The West Shore is the only illustrated magazine published on the Pacific coast and aside from its excellent literary features, its object is to convey information, by both pen and penell, of the great resources of this region, and the progress of their development.

Special illustrated articles appear in each issue; also, several pages of notes of the progress being made in every section. Oregon, Wastington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Ulah, California, British Columbia, and the Pacific Northwest in general, are being illustrated. The subscription price is only $2.50. It is not cally the cheapest illustrated magazines in the United States, but contains stricks and engavings of great interest to every resident of this region, which can not be found in any other publication.

Subscribers for 1888 receive a large supplement every month. The first one is a beautiful cheograph of the "Entimne to the Columbia River," printed in nine colors, and each of the others represent some feature of our sublime scenery. The supplements are alone worth more than the price of the magazine. Try it for 1889, and after reading, send it to your friends elsewhere. You will find it both untertaining and instructive. L.
