

INTERIOR LETTERS.

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

MONTICELLO, W. T., Sept. 9th, 1867.

The pleasant little country village from which I date my letter, is situated on the Cowlitz river, about 2 1/2 miles from where it empties into the Columbia, on a low, flat bottom, between the two rivers. It is a pretty place, and has a pretty name, and yet, I think it must have been named at random; because the name, when applied to the place, is certainly a misnomer. I am told the word means "little mountain," and this is about the only place I have seen in this part of Washington Territory, which is perfectly level. I asked a settler why it was so named, and he did not really know, but "reckoned it was because it had to be named," and I acquiesced in his sage conclusion, inwardly rejoicing that it had escaped the fate of too many places in the Territory that are loaded, smothered, choked down, and strangled, with outlandish, jaw-breaking Indian names. I do not wonder at the woe begone, haggard look of many of the citizens of this Territory, when I remember how they are compelled to twist their faces in pronouncing the names of their homes. I really believe some of their countenances have grown into shapes corresponding with the angles and knots in the geographical nomenclature of the country, so that a close observer may generally know where a man lives by the shape of his mouth.

I said this is a pretty place, and so it is, at this season of the year. But from the piles of drift wood seen over the country, I am led to the conclusion that it is sometimes rather moist and soggy, though the people say it does not over-flow here—hence, again I am led to conclude that drift wood grows in heaps, happily distributed around among the neighbors for fuel. The soil in this neighborhood is very rich, and all kinds of grain, fruit, and vegetables, grow in great luxuriance, and being so near the Columbia find a ready market at good prices. The grasses all do well, and there are some fine dairy ranches near here, where a very superior quality of butter and cheese is made.

Monticello is visited daily by steam boats from Portland, and just at the present time enjoys the luxury of a lively opposition between the O. S. N. Company's steamer Julia, and the Ranger. The result is quite favorable to the traveling community, who can get a nice steamer ride from Portland to this place for fifty cents. I am somewhat surprised that pleasure seekers do not come here more frequently than they do, instead of going to Astoria. The hunting, fishing, bathing, etc., is equally as good here, the climate is pleasant, the hotels first rate, and the expense but a mere trifle—those in quest of health and amusement should come and see the country. Stages depart three times a week for Olympia, making the trip in two days, and I am informed there is an opposition line, which makes the trip as easy as business will justify, carrying passengers at a cheaper rate than is charged by the old line.

A very light draught steamer is being built at Rainier for the Cowlitz trade, and is designed to run up the river thirty miles, and thus open to market a rich and extensive agricultural district, which is now but partially settled in consequence of its isolated position.

This steamer, I am told will run any where that the ground is a little damp, and I would suggest the idea, that it would be well for her to carry with her a few bottles of Columbia river water, for places where the dew is light. This plan might not be as good as that described by "P. W. G." in the Oregonian, as adopted by the boats on the Willamette river, but it would certainly be as feasible as the one adopted by the man who attempted to lift himself over the fence by his boot straps. I never heard whether his attempt was successful or not.

The spirit of rivalry, and opposition is not confined to the steamboats and stages here, but it has recently exhibited itself in the starting of a rival town about a mile above Monticello—though they are so near together, and are so interspersed with orchards and gardens, meadows and grain-fields that it is hard to tell "which is which," and the only point of difference I have discovered is that at the upper town they keep some good old fashioned Democratic whisky and at the lower town the Good Templars have taboed the grog shops, and will not even drink sweet cider.

The Territorial Insane Asylum is located here, and at present I learn there are fifteen inmates. The location may be a good one, but I think there must be better places in the Territory than the one selected. The buildings are not yet finished, and do not present a very attractive appearance. A coat or two of paint would improve them.

The Territory should take more pride in its nominations. Politicians must not cheat them out of their choice. In selecting men for candidates, regard must be had to their fitness and reputation. Cliques and cabals to advance individual interests must be kept down. Otherwise a party which is proud in its record, and confident in its strength, may meet defeat when great principles demand its triumph.

WALLA WALLA COUNTY.—Mr. Philip Rizzi will deliver the annual address before the fair of the above county, on the 21st of October. Mr. Rizzi is a practical man, capable of getting up an address worth publishing.

