Chair of Journalism

There is no chair of journalism yet either in Harvard proper or in the annex. But pending the establishment of such a professorship a certain instructor has been lecturing the young who do themselves under his tuition on a vast subject—namely, "The Ideal Editorial." It is a subject of keen interest to the thoughtful of eager students, for not a few of them have journalistic aspirations, and dream of the day when they shall write soul-stirring editorials and world-illuminating special correspondence.

The professor illustrated his remarks the other day by sampling (to use a Harvard term) the editorials of various Boston papers. He found none good.
One paper makes too stupid a page; another tries to be too literary, and another affects a cosmopolitanism which it cannot carry off.

"The Ideal editorial," said the professor, "is neither too short nor too self-conscious; it is never heavy; it is always bright, readable, and to the point. But," he went on hastily, "while we don't want long and stupid editorials, we don't want at all the sort of thing that they give us in the 'Evening Post.'"

The historian could bear up under the knowledge of his blow, but the professor attached it in a staggering manner by adding: "Especially is their nothing idea, you know, in that column called 'Stories About Town.'"

A terrible story of inhuman cruelty reaches this city, and is authenticated thoroughly. During the storm, a man, his wife and child were driven toward Kinsley, Kan., from the south, in one of the fearful blizzards which have characterized the weather for the past few days. Reaching a house the man asked for shelter, but the inhuman wretch who owned it refused to permit either his wife or child to take shelter.

The next neighbor pleaded, but all to no avail. His wife was then unconscious and the babe was in the same condition, but both are said to have been alive. The man told them he would not accommodate them, and said three miles further on they could probably receive protection. The poor man remained his position on the wagon and started off. The next morning all traces were discovered a half mile from the house frozen to death. The moller had the babe close to her bosom, as if in the act of hugging it. The poor father still held the lines in his stiff hands—"Tepoka Commonwealth."

OUR COSTLY INDIANS.—Outside of Alaska we have 200,000 Indians, and every buck, squaw and papoose—the he, she or it full blood or half breed—possesses in the average 500 acres; and yet the Government feeds the last one of them (a few in the Indian Territory alone excepted) at a large annual expense. Last year it cost $6,500,000 to feed and blanket the noble red man.
Thirteen years ago we expended upon these people nearly double that sum.
But as it is impossible to say how much clung to the fingers of the Indian agents a per capita calculation would be only approximate. Since 1816 we have expended $225,000,000 in taking care of the Indians, and probably as much more in various efforts to subdue or exterminate the pesky creatures.

A circular has been issued by sep-aratedents of the southern division of the Canadian Grand Trunk railway, ordering that hereafter all Chinese going over the road will pass through in bond, and that conductors will be held responsible to see that none of the Mongolians are allowed to step in Canada.

It is said that the machinery in Great Britain operated by steam power, is capable of performing more work, and creating more products than could be produced by the labor of 400,000,000 of able-bodied men, a number greater than all the able-bodied men on earth.

Bills looking to the abrogation of the treaty with China have been friendly disposed of by Congress. The decision is adverse to the interests of this coast, and we may safely count that no relief can be looked for from the East.

There are pending in congress nine propositions to grant railroads right of way through the Indian Territory.

The Modern Newspaper

Newspapers have undergone numerous changes since first introduced to the world. What they now are a clever American writer tells us in the expressive language of his country:
"The newspaper of to-day is a library.
It is an encyclopaedia, a poem, a biography, a history, a prophecy, a directory, a time-table, a romance, a cook-book, a guide, a horoscope, an art critic, a political resume, a ground plan of the civilized world, a low-priced mutton in parvo. It is a sermon, a song, a circus, an obituary, a picnic, a shipwreck, a symphony in solid brevity, a medley of life and death, a grand aggregation of man's glory and shame. It is in short, a bird's eye view of all the magnanimity and meanness, the joys and griefs, the births and deaths, the pride and poverty of the world." The journalist, the man who makes the news paper, is equally, remarkable in his way, for he is a short hand reporter, a statesman, a lawyer, a divine, a poet, a novelist, a dramatic, musical, artistic, and literary critic, a tailor, a dressmaker, a cook, an engineer, a general, an admiral, an architect, a linguist, an inventor, an historian, a commentator, a reformer, an astronomer, an encyclopaedia, a dictionary, a reference library, an art gallery, a museum, and an embodiment of genius, industry, humor, philanthropy, wit, humor, and special knowledge. And all this to earn a penny.

TELEGRAPHIC CONNECTION.—This city needs telegraphic connections with the outside world. These are times when business men would give considerable for the opportunity to send a message, and it is pretty certain that if one were built by a stock company or by some private individual it would be made to pay. The shortest route from Crescent City to connect with other lines would be to Grant's Pass, on the Oregon & California railroad, probably seventy-five miles from this city. The capital required for this investment would be small, and if some enterprising person would take hold of this project they would certainly make money out of it. People in Del Norte county would be glad to have a reliable telegraph connection with outside places, so as to get all the latest news, and would subscribe liberally. Let some body push this project to a successful end.—Crescent City "Record."

A "way back" Republican editor breaks out into the following: "My boy, if you become a politician and run for office and are elected, have the manhood to stick to your friends and to your party. There is a principle in that—a trait well worth your while to cultivate. By so doing you will earn the respect of your opponents and the admiration of the party to which you belong." If that "boy" ever grows to manhood he will undoubtedly attach himself to some hidebound party, and become a professional politician, sacrificing every principle of true manhood to accomplish his purpose. It would have been more paternal if the editor had advised his "boy" to cultivate honesty and independence, and shun politics and politicians as he would poisonous vipers.—Times-Mountain.

If the railroad company continue keeping their present immense force employed during the coming summer, it will be a good indication of going on with the road to Oregon. The grading to Bailey's can be finished before a great while, and then the force will either be discharged or put at work in this county, leaving the tunnel work below Bailey's to be slowly finished afterwards. Pot-holing blasts are made on a larger scale than ever, several hundred pounds of giant powder being exploded in single blasts, making the ground tremble for miles around like struck by an earthquake.—Journal.

The killing of the monster elephant Jumbo was really a blessing in disguise to Barnum, for the bill was stuffed so successfully as to make the late Jumbo look as natural as ever, while it costs nothing for feed and whisky, which latter the dissipated beast was wont to drink by the bucketful.

The fastest talker in Congress is said to be Congressman Mills from Texas.
He speaks at the rate of 215 words a minute.
