We find, in the Churchman, of this city, the first instalment of the published sermon of Rt. Rev. George W. Doane's sermon on the death of President Taylor, from the text(II Samuel, iii, 38), "Know ye that there is a prince, and a great man falled this day in Iarael." We wish we could find upace for the whole of it in our columns, for a more eloquent and lofty conceived tribute to the memory of the deceased patriot we have not yet met with. As it is we must content cursolves with a few extracts: —N. Y. Express.
