

I Wish I Was a Printer.
I wish I was a printer,
I really do indeed,
It seems to me that printers
Have everything they need,
(Except money!)

They get the largest and the best
Of everything that grows,
And get free into circus,
And other kind of shows,
(By giving an equivalent!)

The biggest bug will speak to them
No matter how they dress,
A shabby coat is nothing
If they own a printing press.
(Policy!)

At ladies' fairs they're almost hugged
By pretty girls who know
That they will crack up everything
The ladies have to show.
(Lucky fellows!)

And thus they get a "blow out" free!
At every party feed—
The reason is because they write,
And other people read.
(That's so, you bet!)

HEADING NORTH.—A man who lately died in Europe at the age of 109 years attributes his longevity to the fact that he always slept with his head to the north. In this country a few years ago not a few persons found it necessary to head north to preserve their health and even life itself. The author of Researches on Magnetism says: So far as my own observations have gone, I know that my sleep is always more sound and refreshing when my head is placed to the north. There are persons whom I know, the heads of whose beds are to the north, and who in order to wake early, will reverse their usual position in the bed, but not knowing the reason why, beyond that they could always wake earlier, the rest (sleep) being more broken. I have related to me that, at a military hospital in Russia, there were some sick patients of highly sensitive natures and who were rapidly recovering. When necessity compelled them to be removed to another wing of the building they did not get on so well; in fact prostration seemed to be setting in; and it was found advisable to get them back to their former wards as quickly as possible, where the heads of the beds were to the north.

TAPEWORMS.—A correspondent of the Union, says: I saw an item in your valuable paper of the 15th of October headed, "Singular Incident"—where a correspondent had discovered a tapeworm in dressing a quail. That surely is singular, but not more so than the same thing in hare. I have frequently seen tapeworms, yards in length, when dressing hare, but thought nothing of it at the time. It seems to me that this does away with the theory of many medical savans, that eating the flesh of swine is the cause of this calamity. My reason for writing this is to get the opinion of some one on this subject, as many of the human family are afflicted with tapeworms on this coast.

CONVERSION OF IRON INTO STEEL.—Mr. J. Abbott, our Consul at Sheffield, England, sends to the Secretary of the Treasury an account of a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Arts and Sciences, the subject considered being the Bessemer process for converting iron into steel. Mr. Bessemer said that the iron of the United States was peculiarly adapted to the manufacture of steel by his process. Mr. Abbott says, in conclusion: Valuable as is the invention of Mr. Bessemer, I cannot recommend it to all iron manufacturers, unless they make use in the process of the very best pig iron, and that which is comparatively free from sulphur, phosphorus and other impurities.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR COAL.—In contradiction to the opinion that no substitute can ever be found for coal, Mr. Richardson has taken out a patent for burning petroleum and paraffine by means of a porous and incombustible material, such as fire-brick, etc., and in a hollow chamber, such as a gas retort, he can keep up a continuous supply of these substitutive appliances, and at less cost, without smoke. No stokers or poker-men are required to keep up his fires, and there is in every way an economy of fuel and of labor.

CURIOUS PHENOMENON.—For several weeks past a curious phenomenon has been observed at Niagara Falls, and has given rise to much comment. The air in the vicinity of the bridge leading to Goat Island has been impregnated and permeated with the odor of petroleum. Strollers through the island have returned with their garments redolent, as it were, of kerosene. Some theorists maintain that a petroleum reservoir has found an escape among the rapids, and that the falls are really impregnated with oil.

EXPLAINING THE TELEGRAPH.—Two French peasants were discussing the continental war, when one attempted to explain to the other the nature of the telegraph. After repeatedly failing, he was struck with a brilliant notion, and exclaimed: "Imagine that the telegraph is an immense long dog—so long that its head is at Vienna, and its tail at Paris. Well, tread on its tail which is at Paris, and it will bark at Vienna. Do you understand now, stupid, what the telegraph is like?" "O, yes!" replied the other, "I have an idea now what a telegraph must be."

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The State of California has suddenly sprung into notice as first among the grape growing and wine producing States of the Union. So little was known of the capacities of the Golden State in this respect, that the announcement made a short time since in our columns, to the effect that California would produce this present year 5,000,000 gallons of wine, was received with astonishment. Grapes were planted in California at an early day by Jesuits, in Los Angeles in 1770, by cuttings from the vines of Malaga. Since then the vines have flourished mightily, grows more luxuriantly and lives longer than in any other part of the world. The grape crop in California is always a certainty; while in Europe, for 341 years the records show only eleven years of eminently good yield and twenty eight very good.

The enormous productiveness of the soil of California is another great advantage. From 650 to 850 gallons of wine is made to the acre, while the very best land in Europe gives under the most prosperous circumstances but 430 gallons. Thus it will be seen that Italy (called old the "vine land" par excellence) falls only two hundred gallons short of the average yield per acre in California.

The wine is richer and fuller bodied than the German wines, without the tartness which is strongly developed in the Rhenish varieties. It is a finer wine, and meets the approval of many of our best connoisseurs. Specimens have been sent to some of the wine districts of Germany, and the most flattering expressions in its favor have come from the Rhine.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

USEFUL RECEIPTS.—Here is a receipt for a pudding which we will warrant to be nice, and it can be made very easily.

Cover the bottom and sides of a buttered pudding-dish with slices of bread thickly spread with butter. Either home-made or baker's bread may be used, but it should be light and nice. Then put in a layer of peaches, which have been pared without removing the stone. Scatter in a little sugar. Place a layer of thin slices of bread and butter over the peaches; then another layer of peaches, until the dish is full. The upper slices of bread may be dipped in milk or water to keep them moist. Cover the pudding dish with a plate, or, better still, with a crust of a loaf, to keep the top from burning, and bake an hour or so, according to the size. Then eaten with a good pudding sauce, is a delicious dish. Apples, pears, huckleberries, or any other fruit, may be substituted for the peaches.

