

J. H. TURNER. L. B. COX. PUBLISHED BY TURNER & COX. L. B. COX, Editor. TERMS IN ADVANCE ONE YEAR $5.

To Our Patrons.

Early in the Fall we promised the public that before the lapse of much time we intended improving our paper and printing both sides at home. In compliance with this pledge we ordered on the first of January last a full supply of paper, type and all necessary material. This we have been informed, was forwarded from Portland on the 18th inst., and, the weather permitting, will be landed in Pendleton within the course of a very few days. To procure this outfit has necessarily forced us to great expense which has come upon us incoherently at this time, in view of the scarcity of money and the difficulty of making collections. There is no present profit to be derived from the change, but we expect to find for some little time ahead, less money in our coffers after paying our just and honest debts. We have resolved upon making the improvement, therefore, not so much for its beneficial result to ourselves, but that we may give our friends and patrons a better paper and prove that the county-seat can support a paper of entire home production. Having done this much, we hope our subscribers and advertisers will lend a hand and pay up all delinquencies as far as possible. Knowing the unusual depression in money matters, resulting from causes over which our people have no control, we have been very lenient in the matter of collecting our outstanding claims. We have obligations upon us constantly, however, which must be met at date, and cannot be stayed off, and to be punctual in such matters otherwise without being possessed of the "wherewithal," is a problem we cannot solve.

Wherefore and in consideration of the premises, we would respectfully request everyone knowing themselves to be indebted to us to settle their accounts as early as possible, and aid us in our work. Should any of our friends be unable to do by us as they would like, were circumstances in their power, we shall not close down upon them until more favorable times present an opportunity of doing something for themselves and us, nor will we seek any less of them for their inability to act up to their wishes. But we hope all who are in a situation to pay up past dues will do so without delay, and thus enable us to prosecute our work and benefit themselves by getting a better paper and more value for their money. TURNER & COX.

In Time of Peace, Prepare for War.

PENDLETON, Jan. 5th, 1881. EDITOR E. O.—I would like to call the attention of your Honorable Mayor and the members of your town council to the splendid water privileges which could be secured for the town of Pendleton now, before they are gobbled up. This can be readily accomplished, as follows: Secure a site on the hills south of Pendleton for a reservoir and ditch to supply the town with pure water for domestic purposes and to guard against fire. The right of way could be got now much easier than in the future; pipes could be bored, I think, in the Blue Mountains to convey water to said reservoir. To bury the pipes two feet in the ground is of course better than an open ditch. I think by going about five or six miles up the Umatilla, or say to where the Tutu Willow comes out of the mountains, and the last named place would furnish the best water, there would be no difficulty in obtaining a full supply of the best. And so far as one can judge of the grade by the eye, water can be taken from the canyon at the base of the mountains on Tutu Willow and conveyed to the top of the hills south of Pendleton.

My views of the case are these: I am well aware the young city of Pendleton cannot at present raise funds sufficient to go into the above enterprise, but it could secure the foundation for the future work. The day is coming, and not far distant, when a large income will be derived from water-works in Pendleton. "Oh, pahaw" says one, "water-works will never pay here, water can be got by digging from eight to twelve feet anywhere on these flats." So it can, my friend, but what kind of water will it be in a year from now? All the fifth from the city will be drained into it. Lack of space forbids dwelling on the benefits of pure water on the health of the community. And in case of fire, hydrants with a fall of from one to two hundred feet are better than any fire engine. Again, if the city were to own its water-works we could have water at a less cost than from a private company, and the income the city would draw from said works would very nearly, if not entirely, pay their own expenses and those of the city government in addition. Nature has done a great deal for Pendleton, and there is no telling how much it may grow. Before long it would not surprise me to see houses on the hills both north and south of the town. The bill to open the Reservation will pass congress this winter—then what? Pendleton will be in the center of as good a farming community as Uncle Sam ever gave to his boys. It need to be said "cotton is king" I never thought so. Wheat is King, and always will be. What net only feeds all but enriches many. Of course cotton clothes us, but it enriches the few. Anyhow what is going to build up Pendleton, and I hope the water-works too. ROBERT BRUCE.

Gen. John F. Miller succeeds Hon. Newton Booth as U. S. Senator from the State of California. He is said to be an able man and it is thought will make a good representative. As California had to go outside of her Democratic get a Senator he is perhaps the best man she could have chosen.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1st, 1880.

