Senator John H. Mitchell has arrived in Portland.

Within the last ten years the United States has sold $43,000,000 worth of arms and munitions of war to Europe.

Sir James Douglass, founder of Victoria, and first governor of the colony, died suddenly Thursday night of last week.

Boston Corbett, the man who shot J. Wilkes Booth, is sick and in destitute circumstances at his home in Camden, N. J.

Sam. A. Moreland, news and commercial editor of the Portland Oregonian, has gone to San Francisco. Result—dearth of State news in that paper, we fear.

Douglas county is sending tomatoes in large quantities to Salem. The Independent says C. W. Wimton has already shipped 44 bushels to that market.

Wm. Lair Hill, Esq., is now sojourning in Wasco county on the Deschutes. He is dividing his time between angling, hunting and looking after his fine band of mares.

The Portland Standard says the ladies at Clatsop, while in the surf, say, "Woman wants but little pants below, nor wants that little long," which accords with their usual good taste of wanting a "way up pair."

The New York Sun puts in the field for the next Presidential election—Hendricks, of Indiana, for President; Eaton, of Connecticut, for Vice President; and it "might go farther and fare worse," as the old proverb has it.

Beef Canning.—The Astorian says: Notwithstanding the many reports to the contrary, we are assured by the proprietors of Kinney's cannery that they have not yet determined to pack canned beef this Fall. Should the markets change so as to enable them to can meats, they assure us they will give due notice of the fact.

The present population of Kansas is over half a million. The total grain crop of this year is expected to amount to 120,000,000 bushels, of which about 80,000,000 will be corn, nearly 20,000,000 wheat, and the remainder oats, barley, rye, and other small grains. The value of the agricultural products in 1875 was over $43,000,000; this year it is estimated at $60,000,000.

The once well-known Jim Ashley, of Ohio, who got the name of Impeacher Ashley in Andrew Johnson's times, has joined the Democratic band. Since 1872 when he supported Greeley, no one had heard of Ashley until recently, when he rose up in the Ohio Democratic convention, and, to the consternation of the whole party, announced his complete conversion. This will be a heavy load.

The Oregonian is making a "fuss" because the lawyers who defeated Upton for Judge in 1874 are now signing a paper declaring his fitness for the position of second controller of the treasury, in order that he may be confirmed by the Senate. If the editor of the Oregonian had taken but a moment's thought on the subject, he would not only have kept "mum" but signed the petition himself—they want to get rid of him.

New York, Aug. 9.—The Times Washington special has the following in social scandal: "John Q. Thompson, of Indiana, a newspaper man, brings suit for divorce against his wife, who has been employed in the treasury department here, charging, among other things, that she has at divers times and in sundry places committed adultry with Gen. N. P. Banks and others, specifying several occasions during the years 1872 and 1873. He also states that banks obtained for her a position in the treasury department, and that while there she lived as his mistress.

The Astorian says but nine vessels in all have been wrecked upon the Columbia river bar in the past twenty-five years. Including the barkentine Architect, the last one lost, which occurred about two years ago, the list is as follows:

Barks Mendora and Merrithew, lost January 12, 1853; came in without pilots, wind failed after getting in, and drifted ashore.

Bark Oriole, lost September 19, 1853.

Brig Detroit, lost Dec. 22, 1855, on outer spit; going out at night.

Bark Desdemona, lost Dec. 31, 1856; came in without a pilot, ran on sands six miles inside.

Schooner Woodpecker, lost May 10, 1861, four miles inside.

Bark Industry, lost March 16, 1865; coming in without a pilot.

Bark W. B. Scranton, lost May 5, 1867.

[illegible] preparations are being made [illegible] for the coming session [illegible] Lodge, Knights of Pythias [illegible] World [illegible] of next [illegible] which is [illegible] try. Although [illegible] popular secret order [illegible] fourteenth year of its existence [illegible] of Pythias claim to have upwards of sixteen hundred lodges in the United States, with a membership of over one hundred and fifty thousand Knights. Assurances have already been received that well-drilled uniformed divisions will be present from nearly every city in the Union, and that the occasion will be a grand and successful pageant. The first day will be devoted to receiving and escorting visiting brethren, organization of the Supreme Lodge, and a grand parade; the second to be a prize drill, dress parade, and award of prizes, the ceremonies closing with a grand banquet in the evening.