BENEFIT.—On Tuesday evening next Prof. Allsop will lecture upon "Lima and the Limaists," at Oro Fino Hall, for the benefit of Mrs. T. G. O'Connor, widow of the late politician of Portland.

PIONEERS.—A society of Oregon Pioneers is about to be instituted in this State.

OREGON

"Angels of Mercy"—That's what the Democrat calls its patrons.

New Diggings.—More gold has been found in Jackson county, in the Cascade range.

At Last.—We are enabled to state that the Linn County Agricultural Fair commences on the 30th inst., and will close on the 3d of October.

Tubs and Pails.—Carter & Hayden of Portland, will soon have a tub and pail factory in operation, with capacity to supply all orders for such articles.

Coal.—The Umatilla paper says that the party lately fitted out there to prospect, have found a vein of coal, and a gold bearing quartz ledge. If either ever amount to anything, the coal is the most valuable.

The Washington Fair.—This is the 14th. One week from next Tuesday our Washington county neighbors open their fair grounds near Hillsboro. They are a general set of people over there, and if we do not go among them during the fair it will be because we can't. We shall then send a proxy.

Lakes in the Mountains.—The party to which the ladies were attached, who lately made the ascent of Mount Hood, tested the lakes heard of in the Cascade Mountains for trout, and after an hour's fishing were in possession of nearly a hundred fine spotted beauties. Those lakes are abundant in fish.

More or Less.—The type in this office last week revolted at the idea of stripping off four or five thousand feet from the summit of Mount Hood and hence caused us to say that Col. Williamson made our pet about 21,000 feet—it should have been 11,000—yet we are not satisfied about the correctness of these figures.

The Cascade Wagon Road Party.—The Albany Journal of the 10th, says: "Yesterday Sam. Headrick and his accompanying party returned from an examination of the road as far as Des Chutes. All arrived home well and hearty. They report game abundant." We are not informed what was said of the road.

"Portland not Excepted."—It was a long time before the interior press of Oregon would admit the preferences of Portland. Now it is not uncommon to hear an up-country editor say: "Speaking of home mechanics, artists, etc., they are as good as we have in the State." "Portland not excepted." Of the mechanics in Oregon City, generally, they are a little better than the best we know of in Portland.

School Lands in Linn.—The Albany papers nearly went crazy over the sale of school lands in Linn county, and after a good deal of eussing somebody for not advertising the sections, did it themselves. Speaking of the result of the sale the Democrat says: "The school lands for some cause did not go off very readily. We are told that not more than one-fourth were sold, and the most of these were struck off at $2 per acre in greenbacks.

A safe Thing.—The Unionist says: We have abundance of pasturage and water-power in Oregon to enable us in a few years to raise our own wool and manufacture our own woolen fabrics, but what intelligent person expects us to do so if the Copperhead party gets control of the nation, and take off the wool tariff so that our wool growers and factory hands will be forced to compete with the half-paid laborers of Europe and Asia.

Indians in Disguise.—It seems by the Walla Walla Statesman that the Indians who robbed the French teamsters on Burnt River of their teams, watches, and every thing else, and tied them. Were only foot-pads in disguise. They were afterwards captured, the plunder obtained, and their names ascertained to be Sam. Alexander, John Hargrove, George Jones, and Brown, the latter some what ubiquitous. The prisoners are now confined in the Auburn Jail, where they will remain until the next term of the District Court.

Marshal Keeler.—Speaking of the death of Marshal Keeler, the Mountain says: Marshal Charles H. Keeler was a brave and good man, and was noted for his ability as a detective and for his general efficiency as a police officer. If he had a fault, it was in being over zealous in the performance of his official duties. He was buried yesterday afternoon by the Fire Department, our entire city wearing the badge of mourning and sorrow. Business of all kinds was suspended and houses closed; the schools were dismissed; sadness was depicted on every face, and all seem to feel the sad calamity that has befallen our city. He has gone and we are sad.

The Defeat.—Speaking of the defeat in California, the Oregonian says: The lesson taught in this case should not be lost. Honesty in politics is the only safe policy. A party is never strong enough to make it safe for its representatives to do wrong. Selfish, ambitious and unfit men must know that trickery will not succeed. The masses of party citizens must not cheat them out of their choice. In selecting men for candidates, regard must be had to their fitness and reputation. Cliques and cabals to advance individual interests must be kept down. Otherwise a party which is proud in its record, and confident in its strength, may meet defeat when great principles demand its triumph.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

We take the following telegraphic news from dispatches to the Oregonian.

