

HUMOROUS.

"A little fun now and then, is valued by the wisest men."

An Electioneering Glean.

One of the greatest electioneers of the age is Mr. Daniel R. Russell, a candidate for Auditor in Mississippi. His mode of electioneering is to deal with the "voters" with the most blunt frankness, discarding every particle of blarneying humbug. The following sketch of a late speech delivered by him must have puzzled his opponent to reply to:

Ladies and Gentlemen: I rise—but there is no use of telling you that; you know I am up as well as I do. I am a modest man—very—but I have never lost a pleasure by it in my life. Being a scarce commodity among candidates, I thought I would mention it, for fear if I didn't you never would hear it.

Candidates are generally considered as snuffboxes, but they are not; they are the pulchrit man in the world, shakely by the hand, ask you how's your family, what's the prospect for crops, &c., and I am the pulchrit man there in the State. Davy Crockett says the pulchrit man he ever saw when he asked a man to drink tea of his back so that he might drink as much as he pleased. I beat that all hollow; I give a man a chance to drink twice if he wishes, for I not only turn around, but about my eyes. I am not only the pulchrit man, but the best electioneerer. You ought to see me shaking hands with the variations—the pump-handle and pendulum, the cross-out and wiggle-waggle—I understand the science perfectly, and if any of the county candidates wish instructions they must call on me.

Fellow-citizens, I was born—I had not been I wouldn't have been a candidate; but I am going to tell you where; 'twas not in Mississippi, but 'twas on the right side of the negro line; yet that's no compliment, as the negroes are mostly born on the same side. I started in the world as poor as a church mouse, yet I came honestly by my poverty, for I inherited it; and if I did start poor, no man can say but that I have held my own remarkably well.

Candidates generally tell you, if you think they are qualified, &c. Now, I don't ask your thoughts; I ask your votes. Why, there's nothing to think of, except to watch and see that Swan's name is not on your ticket. If so, think to scratch it off and put mine on. I am certain that I am competent, for who had ought to know better than I do? Nobody. I will allow that Swan is the best Auditor in the State—that is, till I am elected; then perhaps it's not proper for me to say anything more. Yet, as an honest man, I am bound to say that I believe that it's a grievous sin to hide any thing from my fellow-citizens; therefore, I say that it's my private opinion, publicly expressed, that I'll make the best Auditor in the United States.

'Tis not for honor I wish to be Auditor, for in my own county I was offered an office that was all honor—Coroner—which I respectfully declined. The Auditor's office is worth some $5,000 a year, and I am in for it like a thousand of brick.—To show my goodness of heart, I'll make this offer to my competitor. I am sure of being elected, and he will lose something by the canvass; therefore I am willing to divide equally with him, and make these two offers: I'll take the salary, and he may have the honor; or he may have the honor, and I'll take the salary.

In the way of honors I have received enough to satisfy me for life. I went out to Mexico, eat pork and beans, slept in the rain and mud, and swallowed every thing except live Mexicans. If ordered to "go," I went; "charge," I charged; "break for the chaparral," you had better believe I beat a quarter nag in doing my duty.

My competitor, Swan, is a bird of golden plumage, who has been swimming for the last four years in the Auditor's pond, at $5,000 a year. I am for rotation. I want to rotate him out, and to rotate myself in. There's plenty of room for him to swim outside of the pond; therefore pop in your votes for me; I'll pop him out, and pop myself in.

I am for a division of labor. Swan says he has to work all the time, with his nose down to the public grindstone. Four years must have ground it to a pint. Poor fellow, the public ought not to insist on having the handle of his mug ground clean off. I have a large, full-grown, and well-brown nose, red as a beet and tough as sole-leather. I rush to the post of duty; I offer it up as a sacrifice. I clap it on the grindstone. Fellow-citizens, grind away—grind till I halter away, and that will be some time first, for I'll hang on to my nose as tight as a dead African.

brother, Dan. Not a business name, for my private was poor people, who lived where the quality appreciated all the nice money that they had to take what was left and divide around among us; but it's as handsome as I am—S. Russell. Remember, every one of you, that it's not Swan.

