THE ELECTION IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY.

The battle is fought, and the re sulto is not encouraging to Union We shall not disguise the chagrin which we, in common with all result; yet it is some consolation to | slag. know that our own county is not lost. We have carried the county by an average of about twenty five, and have only lost the Sheriff, Treasurer, and one county commissioner, and they might have been saved with proper

From the manner in which our county canvass was conducted it is evident that they expected to carry every thing by storm. In nearly every precinct they made arrangements to have a crowd of Joneses', present from other precincts, and the result was that they always had a body guard, many of whom were armed with knives and pistols, and inspired with whiskey, while Union men generally remained at home.

It is evident that this was the plan of the campaign, but we are gratified to know that our candidates met this terrorism heroically, and sustained themselves, and the principles they advocated successfully, and that nearly all of them are rewarded with a triumphant election.