Governor Helm's funeral took place in Louisville on the 10th.

McRuer, ex-Congressman from South Carolina, died on the 10th.

William Legadorn, late editor of the Troy Budget, died at Harlen on the 9th.

Vicksburg is under quarantine and there were 43 yellow fever cases the last day of August.

Rev. Thomas H. Taylor, Rector of Grace Church, New York, died after a short illness at his summer residence, on the 10th.

The telegraph announces the death of Hannibal Hamlin at New Orleans on the 28th of August. His disease was yellow fever.

A Vienna telegram of September 3d, states that the United States are about to purchase the Danish possessions in the West Indies.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received a dispatch from the Superintendent at Omaha stating that the Sioux and Cheyennes want to make peace.

The servant girls of New York on Saturday evening last held a monster meeting, protesting against further demands of money for the Fenians. Resolutions questioning the honesty of previous expenditures and the propriety of attempting to liberate Ireland by subjugating Canada were adopted.

The demonstration in honor of Gen. Sheridan was the largest ever seen in St. Louis. The torchlight procession was two miles long, consisting of over twenty posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, and a large number of colored organizations. Lieutenant Governor Smith and Carl Schurz delivered welcoming speeches. Sheridan merely returned thanks for the honor.

A large enthusiastic meeting of the Grant Club was held on Saturday evening in San Francisco. The object of the club is to concentrate the forces of the Union men of this city in aid of the election of a Union President, whoever may be nominated for that office. Over 800 persons were present.

Recent circulars from the Treasury Department, addressed to the principal Collectors of Customs on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, instructs them to inquire vigilantly into any case of violation of the laws in relation to the Coolie trade and report any infraction thereof immediately to the Department, as well as to notify the nearest United States Attorney of the same.

The eight thousand pardons granted by the President since April 15, 1865, include some rebel foreign ministers and agents, members of the Confederate Cabinet, Governors and upwards of ninety brigadier-generals, with a due proportion of major-generals. There have been four hundred pardon applications on file for the past two years. About one hundred of these were pardoned by Saturday's proclamation.

The Herald's special says further alarming disclosures are about to be made concerning Ashley's and Butler's conspiracy against Johnson.

[The first disclosure purports that Ashley bribed a New York Democrat, Anson Herrick, to vote for the constitutional amendment, bargaining to give Herrick's brother a Federal appointment, which Johnson, (Andy), says, he did not speedily fulfill, to the satisfaction of Ashley, since which "Ashley has been my enemy."—Ed.]

The conservative Convention which met at Montgomery, Alabama, adopted as a platform the resolutions recently passed at the Convention in Pennsylvania; mainly promising to cherish, protect and defend the Constitution as the only rightful government; acknowledging the Supreme Court as the only arbiter of all conflicts of powers under that instrument, and that each State has an exclusive right to prescribe the qualifications of its voters. The Convention appended a resolution of its own, expressing an intention to cultivate relations of harmony between the two races, by dealing justly with blacks and instruct them in their duties to themselves, to society and their country, appealing to them to place trust in them and to deal cautiously with strangers, who bear no evidence that they are honorable, till they are better known.

A FINE EDIFICE.—The M. E. Church building at Portland is rapidly advancing. We are informed it is expected to cost about $30,000, of which the larger part is already raised, and the balance will be forthcoming. We understand that a leading business man down at the Emporium is being asked to take stock in this new Methodist "ship of Zion," offered to come down handsomely if they would run the steeple up a few feet higher than that of the Presbyterian, which has been reckoned rather the crack thing in that line, illustrating the old proverb "competition is the life of trade." No doubt the new Church will be a handsome affair, creditable to Portland and our State.

NEW PLANET.—Prof. Watson, of the Ann Arbor, Mich., University, on last Friday night, while observing in the vicinity of the planet Neptune, discovered still another planet, hitherto unknown. In brilliancy it is equal to a star of the eleventh magnitude. It is situated in the eighth ascension, 14° 15', and in the declension, 6° 10' north.

JIM CAVANAUGH.—This old Minnesotan is reported to have been elected, last week, Delegate to Congress from Montana. He is an old line Democrat—but popular with all.

