

It is said that no one can live comfortably in Washington and keep house and maintain any sort of social footing upon less than $5,000. There is a fine chance for Jeffersonian sin-plicity to take hold in the Capital City.

One of the funny bills in the California Assembly is one which gives to any young man under twenty-one years of age, who learns a trade by serving an apprenticeship for three years and is a moral young man, $250 out of the State Treasury.

Henry N. Copp, the Lead and Pension Attorney of Washington, D. C., sends us the "U. S. Salary List and Civil Service Law," price 50 cents. This is perhaps the cheapest form in which this desired information has been published. Of course every Democrat in the land expects to get an extra cent and this little book is just what they need.

Becher once more comes to the front as an advocate for the coolie. He finds fault with Cleveland's address because of its plain statement that the Chinese Restriction Act would be enforced rigorously. Becher, since the days when he declared that a workman ought to be contented with $1 a day, has been the special pleader for the Chinese. It is a singular commentary of the man's moral decline that the eloquent advocate of the emancipation of the slave should now be the defender of the introduction of a slavery more servile and repulsive than the South ever knew.

To settle the disputed question Governor Moody should call a special session of the Legislature to elect a United States Senator and whoever should be the successful man would be a Republican and hold for a term of six years. If the Governor appoints, the Senator's term will expire with the meeting of the next Legislature, and will only be in office less than two years. The general opinion is that the Governor fears calling an extra session on account of the blame falling on Republican shoulders. While the blame could rightfully be located there it seems to us the shortest road out of the mire. Call an extra session, let every man that has aspirations in that direction present his claims and then

The Washington Monument has the distinction of being the highest spire in the world. It is in round numbers 557 feet in altitude above sea level. It is chiefly built of granite, faced with white marble. The shaft is 55 feet 1 1/2 inches square at the base, walls 15 feet thick, and 34 feet 5 1/2 inches square at the top, where the walls are 1 1/2 feet thick. There is a central well 25 feet square. The total weight of the monument is 81,000 tons. It is situated in certain engineering quarters that the foundations of the structure are insufficient, and if not soon attended to, the monument will be likely to fall. The condition of the foundation forms a good subject for examination and discussion, and we trust it will receive attention by all who are qualified to judge of the matter.

According to the Chicago "News" the President has outlined his policy concerning appointments: "Appointments will be made only as places become vacant, and vacancies will occur only by expiration of the term for which the present holder was appointed, or by removal, which in every case will be for good cause, to be proved by the presentation of charges and specifications backed by evidence such as would be accepted in a court of law. When appointments are to be made Democrats will, of course, be selected. As to removals for cause, it is undoubtedly safe to say that those public officers who have made notorious use of their places for partisan purposes will be first to go. The new administration will hasten to restore them to private life as soon as charges against them are proved, and to appoint their successors."

The Oklahoma region from which settlers were lately driven by the United States troops, is a tract of land extending from the Red river in the Indian Territory to the Kansas line, and contains about 14,000,000 acres. It is represented as of remarkable fertility, well watered and timbered. It was purchased in 1866 of the Creek, Cherokee, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Seminole Indians, with a view to settling freedmen upon it. It is said that none of the purchase money has been paid, while the land was to remain in the possession of the Indians until paid for. Stock men have grazed their herds upon it for years without molestation. The "boomers" claim that if it is open for the use and occupation of the stockmen, it is not right that any citizen shall be allowed to make settlement upon it. Congress will probably complete the purchase and authorize settlement.

The New Liquor Law

We learn from Senator Siglin, says the Coolie "News," that the law, as published, is not the law as it finally passed. The bill was introduced by Keady, the speaker of the House, and it was the bill of the Christian Temperance Union. It passed the House as introduced, the Republicans voting for it solid. In the Senate, section 7, of the original bill, was stricken out by Senator Simon's amendment, and the provision that the "petition, together with the signatures," be published four weeks, was amended by Siglin, by striking out "together with the signatures," hence the signatures need not be published. Section 1 was also amended by Siglin, by inserting "in quantities less than one gallon." The law does not apply to incorporated towns, except as to the amount to be paid for the license; the mode of procedure is regulated by the town as heretofore. In the law as passed, there appears to be a fatal defect, in that, it does not provide a penalty in case of the failure to take out a license at all. All the penalties are by civil action on the bond; but suppose no bond is given, or no license taken out, then they shall be indicted, but the law appears to provide no penalty if a conviction follows: It looks as if the law practically meant free whisky for the next two years. If the above opinion, or rather suggestions are correct, it is rather a good joke on the Christian Temperance Union, although one not appreciated by the people. On one point there is no doubt, the law as passed, is constitutional, and the old law is repealed. The Sunday feature of the law is good, and it does not make the sale of liquor on Sunday any more illegal than it was before, as any saloon keeper has been liable to indictment, all along, under the law as it was before.

Mitchell for Senator

In another column may be found a communication, published first in the Portland "News," over the signature of "Justice." The writer suggests that every pastmaster in Oregon, place a petition in a conspicuous place in his office, headed, "John H. Mitchell for United States Senator." He thinks that Governor Moody will be surprised at the great popular expression which will be shown by the signatures from Democrats as well as Republicans. The plan is worthy of Moody will appoint a Democrat. If we could have our way, he would appoint Slater. But he will not; hence we are for Mitchell as our second choice. Of all the Republicans whose names have been mentioned for Senator. We have always acknowledged that he is talented. He is untiring in his efforts in behalf of Oregon; and will come nearer giving universal satisfaction than any one the Governor can appoint.—The Dalles Journal, [Dem.]

Some of the laws intended for the benefit of married women turn out to have quite an opposite effect. Here is one in Oregon which the courts construe to mean that the wife, if she has property, is liable for the expenses of her family, and consequently the poverty stricken husband can run up bills which the wife is obliged to pay. This was a decision in a suit brought by a butcher for the amount of his meat bill. Before the passage of the law a married woman was only liable for her own contracts.

Health of Jews. One noticeable feature about Jewish cemeteries in the South is the scarcity of newly made graves after an epidemic of cholera or yellow fever. Statistics show that fewer of them die than any other race from these or kindred diseases. During the cholera scourge in Toulon only two orthodox Jews died of it, while if numbers they equalled fully 20 per cent. of the population. Their immunity from disease, and the certainty with which they recover when attacked by it, is accounted for by the simplicity of their diet. They are very strict about following the dietary laws prescribed by Moses. Isn't it a little strange that Moses, if he was only a historian, should have possessed knowledge superior to that of the wisest and best physicians of the present day? He evidently believed in preventing disease rather than curing it. This is what Dr. Haven's Dyspepsia Cure aims to do; it acts directly on the digestive juices of the stomach and both prevents and cures indigestion and Dyspepsia. Free sample bottles at E. C. Brooks' drug store.