Representative Reagan is away for the holidays, but many of the friends of his Interstate Commerce bill remain. They say that every day makes it plain that the Reagan bill or something like it must be seriously considered by Congress. They believe that a few days of discussion, at this time, would cause the passage of the bill. In this they are probably mistaken, for time is required to get through Congress any measure of so great importance unless there be clear Constitutional authority for it. Still, the railroad owners and speculators seem to be taking just the course to urge Congress forward in the way shown by Mr. Reagan. There are two railroad routes from this city to New York, for instance, on one of them your reader could go the distance in six hours, on the other he would not go in less than eight or perhaps twelve hours, simply because the first route happens to have a mile or two of rail over which the other has to take cars. The delay thus caused is so much tax paid by the common citizen to the inane corporation which, controlling exclusively one mile or so of track between this city and New York, seeks to control the business of the several States between the two cities. Mr. Reagan will find Constitutional objections urged against his bill, and he may have to change it, but modified government control of all railroads runnings through several States is one of the certain things of the near future.

A court martial has been ordered in the case of Whittaker, the West Point cadet. I do not see how fault can be found at this action. The inquiry at West Point, soon after the mutilation of Whittaker, was necessarily inconclusive. It was an academy investigation, designed to satisfy the minds of those in authority at the academy. If an impartial court is selected—and with an exception I see no reason to object to the officers so far named—I believe the decision of the court martial soon to be held ought to be taken as conclusive to all. No one will grudge Whittaker an entirely fair chance of vindication, and although the order for the court and its composition are irregular, I do not think the cadet will receive anything but justice at its hands.

By the latest returns received, it appears that the population of the United States is just about something over 51,000,000. This is about two million more than was expected when the first returns—mostly from cities—were published. It is gratifying, of course, that the returns from rural regions show greater gains than were anticipated, and those from cities less. The unexpected increase in the Southern States which was disturbed the calculations originally made. By the way, the third report from South Carolina, made just now by those who, in response to radical clamor, were recently sent there to inquire into the earliest report, shows that the population is greater than the official report gave it. The same is the case with all the Southern States; for the reason that the population in these States is more difficult to enumerate than any other. CARROLL.

A LEVEL-HEADED GENERAL.—W. T. Sherman, General of the Army, recently expanded in the following terms on the African brother:

"The negro has the same right as the white man; he can buy and sell and engage in any trade or occupation, and enjoy himself just as the white man. But if you want to compel me or anybody else to introduce him to my wife or daughter, there probably will be a row, that's all. The negro should have the same rights and privileges of study and recreation at West Point as the white man, but you can't compel the cadets to put their arms round him."

We rejoice to see one Republican of such standing courageous or candid enough to take the above ground. We do not doubt but that they all, O. O. Howard included, really feel so at heart, but it is truly refreshing to see one of the company admit the fact.

NEWS ITEMS.

Jackson county raises one-third of all the corn raised in all Oregon, with an average yield of 33 bushels to the acre.

The Burlington Hawks has been admiring the man who loses a nickel under a plank sidewalk, and feeling for it, picks up a raw bumblebee by the rudder.

The Chicago Tribune mentions the remarkable fact that no native of Illinois has ever been governor of that state. Series of the governors were from Kentucky, four from New York, one from Maryland, one from Virginia, and one from Pennsylvania.

The late Presidential election was the closest ever known in this country. Each party carried the same number of States; the Senate is nearly a tie; the House about the same; the President is only elected by State vote one State, and in the popular vote there will be a difference of less than 25,000 out of a total of nearly 10,000,000.—Beehive.

LARGE HOTEL FOR PENDLETON.—Steve Sanford, of Pendleton, is contemplating the erection of a large hotel in that city. Steve is an enterprising man, and he has a place that will compare favorably with any of our metropolitan theatres.—[W. W. Statesman.]

A tree has lately been cut by railroad loggers near Olympia that was 113 feet without limbs, straight as an arrow and perfectly clear of knots or flaws. It was cut into four logs that measured as follows: First log 24 feet long, 59 inches in diameter at top end; second, 24 feet long, diameter 52 inches; third, 23 feet long, diameter 46 inches; fourth 22 feet long, diameter 44 inches.

BIG SALE.—Dr. Blalock, who for some time past has been making arrangements for the sale of his farm, has at last consummated the transaction. Mr. H. Theilson is the purchaser, and the price paid was $40,000. Mr. Theilson will prosecute the same business to its utmost vigor, and will make some extensive additions thereto.—[Statesman.]