The Indian War.

Capt. Rawn proved to be a courgeous man, even if some hot-headed editor did unjustly criticise his conduct in not stopping the Indians on Lolo trail. He had 150 volunteers and 25 regulars; the volunteers left him when they heard that they and other settlers in Bitter Root valley were not to be disturbed by the Indians. No wonder Capt. Rawn did not attack the Indians. The agreed if the volunteers from Bitter Root valley, would not dispute their passage to pass peacefully through the Bitter Root valley, but say they will scalp everyone they find after reaching Big Hole. They offered $1 a piece for rifle catridges of any description. They trade a great deal with settlers in the valley, and sold a large number of horses stolen on this side. One Indian sold a gold watch for $20 that he had taken from Mr. Baker of Salmon river, who was killed by them. The Indians said they would not harm the volunteers, but would fight the regulars. They acted very impudent in their passage through; said they were going to join the Sioux. They appeared to have money in large quantities, both gold and currency; their horses were completely worn out, and at last accounts they were moving very slowly, from three to five miles per day.

Great Battle.

One of the greatest battles ever fought with Indians occurred on the 9th of August between Col. Gibbons' command, numbering 182 men, and the Nez Perces. 100 Indians are reported killed and 80 of Gibbons' command. Capt. Logan and Lieut. Bradley were killed. Gen. Gibbon, Capt. Williams and Lieuts. Coolidge, English and Woodruff were wounded, Gen. Gibbon only slightly. Bradley was the first man killed. The Indians captured a gatling gun, all the horses of the command, their supplies, reserve ammunition, etc.

Further Particulars.

Helena, Montana, August 11.—A courier from Gen. Gibbon arrived at Deer Lodge, Mont., at 3:30 p. m. to-day with dates to the 11th. Gibbons' supply train and camp was not captured as first reported. There was no fighting after the first day's battle on the 9th. Gibbons' losses are: Killed—Capt. Logan, Lieuts. Bradley and Bostwick, 17 men and 5 citizens. The wounded—Gen. Gibbon, Capt. Williams, Lieuts. Coolidge, Woodruff and English, the latter seriously, besides 36 men and 4 citizens. The Indians suffered severely, as 40 dead Indians were counted on about one-half of the battle field. Howard has arrived and would persue the Indians as soon as his command arrived. Gen. Gibbon would move to Deer Lodge and take his wounded to Fort Shaw as soon as medical aid and transportation arrived. The Indians had disappeared, in which direction has not as yet been ascertained.

More Murders.

Helena, Montana, August 14.—The following is just received from Bannack: Indians crossed at the head of Horse prairie to Lemhi, striking Stephenson's this morning, killing the Pierce brothers and others en route. They are evidently making their way to Snake river.

FROM LANE COUNTY.

Cottage Grove, Lane County, August 3, 1877.—Editor E. O.—Times financially about as usual. Some cloudy days of late, light showers occasionally, just enough to check headers and reapers, but not enough to injure out-standing hay and grain that is cut, but can't say as to the future.

There have been three or four cases of sore throat lately in this neighborhood, two deaths have occurred, both from relapse after convalescing, one about three and the other about seven or eight years of age; with this exception the general health of this part of the country is good.

Considerable harvesting done already, and a great deal of our grain yet too green to cut; some grain slightly injured by rust but not as a general thing. Thermometer now stands at 68 degrees, half past three o'clock p. m.

The Masonic fraternity here buried an old gentleman by the name of S. B. Shortridge, he was between 80 and 90 years of age. We think he was an uncle to the Shortridge that was at La Grande some three or four years ago in company with Mrs. Chamberlain.

We understand that the man we spoke of a short time ago taking passage on another man's wagon, got as far as the Dalles with his family and concluded to return in company with the sheriff of Douglass county, such is the report at present.

We have young grouse here in abundance.

Our fruit crop is rather light this season—late frosts the cause.

The farmers warehouse will soon be filled with grain. We expect to get at least $1 per bushel for good wheat this season. The wheat crop is not as good as was expected early in the season.

This beautiful morning August 3, finds the clouds fast disappearing. Thermometer now stands at 73 in the shade, 10 o'clock and 50 minutes a. m.

