-One of those strange pheromena which are observed occasionally in nature, says the Stockton Independ ent, was noticed Thursday night aboard the Julia. In coming up the Bay, in deep and apparently still water, the vessel commenced rocking to and fro, bringing ber gnawale rearly under the surface. So violent and so undulating was the motion for a minute or so, that passengercould hardly keep on their feet. The Tulare, a short distance astern, observed the motion of the Julia, and the consternation on board, but experienced nothing unusual herself.
