

Such is the title of a pamphlet which has been sent us by some unknown friend and which, after perusal, we cannot pass without comment.

Mr. Whitney shows conclusively that he is a scholar, that he has made a study of the Chinese problem and that he is thoroughly master of it, as far as a man can become so at this day.

In the second lecture the beneficial effects of Chinese labor upon California directly, and incidentally upon the whole of the United States, is portrayed in words all too true.

Following this up Mr. Whitney comes to the conclusion, and squarely expresses it, that the Chinese must go, and stay not on the order of their going, but go at once, or else it will be as well to make an unconditional surrender of this Coast to them.

Mr. Whitney proceeds to the consideration of the question as to how the inflow can be stopped and a reflux secured.

We close by quoting the concluding sentence of the treatise: "Glib and futile, indeed, is the policy that wavers when confronted with such an alternative."

Mrs. Dunaway.

This modern redeemer of woman's servile condition, and would-be creator of (to her) a state of salvation for the weaker sex, created in the Court House on Thursday evening in the presence of a fair audience.

Having the human race thus paired off and started on the course of life so far as satisfaction, "Mother Dunaway" proceeded to draw some very heart-rending pictures of married life which actually caused the crowd of tears to well from the inmost recesses of our hearts.

Then coming to what we suppose were intended for arguments in favor of Women's Rights, although the audience was assured in the outset she was opposed to this measure, the speaker invoked the shades of our ancestors to look down upon the degeneracy of their handiwork.

About this time we had become more "addled to our wits" than ever and would have withdrawn from the discourse of the people, but some unaccountable individual without the fear of a hereafter before his or her eyes, as the case may be, had requested a recital of the "Fred Douglas Story" and a poem as long as the Moral Law, which the audience was treated to, with the addition of a yarn about a rooster crowing and a hen setting; after which a little romance of the sweet by and by was called to mind and circulated—whish from present diversity of tastes we imagine was happily determined, or some body might have wished his grand-father had been born a girl before this time.

It was given out that on some evening in the near future the great consummation of "Wig men" would be presented to the people. Should this be the case we will endeavor to reply to our next.

HAPPENED, Dec. 7th 1880. EDITOR K. O.—

On the night of the first inst. our first snow began to fall and the storm lasted for several days. It reached a depth of about five inches altogether, but at this date is rapidly disappearing under a "Chinook."

No items from "Detective" of this place for several weeks. We presume, however, it will soon be time for him to dip in again as his assistance in correcting publicly a title of a mistake was appreciated.

All our people in this part of the county were satisfied with the election of Garfield. Our school under control of the present teacher is progressing finely and the scholars are rapidly advancing in their studies.

A delinquent society was organized last Thursday evening at the school house by the boys of this place for the purpose of passing away time and improving their talents.

The wheat crop of the United States for 1880 is as follows: Bushels. Western States, 222,474,000; Pacific Coast, 30,500,000; Southern States, 41,929,000; Middle States, 26,505,000; and territories, 12,450,000; New England, 1,100,000.

There is a man now in Pendleton by the name of George Forrest who affords a very practical illustration of what a sailing man can accomplish in this country if he will only take heed and stick.

"Salt River"—The Phrase Meaning. From the Cincinnati Commercial.—Prof. Schiele De Vere gives the origin of the expression "Salt River" in his book called "Americanisms: The English of the New World."

The following Sections of the Revised Regulations of the Indian Department are published, with the information of parties interested, viz: SECTION 269. "Hereafter no authority will be granted, or white person permitted under any circumstances, to graze cattle or other stock upon Indian Reservations without having first obtained the consent of the Indians and the approval of the Agent thereon, and in such cases only upon such terms and conditions, and subject to the payment of such rate or compensation for the privileges as may be prescribed by the Agent, with the approval of the Department. Agents will notify all authorized persons now grazing upon their respective Reservations, that all such stock must be removed at once; and in case such removal is not made within thirty days, the name of such person together with the names of witnesses and all material facts in connection therewith, shall be reported to this office, that proper legal action may be taken in the premises; and like reports should be made in cases where white persons heretofore or otherwise convey stock to range and feed upon Indian Reservations without consent and approval as aforesaid."

"Please pass the butter," as a man remarked when he sent his goat by rail. C. B. Watson was appointed messenger to carry Oregon's vote to Washington City.

An unknown man registered as "Harry Saunders" was found dead in his bed at the St. Louis Hotel in Portland on the 24 inst.

The house of Pelee Barker in Pembroke, Massachusetts, is said to be the oldest house in the United States. It was built in 1629 by Mr. Barker's great-grandfather, John Barker.