I am sure to be elected; on, one and all great and small, short and tall, when you come down to Jackson, after the election, stop at the Auditor's office; the hatch string always hangs out; enter without knocking; take off your things and make yourself at home.

[Dan cringed out of the stand, holding his hand like a tip-up, amid the cheering for "Dan," "A Dan Russell," and young "Davy Crockett."]

TOOTH-PULLING ILLUSTRATED.—Before the days of chloroform there was a quack who advertised tooth-drawing without pain. The patient was placed in a chair and the instrument applied to his teeth with a wrench, followed by a roar from the unexpectantly surprised sufferer.—"Stop," cried the dentist, "compose yourself. I told you I would give you no pain, but I only just give you that twinge as a specimen to show you Cartwright's method of operating." Again the instrument was applied—another tug, another roar. "Now don't be impatient; that is Demargue's way; be cooled and calm—you will now be sensible of the superiority of my method." Another application, another tug, another roar. "Now pray be quiet—that is Parkinson's mode, and you don't like it, no wonder." By this time the teeth hung by a thread; and whipping it out, the operator exultingly exclaimed: "That is my mode of tooth-drawing without pain, and you are now enabled to compare it with the operations of Cartwright, Demargue and Parkinson."

A WELL-WATERED FARM.—An individual was examining a farm, in the vicinity of Boston, a few days since, designing to purchase it if it should prove suitable for his purpose. The land seemed fertile, the building snug and comfortable, the woodland, pasturing, meadows, &c., were well proportioned, and in short nothing required to the successful prosecution of agriculture seemed lacking. The customer, however, did not seem satisfied with the property. "It is not sufficiently watered," said he to the owner.

"Not well watered?" was the reply, "my dear sir, there is not a six-acre lot on the farm but has a living spring on it."

"Oh, ay," said the customer, "there is plenty of small springs, but no large streams or reservoirs. It would do very well for ordinary purposes, but I wish to purchase a milk farm!"

HARRASSING AMERICAN TRAVELERS.—Mr. Benard, the artist, who has returned from Europe after three years absence, says that at Milan he was put under a guard of soldiers and marched to the police office, at mid-day on a Sunday, to have his passport examined, because he was an American, and that the treatment toward Americans, by both the Neapolitan and Austrian officials, is such as to create the conviction that secret orders have been given by the governments of those countries to embarrass and harass American travelers as much as possible, in order to drive them out, and to keep them out, of the dominions of the two despots.

PITTSBURGH IN 1764.—A Revolutionary worthy visited Pittsburgh in 1764, thus spoke of the then future Birmingham of the Ohio Valley:

"Pittsburgh is inhabited almost entirely by Scotch and Irish, who live in paltry log houses, and are as dirty as the north of Ireland, or even Scotland. There is much small trade carried on, goods are brought at the vast expense of 48 per cent from Philadelphia and Baltimore. They take in the shops, money, wheat, flour and skins. They have four attorneys, two doctors, and not a priest of any sect, church or chapel; so they are likely to be damned without benefit of clergy. The rivers so approach on the town, that I was told the Alleghany had in thirty years, carried away one hundred yards. The place, I believe, will never be very considerable."

"One Truth is the seed of other truths. It is sown in us to bear fruit not to lie torpid. The power of mind by which truth becomes prolific, is freedom. Our great duty is to encourage vigorous action of mind. The greater number of free and vigorous minds brought to bear upon a subject, the more truth is promoted."

Tanahiti Academy.

THIS Institution is situated in the town of Forest Grove, Tanahiti Plains. It is now in its infancy, yet parents and guardians desiring to send to this school, may be assured, by only the healthfulness and beauty of the location, the intelligence and morality of the inhabitants, but especially that such teachers will be employed as will make the highest mental and moral improvement of the scholars, their chief object.

A spacious and noble Academy building has been erected upon a site, commanding the view of two extensive prairies, with their intervening and encircling forests, and when completed, it will furnish ample accommodations for both departments of the school.

