The Weekly Enterprise

Correspondence

Correspondence: Weekly Enterprise.

[No date specified]

Pilger, the only city in the world, is known as the capital of the Republic of Pilger. The city was founded in 1850, and has a population of 7,000. It is located on the western shore of Lake Michigan, and is accessible by rail, steamboat, and stagecoach.

The city is divided into four wards, each with a mayor and council. The city council consists of seven members, elected by the people. The mayor is the ex-officio presiding officer, and the councilmen are paid $1,000 per year.

The city has a fine public school system, including a high school and a normal school. There are also private schools, including a Catholic convent and a Jewish academy.

The city is served by several newspapers, including the Pilger Enterprise, the Pilger News, and the Pilger Times. The city also has a library, a museum, and a public library.

The city is noted for its fine parks, including Pilger Park, which contains a beautiful garden, a statue of George Washington, and a large bandstand. The city also has a fine public library, a museum, and a public park.

The city is served by several railroads, including the Great Western Railway, which runs from Chicago to St. Louis, and the Central Pacific Railway, which runs from St. Louis to San Francisco. The city is also served by several steamboat lines, including the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Steamship Company, which runs from Chicago to the mouth of the Mississippi River.

The city is noted for its fine public schools, including a high school and a normal school. There are also private schools, including a Catholic convent and a Jewish academy.

The city has a fine public library, a museum, and a public park.

The city is served by several railroads, including the Great Western Railway, which runs from Chicago to St. Louis, and the Central Pacific Railway, which runs from St. Louis to San Francisco.

The city is also served by several steamboat lines, including the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Steamship Company, which runs from Chicago to the mouth of the Mississippi River.

The city is noted for its fine public schools, including a high school and a normal school. There are also private schools, including a Catholic convent and a Jewish academy.

The city has a fine public library, a museum, and a public park.

The city is served by several railroads, including the Great Western Railway, which runs from Chicago to St. Louis, and the Central Pacific Railway, which runs from St. Louis to San Francisco.

The city is also served by several steamboat lines, including the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Steamship Company, which runs from Chicago to the mouth of the Mississippi River.