Another nice but simple pudding may be made in this way. Put a tea-cup of tapioca in water with a little salt, and let it stand about five hours where it will be warm. About two hours before dinner peel half a dozen apples, peaches or pears if you choose and take out the cores. Put them in a pudding dish, with some sugar, and a tea cup of water, and bake them until soft. Then pour over them the tapioca and bake an hour. This may be eaten hot with a sauce, or cold with sugar and cream. Sago or boiled rice may be used instead of tapioca. Or a delicate dish may be made by preparing apples as above, and pouring over them a custard.

A nice custard may be made by taking any kind of fruit, stew it and strain it, sweeten it, and let it cool. Beat six eggs and stir into it a quart of milk. Mix the whole, flavor to the taste, and bake in cups or a deep dish. It is good either hot or cold.

WHAT MAKES A BUSHEL.—The following table of the number of pounds of various articles to a bushel, may be of interest to our readers:

Rye, fifty-six pounds.

Barley, forty-six pounds.

Irish potatoes, sixty pounds.
Sweet potatoes, fifty pounds.
Onions, fifty-seven pounds.

Dried peaches, thirty-three pounds.

LECTURE ON MILK.—Dr. Isaac Rowell, of San Francisco, delivered a lecture on the properties of milk not long since. The Bulletin says: He explained the constituents of new or whole milk, of skim milk, butter, milk and swill milk. He showed that milk from cows fed on swill would putrefy rather than turn sour by the usual process of lactic fermentation; that it would not make preserved milk, and that the deaths from this cause in this city average one a day. The tenor of the Doctor's advice to parents was either themselves to keep a cow for their children, or abandon the use of milk altogether in crowded cities. The lecture was listened to with remarkable attention from its beginning to its close.

A farmer relating his experience in city farming, said: "I put outside my window a large box, filled it with seed. What do you think came up? Wheat, barley or oats? No; a policeman, who ordered me to remove it."

Clarkamas County, October 15th, 1895.
I would inform persons laboring under Cancer, that my wife has for a number of years had a cancer on her left breast, until the three years last past, when it commenced growing, slowly at first, but during the past summer its progress became more rapid. It was giving her considerable pain, when, on the 17th last month she went under treatment by Dr. Henley of Portland. By his method of treatment the entire cancer was removed from the sound flesh, and on the 29th of the same month it came away without pain. The sore is fast healing up, and I hope a complete cure is effected. Her suffering for the past 24 hours under treatment was considerable. She has suffered but little since, and is now entirely free from pain.

Dr. Henley: The above is at your service, to publish if you think proper. I direct you and to Mr. Starkweather. Should you be the first to get this please let him see it. If you do not know him please enquire. He is in the Legislature. Yours, &c.

I went out this morning to my exercises, as usual, at early dawn, and having occasion to use an old box, on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately stung the inside of my thumb by its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible; what an awful torment! ## THE Electropathic Institute, 645 Washington Street, San Francisco, California.

J. H. JOSELYN, M. D., Resident Physician.
THE DIRECTORS OF THIS CELEBRATED Medical Institute wish to thank the public for the generous manner in which they have sustained the Resident Physician with their patronage. It is now six years since the Institute was established, during that time there has been over thirty thousand consultations, and in all cases, where the disease was curable.

A permanent cure has been performed. Malicious charlatans have opened traps in close proximity to the Institute, adopting similar names, hoping to attract the unwary, but their failure to do so is perfectly apparent—the business has not been effected in the least, but has gone on increasing its usefulness and profits in regular ratio. The Resident Physician has by careful study and experience within the last few years been successful in discovering new electric remedies which are far superior to any before used in the healing art, and he can warrant them to cure all cases for which they are used, or make no charges for services. They will be forwarded to any place in the Pacific States upon receipt of a letter stating the disease with symptoms, the age and sex of the patient.

The Female medicine, discovered and used by the Resident Physician, are the best remedies which are safe and have the effect. The large number of cases in which they have been used, is a guarantee of their success. Great care should be taken in visiting the Institute, to remember the name. Electropathic Institute, 645 Washington Street between Montgomery and Kearny streets. J. H. JOSELYN, M. D., Resident Physician.

Below are a few of the opinions of the press of California, which are submitted to the Public:
ELECTROPATHY.—The readers of this article are particularly requested to read the advertisement of the Electropathic Institute, 645 Washington Street, San Francisco, to be found in another column of this paper. The remarkable cures that have been effected by the use of electricity, under the supervision of the Resident Physician of the Institute during the past six years, has gained for this establishment a reputation that has never been equaled by any other medical establishment in this coast. In cases of female irregularities especially, Dr. J. H. Joselyn has gained an enviable reputation, and the spacious parlors of the Institute are continually occupied by ladies asking relief from their troubles.

Dr. Joselyn pays particular attention to the treatment of cases in the interior of the State and upon receipt of a full description of the disease of which the applicant is so unfortunate as to be afflicted, accompanied with a real or a fictitious address, sends per Wells, Fargo & Co., medical certificates, warrants to cure the disease, without the slightest injury to the system. He uses no mercury or mineral poisons. The remedies used are all of electric origin, and most of them are of his own discovery. Persons placing themselves under the treatment of Dr. J. H. Joselyn may rely upon not only receiving correct and successful treatment, but upon his discretion and secrecy.—Red Bluff Independent January 24th, 1895.

GLAD TO HEAR IT.—For several months past Dr. J. H. Joselyn, for the last six years so well
