There has been but few people in attendance at the present term of the County Court.

D. M. Jesse of Walla Walla gathered 8 pounds of peaches from a tree one year old and 14 tons of grapes from four acres of land.

A Puget Sound paper declares that there is room for 10,000 farms in the Skagit valley alone, which is cheaply and easily cleared, much of it being brush land not heavily timbered.

A Puget Sound editor reports having seen fifty canoes full of Indians, with sails spread to the breeze, heading for the mouth of Puyallup river, the other day. The people were hop-pickers. Indians and Chinese work together in the business.

The contract for Territorial printing was let on Tuesday. The following bids were received: Jas. A. Pinney & Co., $500; A. J. Boyakin & J. R. Pile, $600; Milton Kelley, $645. Jas. A. Pinney & Co. were awarded the contract.—Boise Statesman.

A cow belonging to Mr. Charles Wilkins of North Salem came home the other morning with a bit of paper fastened to her horn, containing ten cents and this note, "enclosed find 10 cents for one quart of milk taken this morning," signed a tramp.

At Rutland, Vt., a block of granite has been quarried without the use of powder, weighing about six hundred and eighteen tons—being forty feet long, seventeen feet high and ten feet thick. This immense stone is said to be perfect in every respect and is believed to be the largest block of granite ever quarried in the state.

The Racine, Wis., Journal says all the manufactories in that city have received more orders lately than they can fill, and every shop is in full blast. J. I. Case & Co. have put on extra workmen and work 12 hours a day. An Oregon order calls for fifty threshers. The wagon and fanning mill shops are also working to their utmost capacity.

GREAT FIRE.

Last Monday Hale's Piano factory in the city of New York was burned. The report is that 100 lives were lost. The briefest statement possible is that the fire originated through Nichols Monk, who was heating varnish over a stove. While his back was turned it got ablaze, and the flames spread like a flash. He fled at once for his life, giving the alarm as he ran, but the windows being opened the flames swept through the building, finding fresh fuel at every step. It is supposed about 200 men were employed in the building at the time—on the seventh floor 26, on the fourth 31, and on the fifth, sixth and other floors about 150. It cannot yet be ascertained how many were burned in the building. The hatchways in one corner were opened, and the flames rushed to the upper stories as if through a flue. Several firemen say that from the windows of the upper story of the factory men were calling for ladders and for help, for God's sake!

A QUEER COURSE.—A strange story has been told the Salem Statesman that runs in this wise: Some time ago it was given out that Michael O'Laughin, living on French prairie, had died at his sister's residence. The funeral was duly celebrated at the church, though the coffin was not opened, since the deceased requested that it be not done, because he did not want his wife to take a last look at him. They had quarreled some time before, and were divorced. In due time, at the request of the wife of the deceased, E. S. Gregoire was appointed administrator of the estate. The administrator commenced settling up the business as by law required, when rumors reached him that O'Laughlin is not dead, but has been seen since his alledged funeral. The grave has been opened and the coffin lid taken off, when lo and behold the carcass of a sheep is disclosed. No criminal intent is ascribed to the parties in this transaction, and it is explained by the fact that O'Laughlin is a very eccentric person, and perhaps desired to spite his divorced wife. It is supposed that he is with friends in Illinois.

A few days ago, the old German, engaged in cutting wood for Prof. Arnold, and who is camping just below town, was robbed by a certain boy or boys who are to be found constantly slipping around the town causing the people great trouble on account of having to watch, carefully, every little article not in sight. The parties referred to broke into the old man's tent, which he keeps well fastened, and took four dollars in silver out of the pockets of a pair of pants; a purse containing a gold nugget of about four dollars value; one small three bladed pen knife; one larger pocket knife with brass at each end of the handle which was black and covered with cross engravings, making the handle rough, the little blade broken so as to leave about one inch in the knife; some tobacco; all the sugar in camp and a lead pencil. These are all the articles missed. One of the knives has been found and a clue to the whole theft is thereby given. These boys are to be found idly lounging about the town from year to year, avoiding school into which they should be put by their parents, but are not and thus growing up to trouble the people more in course of time, for they will have to state is plaintiff and these individuals defendants, as sure as that they are not forced into school. The people will stand this state of things but little longer. These boys must either go into school and be taught or they will be made an example of.

