OREGON SPECTATOR.

[illegible] EDITOR — Our Home is on the Prairie, and Freedom our Firm Determination. — AND PROPRIETOR.

VOL. [illegible] OREGON CITY, (OREGON TERRITORY,) SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1853. NO. 42.

THE OR[illegible]N SPECTATOR.

[illegible] NEWSPAPER,

[illegible]

TERMS [illegible] IN ADVANCE

[illegible]

RATE OF [illegible]

[illegible]

WOMAN'S [illegible]

[illegible]'s Mother.

[illegible] LIFE.

[illegible]s at N. O. on the 18th [illegible] Madame Zulime Carrière, [illegible] Dr. Gardette, of New [illegible] Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines. [illegible] residence of her son, Dr. [illegible] advanced age of seventy. [illegible] Delta of the 20th inst., [illegible] notice of this remarka[illegible]

[illegible] the heroine of that in[illegible] romance in real life, [illegible] developed in the celebrated [illegible] trials.

[illegible]ame was Zuline Carrière, [illegible] the old French colony of [illegible] parents were emigrants from [illegible]ers and romance—the la[illegible] Troubadours Provençaux [illegible] the Gipsy race, which lo[illegible] of Louisiana, settled along [illegible], and whose lovely daughters [illegible] real objects of the admiration [illegible] gallant French cavaliers [illegible] shed the first colonists, dom[illegible] that of the poetic Provençal [illegible] a stock, it is not remarkable [illegible] Carrières should have derived [illegible]y personal beauty. The [illegible] herself and her three sisters [illegible] real themes of admiration in the [illegible] Louisiana. The warm and ge[illegible]ve, and luxurious atmosphere of [illegible]ture, ripened these charms into [illegible]ty at a very early age. Zu[illegible] hardly emerged into her teens [illegible]r hand was sought by numerous [illegible] The successful aspirant gained [illegible]—Claude Melnotte in Bulwer's [illegible]

[illegible] lodging an imaginary [illegible] [illegible] incognita of nobility, [illegible] of a beautiful but unsuspecting [illegible]. [illegible] was caught by the [illegible]. The French nobleman [illegible] [illegible] a confectioner, and [illegible] a married man, who had [illegible] deceived. He was arrested [illegible] ecclesiastical court in this [illegible] was consigned, and sen[illegible] punished, but afterwards es[illegible] there heard of. Then [illegible] [illegible] with Jerome de [illegible]

[illegible] and after the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]