Forest Grove is about equidistant from the towns of St. Helens, Milton, Portland, Milwaukie, Oregon City, and Lafayette.

The Spring Term of the Institution will commence—March 12, 1851. Summer Term—June 11, " Fall Term—Sept. 17, " Winter Term—Dec. 10, " The Terms will be eleven weeks each. Tuition, Primary studies 60¢—Higher do. 80¢ per term. Board may be obtained in private families.

By order of the Board. G. H. ATKINSON, Sec'y. January 10, 1851-11f.

To Immigrants and others. THE undersigned, proprietors of the Town of Milton, being desirous to have improvements progress rapidly, propose that they will give to every head of a family two town lots, and to every single man one town lot, who will become an actual settler in said town within six months, and build a house upon the same; in addition to which, we will sell building materials to those that accept this proposition, and allow them a reasonable length of time to pay for them in.

To any one that will build a good Grist Mill, well calculated to do the business of the place, we will give a mill site, together with land sufficient for the purposes of a grist mill.

This town is advantageously located upon the lower branch of the Willamette river, just far enough above its junction with the Columbia to render it an excellent harbor, and has the advantage of being accessible from all sides, either by land or water; it is also the lowest point upon the river that has a wagon road leading from it to the Willamette valley.

Two mountain streams run, one on each side of the town, affording water power sufficient to manufacture 20,000 feet of lumber per day—upon one of which three saw mills are now under way.

Although this town has been laid out but a few months, it has already made much progress in point of improvement and commerce, and bids fair, to become the most important one in the Territory.

To those desirous of taking up land claims, we would state that we are surrounded by as beautiful and fertile a section of country as Oregon can boast of, including the Seaplace plain, Sausal Island, the rich and extensive Prairies lately acquired upon the Catalpa or Lewis river, and the fine land in the immediate vicinity of the town.

American and Foreign Agency.

WASHINGTON, D. C. THE undersigned, AMOS HAZARD PALMER, of New York, Attorney and Counselor at the Supreme Court of the United States, has associated himself with Worthington Garrison Sneath of New Orleans, also an Attorney and Counselor of the said Court, and into Solicitor of the General Land Office of the United States, for the transaction of the said Federal Government.

They will attend to all professional business in the Supreme Court of the United States, and especially to cases of California land titles coming up on appeal.

To the recovery of every description of claims in law or equity against the United States, before Congress or the Executive Department, and against foreign Governments, before any board of Commissioners at Washington.

To the settlement of accounts with the State, Treasury, War, Navy, Post Office, and Interior Departments.

To obtain the remission of fines, penalties, and forfeitures, for alleged violations of the Revenue, Post Office, or other laws.

To the investment of funds in United States Stocks, and collecting dividends thereon.

To securing Letters Patent for Inventions from the United States or from European Governments.

To the disposal of lands in any of the States or Territories of the United States, to European capitalists or immigrants.

To the collection of debts, claims, legacies, and inheritances, either in the United States or any foreign country.

And to the transaction of any business requiring the intervention of an Attorney or Counselor.

Mr. PALMER was Director of the NEW YORK AMERICAN AND FOREIGN AGENCY, which he established in 1830, and which became extensively and advantageously known in all parts of the commercial world. He has visited Europe twice on the business of said Agency. His conduct and tenor was made under the immediate auspices of Messrs. N. M. Rothschild and Sons of London, with their special letter in his favor to the different branches of that House, and to their principal correspondents in the chief cities of Europe, on business connected with the acquisition of American Stocks, and he has the advantage, therefore, of being personally known to all the leading foreign bankers and the most eminent gentlemen of the legal profession abroad.

Mr. Sneath has had extensive experience, officially and professionally, in the practice of the Civil Law, the Law Merchant, our Land Laws, and the French, Spanish, and Mexican Laws, affecting land titles in all our acquired territories.

Both the undersigned are conversant with the principal European languages.

All business confided to their Agency shall be promptly and faithfully attended to.

AARON HAIGHT PALMER, WORTHINGTON G. SNEATH.