MEADOWS HEARD FROM.

EDITOR BULL:—After long and premeditated deliberation—if there be such a thing—we have decided to impart to you a portion of the vast amount of information that has for so long been impoverishing our appetite by over-taxing our already weakened mind. We have long been apprised of and oppressed by the fact that it it our absolute and imperative duty to write for our county paper, but owing to the aforesaid weakness of our overtaxed mind and the scarcity of items, we have been persuaded to practice our very common and convenient method of "indefinitely postponing," yet we are aware that by so doing we have triumphantly courted the editorial spectre that ever haunts our dreamy visions after having read the kind invitation and request that never fails to appear in the last column, third page of our weekly issue. To rid ourself of this ghostly apparition, is one of the grand incentives that now guides our wandering pen. Another, and one not less important may be found in the fact that we believe that this, the fairest, and most wealthy valley of Umatilla county, has been unceremoniously slighted by your columns. Your veritable reporter in his great anxiety to arrive at Butter creek passed us by with scarcely a note. In our opinion this "ought not so to be." True the Meadows are a quiet, unassuming people, and seldom furnish a first-class item drawn from the point of the bloody knife; neither can we boast of our drunkenness, "pretty school marms," nor of many Indian scares; but we did have one scare not long since, and Mr. Bull, we of the Meadows were proud of that scare, and were sadly disappointed when you failed to make honorable mention of it in your paper. Should a like instance occur, with similar negligence on your part, we predict you will lose many valuable subscribers in this locality—solid men of the county.

We will now notice a few of our principal farmers, their farms, stock etc., give you a few items in brief and sign ourself yours truly for a week.

J. M. Leezer, some years ago purchased and has since greatly improved what was then known as that "Jeb Ranch." The price paid by Mr. Leezer was $9,000. Since purchasing, by cultivation, building and otherwise he has enhanced its value to perhaps $12,000. This place alone will yield a crop of near 4,000 bushels the present season. He takes pleasure in conducting one through his spacious farm, and can exhibit horses of which he is, and well may be proud of. We believe he has ceased to be an extensive cattle dealer.

Next on our line of travel we arrive at the handsome residence of David Coffman. "Uncle Davy" will gladly welcome you to the cool shade, and really create within you a feeling of sympathy as he retreats the former loveliness of the Meadows. He is one of the earliest settlers, and doubtless things have changed much during his stay here.

"Where once the weeping willow waved
Now glides the rattling sickle blade."

He yet owns a good hay farm, with an average grain yield 16,000 busheld. 'Twill be remembered he has long been a heavy dealer in fine stock, both cattle and horses.

The farm of R. K. Lansdael, now under lease to the Templeton brothers, is one not to be overlooked. The crop just threshed from this place aggregates 4,000 bushels, principally wheat. Mr. Lansdale is an early settler and has improved his time while here. Cattle raising is a speciality with him.

Of all perhaps no one has done more toward the improvement of both land and stock, than has Thos. Robbins. He has just completed a harvest of over 4,000 bushels of grain from ground that but a few years ago was deemed fit for nothing but pasturage. And he it was who three years ago purchased the throughbred "Thorndale" from Saxe Brothers, paying therefore one thousand dollars. Anyone desiring to purchase fine stock should first call on him.

I shall notice other prominent farmers at some future time.

P. S.—I have just returned from a two hours' horse back exercise, having gleaned the following

ITEMS:

Last Friday, August 24, two hundred head of yearling heifers were driven across the Columbia into Washington Territory. They came from the herds of Ayers and Raley, and are claimed to be the finest band of the age, and number that has ever been driven from the State. Nicholas McCoy was the purchaser.

N. Oliver, formerly of this place but now a resident of Harney Valley, is again among us; we understand he intends purchasing cattle to drive to Camp Harney. Nick has coin and that's what makes the cattle go.

Farmers of this place are almost without exception shipping their surplus wheat to Portland.

Our peaceful slumbers were broken up this morning by the merry tune played by Templeton Brothers' new thresher. The boys are doing well.

As we were lounging around the Bachelor Hall of Raley & Birchfield waiting for an item, we accidentally heard Alex. say he wished he "had a cook;" after a little thought we reasoned thus: A man that won't advertise in his county paper don't deserve one; and we came home in disgust.
