The progress of the great strike in the west is eagerly watched by the trades unions and working people in New York, and the question of rendering pecuniary assistance to the men that are out, should such be needed, is already under discussion. There are intimations from some quarters that railway employes are in sympathy with the movement, and may participate in it, but at the companies' office here these were discredited. In regard to the strike in New York it may be stated that a number of iron shops have acceded to their demands and on the 5th about 500 of the striking boiler employes returned to work.

THE WESTERN MACHINES

The proprietors of the Westinghouse threshing machine have decided to push their goods throughout the entire north-west and have already started a vigorous campaign. The Westinghouse Separator is light running, strong and durable with an excellent shoe and riddle movement that makes the machine very valuable in separating wild oats from wheat. It has many excellent points that will win for it golden opinions wherever introduced. The house has established a branch in Portland with a thoroughly practical machine man Mr. C. P. Darg as manager. Mr. Z. T. Wright for some years with the J. I. Case company is with Mr. Darg and will be of much service in pushing the Westinghouse to the front. The house also handles an engine that has many improvements and good points. They are always ready to send descriptive circulars on application.
