Some villains have, within the last two years, gone into my nursery at this place and stolen trees, cuttings and shrubs to the amount of some four or five hundred dollars worth; that I know of, besides stealing fruit, some of the varieties are easily known. Among the apple trees are about one hundred of the Newtown Pippin, taken last winter all at one time. They were all grafted in the root and one year's growth when stolen. I regret had sold more than ten or twelve of this kind to but one person, who I think took all of it to California. I will pay the above reward to any one who will give information that will lead to the detection of the criminals.

GREAT AMERICAN BOOK.

WE are glad to see, a prospectus in a late number of the "Knickerbocker Magazine," that some of the literary friends of L. Gaylord Clark, Esq., the popular editor of this work, have devised a plan for his benefit. It is the publication of a splendid volume, composed of original articles written expressly for the book by fifty American authors, among whom are Washington Irving, Fitz Greene Halleck, Wm. C. Bryant, H. W. Longfellow, Donald G. Mitchell, G. V. Curtis, N. P. Willis, and others. The volume is to be illustrated with portraits of the writers, finely engraved on steel from original pictures, and promises to be in every way one of the most attractive books ever issued in this country. The object of the committee who have charge of the publication is to raise from the profits of the book a sum sufficient to purchase a House for Mr. Clark, who has for over twenty years devoted himself to his literary labors, and as a token of their regard, without expecting that reward which should be his due. We give the prospectus in most hearty approbation, and hereby extend our warmest wishes for its success.
