'The Canadians have recently made strong efforts to attract immigrants to Canada. On the opening of the me." navigation of the St. Lawrence this season, 1,700 European immigrants landed in a single week at Quebec. Of these, all but 30 left immediately for the United States. These, and a very large number who arrived at subsequent dates, were mostly Norweginns, to whom a cold country is rather attractive than otherwise. But they would not stay in Canada ; and so were drawn off by the greater advantages of Wisconsin and Minnes-