THE RAILROAD.—The Willamette Valley Railroad seems to be a fixed fact.

Arrangements have been made by the company here with Eastern capitalists, by which the money to build the road is to be furnished on a mortgage of the road and rolling stock.

The material for the first section of twenty-five miles is already purchased and probably on the way by this time. As soon as the bonds are completed, which the company are now preparing, and sent East, additional material will be shipped.

There is one satisfaction about this arrangement, at least, the people of Oregon can lose nothing, as the builders are secured only by a mortgage on the road, which will be utterly worthless until the road is built. A friend who has recently returned from Salem, says that after a careful investigation of the whole matter and an examination of the company's books and papers, he has concluded that we are soon to have a railroad. As to where the road will run, no definite information can be had, as there has as yet been no authorized or definite survey. If it is to be the Willamette Valley Railroad it will be built in this part of Oregon, if not it is perhaps as likely to lead off from the head of navigation on the Columbia.

THE BULLETIN ON THE ELECTION.—After the election in California the Bulletin says: If the Union party will profit by this lesson, there will be no more rotten primaries, no more frauds in conventions, and no man put up as a leader, who cannot unite good men and marshal all the elements of victory.

What is the moral of this defeat? The Union party is not strong enough to carry bad men into power. It cannot afford even to take doubtful men, and on the strength of old excitements endeavor to run them into position. It can take up its best men and win every time. Failing to do this, it insures for itself defeat. There are 10,000 Union men in this State, as is seen by the results of the last election, who will not be trifled with, but who will be found at the polls with the right ballots when good men are presented for their support.

GRANT.—A movement is commencing among the Unionists of California in favor of Gen. Grant for the Presidency.

THANKS.—We are requested by Major Thomas Charman to return the thanks of himself and family through the Enterprise, to those kind citizens who so willingly volunteered their services to aid his son Arthur, so seriously injured by a fall from his horse on the 4th inst. "This friendly aid and timely attention," concludes Mr. Charman's note to us, "will ever be remembered by us."

THE RUSH FOR THE FAMILY DYE Colors—Howe & Stevens is as great as ever. Once introduced to a family or neighborhood, and they spread like wildfire. The truth is, they are so nice to have about the house that every prudent and sensible man will have a few boxes of them on hand. They are so simple to use, and so cheap, that every one can afford to keep up to orders.

Sold by Bell & Parker, Oregon City, and by Smith & Davis, Agents for Oregon.

THE FAVORABLE TIME HAS ARRIVED.—Those new goods have arrived at Kohn & Fishel's and are now open to inspection. We can assure the ladies that they will find in Kohn & Fishel's counters, the handsomest, cheapest and most desirable dress goods—from calico to the richest and most expensive—clothing that have been brought to Portland since the war began. Now is the time for housewives to stock up their wardrobes. Prices are reduced so much as to astonish everybody. In the latest styles of business suits and elegant clothing, Kohn & Fishel are now able to eclipse any house in this city, and the goods are of the very best quality and make. There is no doubt a great change in Portland for bargains in the wardrobe of the buyer.

MARRIED.—On the evening of Wednesday, September 11th, at the residence of the bride's mother near Oswego, Clackamas County Oregon, by Rev. James R. W. Shelwood, M. A., A. CLEVELAND, and Miss L. I. TAYLOR.

DIED.—On Thursday, the 7th inst., of consumption, at her father's residence at Yoncalla, Douglas county, GERTIE, consort of H. J. FAY, of Jackson county, aged 25 years.

In this city, on the 10th, JOSEPHINE, infant daughter of William and Mary Franklin.

C. O. BOYNTON, Assessor, Clackamas County.

Two Horses Strayed! ON OR ABOUT WEDNESDAY EVENING, Sept. 4th, 1867, from the residence of Daniel Markwood, in Oregon City, two horses—one a brown gelding with white knee joint, 8 years old, last Spring. The other a sorrel gelding with white hind feet, about the same age, on the road, letters branded on left hip—8 years old last Spring. Any person knowing anything of the above described horses will confer a lasting favor on a deserving person by leaving word of their location at the office of J. Myers & Bro., Oregon City. Both shod all round, and sorrel horse had a bell on, when they left.