RABBIT EARS.—Mr. Burdge, Treasurer of Ada county, Idaho, has recently submitted his report, and from it we learn that Ada county, during the past year, raised a bounty of $1,317.04 for rabbits; the bounty on each rabbit being five cents. This is hard on the rabbits; but there are hundreds and thousands yet left in that county. They are about as numerous as the ground squirrels are on the Reservation in Umatilla county. We have counted one hundred rabbits on an acre of ground near Falk Brook, store in Ada county, and it was not a good day for rabbits either. They are under every sage scrub, and in every nook and corner of the county. In mowing the fields of grain, sometimes they are cut in twain by the reaper and mower. They are so thick in places that they can be stirred with a stock. We will pit Ada county against any other county on earth for jackass rabbits.—[Reveille.]

POPULAR SCIENCE NOTES

Immense coal oil fields have recently been discovered in Italy, in the Valley Cocco, and also at Riva Nazzaud, near Vaghera, in Piedmont. Some expert Canadians have been employed in the work, and the American mode of extracting the oil has been adopted. The yield is said to be very large and the production of a superior quality. A writer states that the discovery has opened up an important new industry in that section, and that the whistle of the engines and the clank of machinery is now heard where not long ago the shepherd's pipe was the only sound that broke the silence of the beautiful valley.

An Englishman has invented a new plan for propelling canal and river boats, which it is said works admirably, and is thought to be superior to the old method of using wheels and paddles. This apparatus consists of numerous pipes through which the water is conducted by means of powerful machinery, and ejected forcibly at the stern.

Professors Wagner, Tenkonky, Dogandoff and eight students of the University, members of the scientific expedition which was sent out by Moscow and St. Petersburg societies of Naturalists, some time since, for the exploration of the White Sea and of the Murmanian coasts of the Arctic Ocean, have returned safely, bringing with them some rich zoological and geological collections. They promise a complete report of their travels and discoveries at an early day.

Somewhat after the style of the ancient Assyrian roadway, as described by Mr. Wendell Phillips in his lecture on the "Lost Arts," the authorities of New York city, are preparing to place in lower Broadway, and the streets leading therefrom to the ferries, a complete equipment of five sets of tracks, made of various gauges, to suit all kinds of vehicles. By this system of paving it is claimed, that the crowded condition of Broadway would be much relieved and the usual blockades prevented as much better time could be made, and with less interference among vehicles.

Fast quarries of beautiful white stone have recently been discovered near Knoxville, Tennessee, which is pronounced by competent persons to be superior in quality to anything of the kind found elsewhere in the United States, and which approaches very nearly the Italian marble, so extensively imported to this country. The U. S. Government is now working most successfully a quarry of this stone, the discovery of which it is thought, will soon open up a most important industry in that singularly favored but as yet almost unknown section.

The house deities in Mexico, by a large majority, have refused permission to M. Charney, to remove any of the antiquities discovered by him from that country. The gentleman has made many valuable discoveries during the past few years, which he has devoted entirely to exploring of ancient localities, and at a great expense. The action of the authorities of that country, in the matter, is a most serious one to him.

An ancient Egyptian papyrus roll, containing a treatise on medicine, has been obtained by Dr. Ebers, the unknown Egyptologist, at Thebes, which is said to be of great value, and which is exciting much interest among the profession of the old world.

A new variety of silk-worm has recently been accidentally discovered in the mountains of Nevada, which it is claimed produces silk of a peculiar and superior quality. This new silk-worm is raised in the open air, is harder than the old, and needs neither care nor shelter.

A steel steamboat was recently manufactured and shipped from New York city to Lake Maracalbo, in Venezuela, to be used in the transportation of coffee and other products on the Zulia and other rivers of that section.

Fishermen from the coast of Florida report the recent discovery near Key West, of geyser-like springs, supposed to be from volcanic eruptions, that boil up from the depths of the ocean at that section which are of a poisonous nature, killing all the fish that come in contact with their waters.

A thermometer apparatus has been devised by Professor Dufour, of Paris, which is said to be so sensitive that it will denote the change of temperature caused by the entrance of a person into the room where it is placed.

At Newark, N. J., on the 26th, Mrs. Meerhoffer, convicted with Frank Lammer, her paramour, of the murder of her husband, J. W. Meerhoffer, of West Orange, Oct. 13, 1876, was hanged in the county jail. She was very pale and deeply affected, but walked to the gallows without assistance and met her fate without confessing or uttering a word. Lammer was hung immediately after from the same gallows.
