of Tennessee, seconded Mr. Clemens a few days afterwards. He was then about forty years of age, tall and well formed, with a face expressive of firmness, and all solid and manly qualities. A lawyer by profession, he had a mind of great natural shrewdness, and the manner in which he parried the thrusts of those who interrupted his speech, evinced the possession of rare coolness, quickness and skill. His speech, although totally different in matter and style from that of Mr. Clemens, was aimed at the same mark, and was a most powerful plea for the Union as it was a few short weeks before. Mr. Ethridge was more logical than Mr. Clemens, his speech was much better arranged and more effective although less ornamented with the graces of rhetoric. There was a certain rugged, homely force and a common sense grasp of the theme and facts relative to it, which were not so conspicuous in Mr. Clemens. These qualities, together with intense earnestness of manner, and an occasional burst of genuine eloquence, carried the House and the audience with him from the start, and it was quite impossible to repress the hearty applause which several times broke spontaneously forth.

Ethridge had got about half through his speech when a thin, piping voice proceeded from a weazen-faced little man, in a shrill tone demanded, "Will the gentleman allow me to ask him on which side he is speaking?" The interruption came from Lake of Virginia, one of the border State disunionists. The answer of Mr. Ethridge was a clincher. "I am speaking on a side which has few advocates on this floor, the side of my country." The noble, exalted tone and emphasis in which this was uttered, rang through the hall and afforded a strange contrast to the shrill, piping accents of the questioner. Mr. Lake asked no more questions and the audience gave almost a shout of applause.

Owen Lovejoy, the rampart Illinois "abolitionist," followed Mr. Ethridge. He was a man of considerable brains and a good deal of body; and his style of utterance was of the hyper intense school. He began his speech at the top of a voice of most prodigious compass, and kept on in the same key, which it was a mild description to characterize as a roar. When some waggish member on the Southern side cried "Leuder," the effect upon the audience was convulsing. There stood Lovejoy, with his coat off and his collar open, his big, bushy head thrown back like a lion at bay, and brandishing his arms aloft, while his whole body rocked and quivered with excitement, hurling his denunciations, not at the slave power this time, but at the secessionists. His tremendous voice rang through the hall like the peal of a trumpet, and when he rose, as he sometimes did, to a strain of real eloquence, in describing the insults to our flag, it was truly fine to hear. The speech was wholly different from what had been expected of Lovejoy. He confined himself chiefly to the question of union and disunion, and made an intensely patriotic speech.

A revolting tragedy occurred at Shaw's island, in San Juan county, W. T., on the 2d inst. Jas. Barker had gone from his home at Friday harbor for a hunt on the island, and when he did not return after a lapse of ten days, Sheriff John Kelly of San Juan county organized a party to search for the missing man. They arrived at the cabin of one Hught Parks, an eccentric individual, living opposite Friday harbor. They were refused entrance to the house, and even a drink of water. The sheriff then went to Friday harbor and swore out a warrant for Parks' arrest, on the ground of insanity. The men then formed an ambush and watched the cabin. After some time Parks was seen to emerge, dragging the body of a dead man, which was afterwards found to be that of missing Jas. Barker. Parks again secured himself in the cabin. This took place on the 30th of January. For three days thereafter the cabin was closely watched, and a view of life being visible within in, Wilbur Wilson, one of the men, volunteered to enter the cabin, but on finding the door unlocked, he became frightened and ran back to his comrades. Again he approached the cabin and attempted to enter, but as he stepped into the doorway, the crazy man shot him through the head. The sheriff and his posse waited no longer, but at once saturated a ball of hay with coal oil and rolled it to the cabin, where it was fired and the cabin burnt to the ground. A second shot was fired inside the cabin, but it is not known whether Parks shot himself or shot at the men. His charred body was afterwards found in the ruins of the cabin.

