He smilingly assenting, They gather round his chair; "Now, grandma, you hold Johnny-Don't let the candle flare." So speaking, from his fingers He threw a shadow tall, That seems the moment after, A rabbit on the wall.

The children shout with laughter, The uprear louder grows; Even grandma chuckles faintly, And Johnny chirps and crows. There ne'er was gilded painting, Hung up in lordly hall, Gave half the simple pleasure Of this rabbit on the wall.

FLOOK PRUNING .- Among need and mealy. ful rules, says the N. H. Farmer, damental principle which must guide vious to require mention. Will any man need to be told that if he sells his better sheep than he? It a man with one hundred ewes sells the ten best, it takes years of careful breeding to get ten more as good as those he sold. Many cannot resist a tempting offer of a good ewe, but it should be remembered that when you sell one such, you sell with her all the valuable increase for the future. When you have succeeded in bringing your flock to such a degree of excellence that you will not notice the loss of a of the flock, let such be selected as you do not wish to keep, and the present is the best time of the year to make that selection. The winter is the test of a sheep's constitution, and if you have watched your flock with care, you can at this season very quickly select those that fail in the necessary vigor and staunchness to make them good breeders. Let all such be pruned out; fat them for the butcher, or sell for what they will not just now enable them to buy higher priced sheep. Set aside all that have objectionable qualities as breeders, and put a mark upon them for future disposal. A sheep may look well, she may be stout and hearty, but at the same time she may breed badlyo Make all such into mutton. Cut them off as you would useless limbs from your fruit trees. You can't afford to keep such animals any more than you can keep a frog pond in the middle of an acre of good land. The man who makes his selection of sale ewes in the autumn, will often cheat himself, for the season that many poor breeders and poor nurses will look plump and stout just because they have starved their lambs. A suggestion on this point is enough for any careful flock-master, and a moment's reflection will show any one the importance of attending to the matter in the proper season.

Horse Shaving.—Recently, says the Oakland News, there was a case in the Police Court involving the ownership of a horse. The man who possessed the animal had him for several State and County aforesaid, to satisfy said years. The real owner, recognized execution and costs of sale the horse, and swore that on one shoul- 3:4w der a certain brand could be found. On inspection nothing could be discovered, and the hair lay perfectly natural, as if it had never been disturbed. Notwithstanding this, the person olaiming him sent for a razor and soap and proceeded to shave the hair from the branded place, when the outlines of the proper letters were clearly visible. If this idea were always acted upon in such cases, many lost partly in Marion county, State of Oregon, to or stolen horses might be recovered. The one in question had been branded ten years before, yet after this long interval the animal was clearly identified.

Age of Sheep.-The age of sheep may be known by the front teeth. They are eight in number, and appear all of a size. In the second year the two middle ones fall out, and their place is supplied by two large ones. In the third year a small tooth on each side. In the fourth year the large teeth are six in number. In the fifth year the whole front teeth are large. In the sixth amas County, all persons having claims against the estate are required to present vear the whole begin to get worn. year the whole begin to get worn. them with the proper vouchers at my office, in Oregon City, within six months from this Thirty to Forty Operatives! out or are broken. It is said that date, and those owing will make immediate the teeth of ewes begin to decay at payment. W. CAREY JOHNSON, the teeth of ewes begin to decay at five or six; those of wethers at seven. A machine for working butter is one of the new inventions in England. It consists of a movable metal cylinner, suspended from a small cast iron frame. The bottom of the cylinder is a loose piece of galvanized iron, and above it the cylinder is suspended in a bowl of water, and the butter is placed in the cylinder and pressed by a screw piston, the result of which is, that the butter is forced through the holes into the water in the shape of vermicelli. By this means the buttermilk is all excluded, and the butter is found to be much closer and sweeter than when made by RESTORING RANCID LARD-There was an inquiry over a year ago, what would cleanse rancid lard. Pot skimmings, rancid lard, or bacon fat may be made sweet by being put in a kettle; adding two or three potatoes, pared and sliced, and letting BUCK them fry in the grease until they are browned. Your grease or lard will then be free from all unpleasant taste, and suitable for shortening, or to fry doughnuts in.

