Make The Best of It.

Life is but a fleeting dream.
Care destroys the best of it:
Swift it glideth like a stream—
Mind you make the best of it!
Talk not of your weary woes,
Troubles, or the rest of it,
If we have but brief repose,
Let us make the best of it.

Happiness despises state:
'Tis no sage experiment.
Simply that the wise and great
May have joy and merriment.
Rank is not its spell refined—
Money's not the test of it,
But a calm, contented mind,
That will make the best of it.

Trusting in the Power above,
Which, sustaining all of us
In one common bond of love,
Building great and small of us,
Whatsoever may befall,
Sorrows or the rest of it,
We shall overcome them all,
If we make the best of it.

ANOTHER CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.—A writer sends to a Providence paper the following prescription for hydrophobia, which cannot do harm: Eat the green shoots of asparagus raw; sleep and perspiration will be induced, and the disease can thus be cured in any stage of canine madness. A man in Athens, Greece, was cured by this remedy after the paroxysms had commenced.

SELECTING SEED.—The Canada Agriculturist discourses very sensibly on the importance of sowing and planting good seed as a preliminary to a good and prolific harvest. It says: "Grain seeds are furnished with oil and starch which are designed to furnish nutriment to the germ when it first starts, before becoming capable of extracting it from the soil. Now if anything affects these, such as mold, &c., the plant that should happen to grow from such seed would be influenced by the imperfection of the seed whence it sprung."

DRAINAGE.—The Metropolitan Sanitary Commission of London computes that for every inch depth of water drained off, and which would otherwise pass into the air as vapor, an acre of land in heat is saved per acre as would raise eleven thousand cubic feet of air one degree in temperature. A farmer was asked the effect of some new draining, when he replied. "All that I know is that before it was done I could never get out at night without an overcoat, but now I never put one on." A physician took one of the Sanitary Commissioners to a hill overlooking his district. "There," said he, "wherever you see those patches of white mist I have frequent illness, and if there is a cess pool, or other nuisance as well, I can reckon on typhus every now and then. Outside these mists I am rarely wanted."

TO KEEP BUTTER IN SUMMER.—D. Hopkins, Orwell, Vermont, communicates the following to keep butter in the summer season: Pack it in well soaked tubs or firkins; put a little damp salt in the bottom and place it in a cool dry cellar on a bench of wood 18 inches from the cellar bottom, and the same from the wall. Stone or earthenware does not keep butter well, as the moisture from the surrounding atmosphere in warm weather, condenses on such vessels and soon affects the butter. Put no salt on or between the layers. Fill to within half an inch of the top, and place a clean wet cloth over the butter, and pack the edges down with a knife, and then spread thin wet salt over the cloth. Having made and dealt in butter for some time, the above mode of packing and keeping butter will be useful to many, and cause a smile of delight to the buyer.

HOW FAR DO BEES FLY?—An article on this subject from the pen of W. A. Flanders, of Shelby, Ohio, to the Prairie Farmer, says: "It has been supposed that bees fly only about three miles when collecting honey, consequently there has been a fear of overstocking an apiary. Having ascertained that there were no bees on Kelley's Island (Lake Erie), in the Spring of 1866 we established an apiary of the Italians there, for the purpose of rearing pure Italian Queens and ascertaining the flight of the Italians for food. In less than a week after they commenced flying they were busily at work on the other end of the island more than five miles distant from the apiary. This season we shall carry some of them (in a hunting box) out upon the water, and ascertain how far they can be induced to work from the hive. We are of the opinion that they will not fly as far over the water as on the land, where there is a continuous supply of flowers to call them from the hives. We shall report further discoveries at the close of the season."

A journeyman blacksmith says he has been striking for hire wages for the last twenty years with uniform success.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A YOUNG LADY Returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the city, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruby complexion of almost matchless smoothness, and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly told them that she used the Circassian Balm, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is purely in its combination, as Nature herself is simple, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in detecting impurities from, also healing, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. Price $1, sent by Mail or Express, on receipt of an order by W. L. CLARK & Co., Chemists, No. 3 West Fayette Street, Syracuse, N. Y. The only American Agents for the sale of the same. 26-1y