WORTH HER WEIGHT IN GOLD.
Mrs. Jose Castro, an aged Mexican lady, now residing at American Flag, in the Santa Catalina mountains, says an exchange, is perhaps the only woman who, literally speaking, ever cost her husband her weight in gold. It is said that in the early gold digging days of California she was a resident of Sonora, in which State she was born and grew to womanhood. When about the age of seventeen a paternal uncle, but a few years her senior, returned with his companions, gold laden from the El Dorado of the West, and became desperately enamored of her. He sought her hand in marriage and was accepted, but the Church refused, because of the near relationship existing between them, to solemnize the marriage. Persuasion being in vain, he tried the power of gold to win the Church his way and succeeded only by the payment of her weight in gold. She at the time weighed 117 pounds; against her in the scales the glittering dirt was shoveled. The affianced husband still had sufficient of this world's goods to provide a comfortable home, and they were married. They lived happily together and she bore to her husband eleven children. In the course of years he died and she married again. Mr. Castro being her second husband. The above is fact and not a fiction, as living witnesses can prove.

The latest dodge in the betting line is for girls to bet kisses with the young men. There is something unsatisfying about this kind of a bet. Both sides are willing to pay if they lose, and there is no danger of a quarrel over a false count.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—John Kelly who has been at Rockaway beach, for his health, not being benefited, returned to the city to night. His condition is said to be critical.

Cleveland's Surrender.

It seems to be generally agreed that Mr. Cleveland has definitely determined to give the South the two positions in his Cabinet that the Democrats of that section demanded—the Departments of Justice and the Interior. A more decided announcement of his subservience to that section of his party the President elect could not make. All the laws are hereafter to have a Southern interpretation. This, of course, includes all the reconstruction acts. The whisky moonshiners may hereafter expect lenient treatment, for the officers of justice will receive their instructions from a sympathetic source. The vast patronage of the Interior Department will be dispensed by a southern gentleman thoroughly acquainted of the fact that heretofore his section of the country has not enjoyed its full measure of patronage, and hence must be allowed to even up, as it were, by getting rather more than its share under the present administration. There are no two departments of the Government which can be more easily prostituted to base party uses. That they will be made wholly subservient to the interests of the Southern Democracy, to protect and encourage them in their efforts to wholly suppress any and all manifestations of Republicanism in that part of the country is very apparent to all who are in the least conversant with Democratic methods and practices. Were Mr. Cleveland to name a Southern man for either the State, War, Navy or Treasury Departments, his opportunities for special service to the Southern States would be limited. But in the Departments of the Interior and Justice, Southern men will be omnipotent for mischief, if they are so disposed. The consent of Mr. Cleveland to these demands may very appropriately be designated "Cleveland's Surrender."

zencorata the people of the country may expect to see the Government administered almost entirely by the people who sought to destroy it. The reactionary movement has been crowned with success. The apotheosis of the rebellion has set in. Loyalty and treason are subverted terms, meaning the reverse of what has been heretofore understood.

CHINESE RIOT IN EUREKA.—A Chinese riot broke out in Eureka, Humboldt county, last Friday night, between rival companies that have been warring for several months. During the firing that followed, David Kendall, one of Eureka's best citizens, and a member of the City Council, was shot dead by a stray bullet, while passing through the street. Intense excitement followed. A meeting was immediately called at Conventual Hall, and a committee appointed to notify the Chinese to leave the city within twenty-four hours. The quarters were visited and notice given to the Chinamen, who commenced to pack their goods at once, and there was great activity going on in their preparation to leave. A scaffold has been erected in front of their quarters, from which a rope dangle. The committee reported to a citizens' meeting that they had performed their duty, and a resolution was adopted that all the Chinamen be placed in the large warehouse of the steamships City of Chester and Humboldt, and there guarded until the steamers sail, they being unavoidably detained on account of the shifting of the channel on the bar. The city is full of people, and a breach of the peace is liable to occur at any moment, though good citizens are using every endeavor to prevent it. Nothing short of a clear sweep of the Chinese will prevent bloodshed. There are about 300 Chinamen, all told, in the city, 200 of whom are located on one block. —"Yreka Journal."
