

THE REPORTER.

McMINNVILLE, OREGON, APRIL 5, 1883.

The funeral of Postmaster General Howe took place on Wednesday of last week. The rites were simple but impressive.

Hon. M. C. George, has returned home from Washington, and meets with a hearty welcome at the hands of his constituents, whom he has served so faithfully while in the halls of Congress.

Judge H. C. McComas and wife, of Silver City, were murdered by Apaches in Thompson's Canyon, Arizona, last Thursday. And they were not the only victims. Within four days of the above date, fifty whites were murdered by these red devils.

Mr. Chas. E. Hodge, of the firm of Hodge, Davis & Co., the leading drug firm of Oregon, died at his home in Portland, of Friday last.—Mr. Hodge was a gentleman respected by all with whom he had an acquaintance, and his death cast a gloom over the city of Portland. He was buried by the Masonic fraternity on Sunday.

A PARODY.

The shades of dawn were falling fast,
As through the land in haste there passed
A youth, who bore a quaint device—
A banner, with the sage advice:

"Go to Hodson's, to buy Stoves,
Hardware, Tinware, or Agricultural Implements.

His brow was clear, his eye beneath
Flashed bright, and from between his teeth
A voice like a silver clarion rung,
In accents of a well-known tongue:

"Go to Hodson's and buy a McCormick Twine Binder!"

In sorrowing homes, he saw the sight
Of wasting forms and dying freight;
And while without, the sunlight shone,
He uttered bold, in thunder tones:

"Go to Hodson's and buy you a McCormick or Champion Reaper or Mower!"

"My back is lame," the old woman said,
"And dreadful is my aching head;
Sharp is the pain in my aching side."
In triumph, then, the youth replied:

"Go to Hodson's and buy one of those fine Stoves; no other will suit you as well!"

The old farmer wailed: "my aching breast!"
Quoth the youth: "buy a Sulky-Plow, and be blest,"

While pitying tears stole from his eye
He made the old man this reply:

"Go to Hodson's and buy you a Whipple Harrow, Monitor or Superior Seeder, and ride!"

"Alas! the Osborn, Wood and Deering
Have broken us down, instead of cheering!"
This was the farmer's awful moan,
The youth replied, in cheering tone:

"Go to Hodson's and buy you a McCormick Twine Binder, and be happy."

The youth at early eve was found
Lying outstretched on the ground;
And, wrapped around him, clean and nice,
Was that banner with the sage advice:

"Go to Hodson's to buy Stoves and Hardware, Tinware, Wagons or Agricultural Implements."

There, in the twilight of that day,
Sleeping yet beautiful, he lay,
While through the land was heard afar
A voice as from a falling star:

"Go to Hodson's to buy Stoves, Hardware, Bain Wagons and all kinds of Farm Implem'ts."

For further particulars of what the youth did say
And for extras for all kinds of Farm Machinery,
Call at their Store, in Masonic Hall Building, McMinnville, Oregon, and enquire of