We are sorry to hear that there is no more of the E. O. editor than there is of 113 pounds, hardly sufficient for the labors of that lively paper in a fast country occupied by a prosperous people. We would advise him to leave the sanctum for awhile and flee into the mountains, shoot birds and fish and then rest, take it cool, shake off the busy cares and sleep in the open air. Were he at Slabtown he could go to the mountains [illegible] morning before breakfast, and [illegible] to partake of the [illegible] of a [illegible] a deer or two [illegible] stature, [illegible] cumbent upon him, for without him Umatilla county would be dead, [illegible] speaking.

We feel somewhat lost as circumstances will not permit us to visit your country this season as has been our custom for several years past, not that we have received any benefits financially from our visits, but enjoyed them very much as our friends in Eastern Oregon are numerous and very kind, and they make us feel at home wherever we are in their midst.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

Several times we have referred to the great advantages which would accrue to our county if the experiment of boring artesian wells were a success. Thousands and tens of thousands of acres of land, now only fit for the produce of wheat, could be made to produce every vegetable and cereal now so luxuriantly grown on our bottom land. No one has heretofore stepped forward with the capital and energy and said "let us experiment," but at last we have such a man, not a resident of Oregon, however, but of our sister Territory of Washington. We refer to Dr. Blalock, who has large landed and agricultural interests in our county. He is about to commence boring on his lands near Milton for artesian water, and the general opinion is that he will be successful in striking a flowing stream. Mr. W. F. Kimball has written a letter to Lee Moorhouse on the subject of this brief article, in which he says he hopes that our county court will lend some aid to the experiment of sinking for artesian wells. He argues with us that if successful, "it will prove one of the grandest sources of wealth to our county. Thousands of acres of now untaxed lands will yield a great revenue." If the county court do not feel justified in lending a helping hand, a small contribution from our wealthy citizens would accomplish the result; that is of proving beyond a doubt that artesian water can easily be secured between the Cascade and Blue mountains.

CATTLE CULTURE.

The English influence on the cattle culture of our interior plains is strong and growing. The Springfield Republican notes that recent travelers report the cattle ranges actively prospected by Englishmen or Irishmen with an eye to becoming herdsmen, and improving the cattle by the introduction of thoroughbreds, and the Edinburgh Scotsman has an agricultural reporter in the region. Albert Crane, a Chicago Englishman, whose Colorado farm covers only 10,000 acres, and George Grant, whose 25,000 acre farm lies off Victoria on the Kansas Pacific, are making the country blossom with high-bred Scotch bulls, $25,000 cows, and stock of all kinds of aristocratic pedigree. These things promise well for the future meat supply of the country. Mr. Grant says his wheat crop this year averages thirty bushels to the acre, worth $1 44 at Kansas City.

OREGON VS. MAINE.

G. D. Richardson, just settled in Pendleton, and from the State of Maine, hands us the following memoranda which he desires published in the East Oregonian for the benefit of his many friends and acquaintances who yet remain in that State:

I am better pleased with Eastern Oregon than other part of the State, and I have been over nearly the whole of it.

Prices in Maine are—beef and mutton per lb, 15@20c; potatoes per bushel, $1; cucumbers each, $2c; wood per cord, $3@$5; wages, farm hands, per month, $10@$15, for about six months in the year, and very hard to get at that, except in haying and harvest, when better wages are paid. Carpenters, $1@$2 per day; blacksmiths, $1@$2 per day; harness-maker, $1 25 per day; stone masons, $2 per day.

Prices in Oregon are—beef and mutton steak per lb, 6c; potatoes per lb, 1c; cucumbers each, 1c; wood per cord, $5; farm hands per month, $30; day laborers, $2 per day; sheep herders, $30@40 per month; carpenters, $3@$4 per day; blacksmiths, from $2 to $4 per day; stone masons, $4 per day; harness makers, $3 per day.

Good dairy cows in Maine are worth from $40 to $50 each; in Oregon from $25 to $40. The cost of keeping a cow in Maine is about $40 per year; in Oregon, $10. Good average stock cows can be bought here for $15; in Maine from $35 to $40. Stock cattle and horses are fed in Maine 6 months in the year, while in Oregon they are generally not fed at all. In Maine it is very cold in Winter and hot in Summer; the nights being very, very warm; here nights are cool, and a person can sleep comfortably under a blanket during the warmest season of the year.

Portland is infested with burglars.