J. H. JOSSELYN, M. D.,

Resident Physician. THE DIRECTORS OF THIS CELEBRAT. ed Medical Institute wish to thank the public for the generous manner in which they have sustained the Resident Physician with their patronage. It is now six years since the Institute was established; during that time there has been over thirty thousand consultations, and in all cases, where the disease was curable, A perfect and permanent cure has been performed. Malicious charlatans have opened traps in close proximity to the Institute, adopting similar names, hoping to attract the unweary; but their failure to do so is perfectly apparent—for the business has not been effected in the least, but has gone on increasing its usefulness and profits in regular ratio. The Resident Physician has by careful study and experience within the last few years been successful in discovering new electric remedies which are far superior to any before used in the healing art, and he can warrant them to cure all cases for which they are used, or make no charges for ser vices. They will be forwarded to any place in the Pacific States upon a receipt of a letter stating the disease with symptoms, the age and sex of the patient. The Female medicines, discovered and used by the Resident Physician, are the only remedies which are safe and have the effect. The large number of cases in which they have been used, is a guarantee of their

ELECTROPATHY .- The readers of this article are particularly requested to read the advertisement of the "Electrophatic Institute," 645 Washington street, San Francisco, to be found in another column of this paper. The remarkable cures that have been effected by Dr. J. H. Josselyn, the Resident Physician of the Institute during the past six years, has gained for this establishment a reputation that has never been equalled by any medical establishment on his coast. In cases of female irregularities especially, Dr. Josselyn has gained an enviable reputation, and the spacious parlors of the Institute are continually occupied by adies asking relief from their troubles Dr. Josselvn pays particular attention to the treatment of cases in the interior of the State and upon receipt of a full description of the disease of which the applicant is so unfortunate as to be afflicted, accompanied with the real or a fictitions address, sends and the quality of the work done. 5th, The Self adjusting Tension.

The Florence was awarded the slightest injury to the system. He uses no mercury or mineral poisons. The remedies used are known as "Electic," and most of them are of his own discovery. Bluff Independent January 24th, 1866. GLAD TO HEAR IT.—For several months past Dr. J. H. Josselyn, for the last six years so well known as the Resident Physician of the Electropathic Institute, 645 Washington street, San Francisco, has contemplated retiring from his position for the purpose of accepting the position as Visiting Physician in one of the large hospitals in his native State, Massachusetts. The matter becoming Wherever the Florence has been of San Francisco, who, feeling what a great less would occur to the community by the withdrawal of a physician of such scientific attainments as Dr. Josselyn, a meeting was declared the best. It is the most called at which resolutions highly laudatory of the Doctor's abilities were passed, and a committee of gentlemen appointed to wait upon him, present the resolutions, and urge him to give up his intention of leaving the State, and continue in his present position. The arguments of the committee facilitated by certain pecuniary propositions, made by the Directors of the Institute, having induced the Doctor to return his position as Resident Physician. We announce the success of the negotiations with satisfaction, asoit would have been difficult for the numerous patients that heretofore relied on the Doctor for scientific and successful treatment to have found another physician capable of filling his place. - Democratic Standard, Jan. 31. READ IT .- We heartily recommend those of our readers who may be suffering from disease of long standing, or from complaints brought on by the use of mercury, at some former period of their lives, to read the advertisement of the Electropathic Institute, to be found in our advertising columns. Dr. J. H. Josselyn, the Resident Physician, has occupied that position for six years, and tak-ing into consideration the fact that all the Directors of the Institute are all medical men of high standing in the community, it may be considered as proof of Dr. Josselyn's ability that he has been retained in the position so long. Dr. Josselyn is a regular graduate, and is also considered by competent judges to be the most scientific and successful electrican in the United States; he will cure more than half the diseases that flesh is heir to without the use of any medicine in all cases where it is deemed necessary, but never uses anything but vegetable preparations. The doctor has been very successful in his treatment of diseases incident to females, and enjoys a much larger practice in that particular line than any other physician on the Pacific coast. The Electropathic Institute is located on one of the most popular streets in San Francisco, the rooms for the years had a cancer on her left breast, until reception of patients are fitted up in a style the three years last past, when it commenced of magnificence never before attempted by
