The Cattle Trade. At the present time our cattle trade is somewhat depressed and we shall watch with interest to learn what is the result of the shipments made to Eastern Washington. If they realize we will our country can send out a fine lot of beef. It is very singular that after an exceptionally hard winter spring opened with better pastures than we often have. Usually March is very severe on cattle but this spring it was a delightful month and the grass grew luxuriantly, so that cattle were good beef on the first of April. One effect of this was to discourage stall feeding. A. H. Johnson brought down several hundred head of cattle to feed at Blabek and before the time they usually stall feed he had quit feeding his stock and turned them out on bunch grass, inside the big Blabek field that was in its prime. Usually our best market for stall feed beef is in March and April, and so thinking an enterprising cattle man in Jackson county put up some beef steers and stall fed them through the winter, to turn them out on pasture again in the spring without having found a market. He wasted all his winter feeding for plenty of stock, not fed at all, was in as good condition as his.

The abundance of fat cattle has somewhat depressed the price of beef though retail purchasers may not have had a chance to find it out. The butcher doesn't lose his opportunity. Cattle have not in many years been as low in price as at present, at this season. Fruit Prospect. Frost has done some damage in localities though not through the country generally. Small fruits are damaged east of Portland, strawberries being ruined on some farms. Mr. Wm. Barlow tells us that there were three frosty nights two weeks ago, Monday being the severest, that killed all his plums and cherries. He fears that on lower French Prairie frost has done damage, especially in the vicinity of Woodburn. All about Salem fruit is excellent and seems to have grown to a size that insures it against any ordinary frost. The hail storms that occurred last week left their mark on much fruit, specking it a little but not doing actual harm. Had it been larger hail it would have knocked off much fruit, but that wouldn't have been much harm as all the trees we know of have five times too much fruit on at present. If they don't shed off by June those who care to have good fruit will have thin the trees to a proper bearing. Every variety of fruits give promise of an extraordinary yield. -Williamette Farmer.

The American Cultivator estimates the annual production of cheese in the United States to be 350,000,000 pounds, and that of butter 1,500,000,000 pounds—the value of the two being $50,000,000 more than the wheat crop, one-seventh more than the hay crop, one-third more than the cotton crop, and only one-fifth less than the corn crop. If this is true of the States, the principal wheat producing country in the world, how easily, with our large herds of prime cattle, could we make our dairy produce one of our chief exports, to say nothing of supplying the home market. Sour Milk Cookies.—Two cups of sugar, one cup of butter, one of cream or milk, three eggs, one teaspoonful of soda; mix soft, roll thin. When the cookies are cut out sift granulated sugar over them, and roll it in by pressing the rolling pin gently over the cakes, taking care not to flatten them too much. It is now stated that Barrios, the President of San Salvador, who probably had spies in the Guatemala army. John Kelley has been re-elected Sicheem of Tammany without opposition. It seems that Kelley has lost none of his influence with Tammany. There are punishments ahead. The Los Angeles "Express" asserts that there are 1,000 men out of employment in that city. Uneasy lies the head that fears a bargain.—N. Y. Journal.

Resources of Oregon. There is no country that need be more prosperous than Oregon. We have here a region exceptionally favored in soil and climate and possessing all the resources necessary to build up a great State. We need not envy any State the possession of precious metals. All the gold of California placers were not worth as much to that State, when mining was in its prime, as are the fruitful fields, orchards and vineyards that this State will produce. No more every facility requisite and the need now is that enterprise and capital should develop what we have to realize what can be made to prosper here. In addition to the fertile soil we have great forests and mines of coal, iron, copper, lead, gold, silver and cinnabar. These will in time give us variety of manufactures and insure us all that enterprise well directed can give. A writer in the Oregonian at some length lately wrote of middle and Southern Oregon, showing that our State was only settled on its northern and western borders and that the remainder, comprising at least two thirds of the total area, including nearly all East of the Cascades and north of the 45 degrees of latitude remains comparatively unknown and unimproved, roamed over by vast herds of stock, chiefly owned by Californians. Mr. H. L. Rull, of Postia, a farmer who is well qualified to judge of country, went over that region last summer and states that it contains an immense area of excellent farming land that will be brought into use and made available if the Oregon Short Line constructs its road through middle Oregon and over the pass near Mount Jefferson into this valley. The capacity of our State will be doubled when that comparatively unknown region is brought under cultivation. The writer claims that a part of Oregon comprising almost as much area as is contained in Eastern Washington, and consisting nearly of mountain and farming land, remains thus unimproved. We can look forward to a time when a railroad system will exist that will develop the whole State and insure that its resources will be understood and made the most of.

The question "How is Oregon to get a United States Senator?" is still unsettled. Many are in favor of appointment by Governor Moody; but this course should not be contemplated by the Governor himself, or the people at large. An appointed Senator would hold his seat only until the meeting of our next Legislature; and should the Legislature be Democratic, a Democrat would be sent to occupy the seat which Republican foolishness had given him. Let the Governor call an extra session of the Legislature and settle this matter in a manner that will be satisfactory to a majority of the State.—McMinnville Reporter.

An inventive genius is said to have produced a cushion, containing a spiral spring, to be worn by skaters who have the habit of sitting down unexpectedly. A Philadelphia man is reported to have set down to hard upon one of these articles that the rebound, which should have simply brought him to an erect position, rumbled him violently over on his nose, whereupon he has commenced suit against the inventor for $10,000. This is all very foolish, when the whole trouble could have been obviated by putting the spring on his nose.
