

OREGON SENTINEL

JACKSONVILLE SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1885.

New Jury Law Invalid.

Aspecial telegram to the "Oregonian" from Salem reports that the supreme court has held the jury law enacted by the legislature at its recent session to be invalid. The question came up on a case appealed from that county, for the purpose of testing the new law which provides that for any session of state court in any county, grand jurors shall be drawn by the clerk and sheriff, not more than twenty days nor less than ten days before the first day of session upon which they are to report, and that trial jurors be called on the fourth day of session; and further, that if the grand jury fail to fill from the first call, the sheriff shall draw from the body of the county. This law was drafted by Judge P. P. Prim, member of the state senate from Jackson county, and its purpose was to reduce the cost of jury service in the state courts. The old law required the attendance of the full jury list from the first day of session, and that the grand jury be drawn from its members. Judge Prim's idea was that to call the trial jurors on the fourth day of court sessions would save the charge of maintaining them during the first three days which are commonly devoted to grand jury and other preliminary work, and during which they have nothing whatever to do. The saving, Judge Prim thought, would be an average of $300 per year for each county in the state.

The point raised against the law and which has just been sustained was based upon a provision in the state constitution, which, after empowering the legislature to "abolish or modify" the jury system, provides that grand jurors shall be drawn from jurors "in attendance from the court." It was a question whether, under the authority to "modify" the legislature could change the manner of grand jurors, and if such change (organization and duties remaining precisely as before) was "modification" within the meaning of the constitution. The supreme court holds negatively, and this settles the fate of the law, making it absolutely void.

Railroad Rumors.

A report was published that arrangements had been made in London for consolidation of the O. & C. R. R. with the Central Pacific of California, which was said to be virtually the purchase of the Oregon road by the Central Pacific. The stock of one to be changed for outstanding stock of the other. New bonds of the Central Pacific were to be issued in lieu of the present defaulted Oregon bonds, and an agent sent to New York to arrange details, which, if successfully accomplished, would give the Central Pacific an entire overland road to the East, from the whole coast between Puget Sound and San Diego, via the Southern Pacific.

Inquiry at the office of the Central Pacific Company, in San Francisco, however, elicited the fact that so far as the railroad people in the city knew, there is no truth in the rumor. Colonel Fred Crocker stated that the dispatch was very premature. "Of course," said he, "the subject has been discussed in our office, and plans suggested by which the road could be operated in conjunction with our system, but that was only in the event that the road was finished. The dispatch refers to our obtaining control of the road. Why, the only way we would get control of it would be to lease it, and we would have no use for it unless it is finished. It is possible that negotiations have been going on from New York city, but if such was the case we would certainly be aware of it. I do not think there is any truth in it."—Yreka Journal.

The count of moneys and securities in the United States Treasury is completed. Everything was found in a satisfactory condition, and the reports of ex-Treasurer Wyman proved in every instance. Even the alleged discrepancy of two cents, reported in the count in the cash room, was shown to be incorrect. The missing pennies were subsequently found on the floor, where they dropped during the count. The books and accounts of the Treasurer's office are yet to be verified.

Professor C. V. Riley, Entomologist of the Agricultural Department, says that the country will soon be visited by two great breeds of locusts of the seventeen and thirteen year varieties, and this will be the first time in 221 years that they have appeared in conjunction. They will not prove greatly destructive, and the injury they will inflict will probably be confined to fruit trees. Their visitation will be prolonged until late in July.

Temperance Lecture.

Rev. J. N. Bell of Roseburg delivered a lecture by special invitation of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening last. The exercises were conducted after the usual order of the Union and began with an organ voluntary by Prof. E. T. Kugler that was rendered in the most exquisite style, and filled the church with its grand harmonies. A song "Where is my boy tonight" by the Presbyterian choir was touchingly beautiful and exceedingly well rendered. A psalm was read by Rev. A. R. Bickensbach, and prayer offered by Rev. P. A. Meese and after another song "Sowing the Seeds" by the Choir, Rev. Mr. Bell addressed the audience without the formality of an introduction, he having been so long known to our people. He presented the temperance question, which he designates the great vital issue of the day from an entirely different standpoint, holding that the appetite for strong drink was abnormal and resulted in degenerated mental conditions that projected its victims to the most violent extremes, making them dangerous to society and often to their nearest and dearest friends. He however took the view that man created in the Divine image and endowed with Divine attributes, was responsible for the mental condition super-induced by the excessive use of intoxicating drinks. He held that the greatest danger in the liquor question lay in its being a stimulant, and that its first use was not for the taste but the afterglow that permeated the brain, and by which its victims were drawn into its meshes until it was impossible to free themselves from its coils. He concluded with women's work in the Temperance cause, holding that women alone had the power to rid humanity of the terrible curse, a power more potent than the bayonet or the ballot, and when pure, true women, enshrined in the hearts of the home circle and reigning in her imperial majesty as queen of society, issued her edict against the drink habit, man would bow to the mandate, and earth's greatest evil be forever banished from our land. The Choir sang "What shall the harvest be" and the evening exercises closed with the benediction by Bro. Bell. He is favorable in language, earnest in his convictions, eloquent in oratory, logical and pleasant in his address, and his lecture was a rare intellectual treat to those who had the pleasure of listening to it.

At the last session of Congress an appropriation of $100,000 was made for transporting a portion of the money in the vaults of the United States Sub-Treasury in San Francisco to the Treasury at Washington. Though no official notification of the time of removing the coin has been published, it is believed that the transfer will be made shortly. The "Alta California" says there will be on hand by the end of the present month at least $90,000,000, and if necessary all but $5,000,000 can be withdrawn. Of this large sum $50,000,000 is in gold coin. It weighs eighty-three tons, and will require eight cars to carry it. The heavy cost of transporting by express companies arises from the fact that they have to give bonds for safe keeping, and are obliged to keep extra guards over it during the entire passage.

After a four months contest the Illinois Legislature has re-elected John A. Logan to the U. S. Senate. This body was a tie politically at the start, since which time a Democratic and a Republican member have died. A Republican member was elected in the Democratic district, thereby giving that party one majority, resulting as above stated. General John A. Logan is a leader among leaders, has had long years of experience in the national councils, and it is with pleasure that we record his re-election to the Senate.
