Cleveland and Eustis.

Circulation is given in the eastern papers to an interview between the President and Senator Eustis of Louisiana, in which the latter seems to have used the plainest kind of plain talk.
The Senator told the President that a large proportion of his appointments were indefensible, and he said: "The Republicans will make the point that your administration has been unequal to its responsibilities, that it is under-vicious influences; and in support of this will bring forward the defeated nominees, with the charges made and sustained against their competency, fitness and moral character, and will ask the country to remember that but for the Republican senate's intervention these men would have been holding office under a Democratic administration." The President suggested that it was too late to mend that matter now. The Senator retorted that it was still time for the President to withdraw nominations whose impropriety he had ascertained.

This may be described as an affair of general notoriety. But this is only one of the consequences of the independent policy Mr. Cleveland has chosen to follow. He has acted from first to last on the theory that he is the party, and that the other members must toe his mark or step out. The Senators, on the other hand, declare that they are the party, and that the President must toe their mark, or dispense with party support throughout his administration. It is a pleasant fight as it stands, and the people can contemplate its vicissitudes without excessive emotion.

Senator Eustis' complaint is not ingenious. He is not so much concerned about the appointment of such men as he is about the non-appointment of persons whom he and his friends recommended for office. His zeal for the interests of the party may thus be accounted for, without giving him credit for excessive patriotism. Whether he will prevail against the President, or the President will quell the senatorial mutiny, is one of the interesting contingents of the future.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—It has been a question of some interest who it is in the house that represents the Northern Pacific railroad. Herman's resolution decided that yesterday. It has been the opinion of many that the committee on public lands, in bringing in a bill to forfeit the entire Northern Pacific railroad grant from Bismark, in Dakota, to Portland, Oregon, was really working in the interests of the company, for it is known such a measure could never pass the senate, and so the scheme would be killed. Her-man's resolution provides for forfeiting the grant from Wallula to Portland, where the railway company has not laid a tie or placed a rail. Such a resolution or bill could easily be passed and made a law. But the N. P. railroad does not want action taken, and, as soon as Herman's resolution was read, Strait of Minnesota and Oates of Alabama ran down to the little space before the speaker's desk to oppose it.

Oates is not on the committee on public lands, and has no special interest in the resolution, but he showed zeal that was amazing. Herman went down in the little space himself, and pushed his resolution through, after an animated altercation.

Native Sons of Oregon.

At 8 o'clock to-night, at the council chamber in this city, there will be a meeting of native born Oregonians, to consider the proposition to organize a permanent society. It has occurred to many that such an organization would serve a useful purpose by bringing Oregon born men, who are now legion, into acquaintance with each other and in a position where their united voice may be expressed, when occasion requires, upon matters affecting the welfare of the state. This alone is sufficient motive for organizing, but there are other purposes not less important.
The movement is by no means a Portland affair, but it is intended to take in the whole state. Many young men living at interior points have signified their wish to be "counted in," and it is thought that a society with a large and representative membership can easily be organized. In California there is a large organization of "native sons," in which the whole state takes pride. The capacity of a country to produce men is, after all, its highest capacity. Oregon, we are proud to say, need not be ashamed of her achiev-ment in this respect, and we are glad to see her sons eager to honor her.

Last Wednesday, March 31, Senator Dumph addressed the Senate in favor of the admission of Washington Territory into the Union as a State. He claimed that from every point of view the territory was entitled to admission.
Alluding to recent anti-Chinese occurrences, Dumph said they were the work, not of citizens of Washington Territory, but of foreigners. The outrages he characterized as inexcusable; he would not defend lawless violence; but there were some mitigating circumstances in this case. The people of the whole Pacific coast were almost unanimous in the policy of excluding Chinese, and the proximity of Washington Territory to British Columbia gave opportunity for many Chinese, on the completion of the Canadian Pacific railway, to get into Washington Territory and so violate the laws of the United States.
Although national troops had been called for, the people of Washington Territory had arranged matters before the troops arrived. The anti-Chinese incident should not prejudice the case of the Territory. Occurrences just as reprehensible had occurred in most of the States before admission, and some times.

Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, an whoosover is deceived thereby is not wise. Neither is the man who puts his faith in the prohibition ticket, for at the last minute, prohibition Democrats will vote the Democratic ticket and the St. John Republican gauds will be out in the cold holding the sack—sniped in beautiful style, as they were in New York at the last presidential election.
You can never catch a Democratic sucker but once with the same hook, but Republican suckers will bite the same hook as often as they are disgusted with prohibition hate, though they bite like a serpent and sting like an adder.—"Albany Bulletin."

Multnomah Typographical Union will to-morrow endorse the candidacy of Mr. Frank C. Baker for the office of State Printer. He will add material strength to the Republican ticket in case he is nominated, and his friends confidently predict that he will be.

The "Prohibition Star" is still trying to boom its "prohibition ticket by characterizing all opposition to that ticket as "mud slinging," but the boom is busted. The wind was knocked out of it, partly, by that ticket.

A Buffalo burnette hired a bachelor to turn her chestnut hair to a blond.
He made a pronounced and undeniable brindle, for which she sues him for $2,500. It is not a cent too much.

When a mugwump falls out of the rear ranks of the Republican party, he drops in the lead of the Democratic party as naturally as a duck takes to water.

That hot, dry dust applied to the face and neck, is a very effective remedy for a "jumping toothache."

Belva Lockwood, it is mentioned, will again be a candidate for the presidency in 1888.

Cholera From Raisins.

The case of Asiatic cholera reported from Michigan seems, as the doctors say, to have been caused by the consumption of Valencia raisins. No case of the disease had occurred in the locality before. No persons living in the neighborhood had ever associated with cholera patients. There had been no new arrivals from infected localities. If the doctors are right in declaring that the pestilence can only be propagated through the disease germs, or bacilli the question arises, how did they get there? And the answer is that they can only have got there through the raisins from Valencia, at which place the disease was severely prevalent for the best part of a year.

We have no wish to become alarmists, but those who remember the slightness of the connecting link between the cholera in Europe in 1832 and 1849, and its outbreak in this country in those years, will not deem it extravagant to say that it may have crossed the Atlantic in a raisin box.
At any rate, it is well to take all reasonable precautions. If there be anything in it, the avoidance of Spanish raisins may prevent an epidemic.
Under the circumstances prudent housekeepers will, for the present at least, decline buying Spanish fruit, and if they want raisins will take the native article.

There seems but little prospect of Dakota being admitted as a State during this session of Congress. The Democrats of the Territory, to a very considerable number, have written to the members of the Committee on Territories, objecting to a division of the forty-sixth parallel and asking that the line of the Mississippi river be followed instead. It is the disposition of the House Territorial Committee to adopt this latter suggestion, and it will either lay before the House a bill to this effect, or report adversely upon the Senate bill, admitting only the southern half. As it is highly probable that the House will be guided by the committee's action, no matter which of these two courses it may adopt, the natural result will be to throw the entire subject back into the Senate, where the most vigorous pressure will be necessary to bring it to the front again.

Honor the dear old mother. Time has scattered the snowy flakes on her brow, ploughed deep furrows on her cheek, but is she not sweeter and more beautiful now? The lips are thin and sunken, but those are the lips which have kissed many a hot tear from the childish cheeks, and they are sweetest lips in all the world.
The eyes are dim; yet it glows with the soft radiance of holy love which never fades. Ah yes; she is a dear old mother. The sands of life are nearly run out; but, feeble as she is, she will go further and reach down lower for you than any other upon earth. Love her tenderly and cheer her declining years with holy devotion.

Congress has been in session nearly three months, but as yet not much has been done, outside of the committee reports. At our sessions have been consumed in tedious specimens, which very few care to hear, and which nobody will read. The long debate on the Fitz John Porter bill was wholly a waste of time as every member had made up his mind before they were delivered. And now it is intimated that we are to have a flood of silver speeches which are equally unnecessary. The result will be to prolong the session until the summer heat forces an adjournment without action on many measures of great importance to the public.

It seems that the bridges of the Willamette at Salem is a foregoing conclusion
