Our Assessment.

Probably no State or no county of any State can boast of such a complete botch as Wm. Russell has made in his assessment of Umatilla county. The idea of having to pay a man for not only not doing any thing worthy of remuneration, but for getting matters so hopelessly entangled as not to permit of any solution, would be too ridiculous if it were not a matter of such importance. We venture to say there is not an Indian on the Reservation or a Chinaman in any of our wash houses who could not have got "stone-blind" drunk on forty-rod whisky, put his head into a gunny sack, and made a better assessment of Umatilla county than our late assessor has done. If he had sat supinely at home and left his work entirely undone it would have been far preferable, for it could then have been performed by the Sheriff, but he has got his business into such a condition that no man living can cut the Gordian knot. In many instances he has failed to take out any indebtedness in the amount of his assessment of individuals, although directed so to do, oftener he has added the whole thing together, indebtedness, exemption and all, and in very many cases, apparently, he has failed to account for any exemption at all; while we have heard it claimed in some cases that he changed the amounts after they had been given in. The Sheriff has trouble with almost every other man who comes in to pay his taxes about the amount and is in an interminable dispute—not personal, however. We would not accuse Mr. Russell with having been in a chronic state of inebriety, for we have no knowledge that he indulges in intoxicating liquors, but his work looks very much like the work of such a man, and if he was not drunk he was certainly utterly incompetent for the place he attempted to fill. If the county was to undertake to force payment in all cases where the assessment is disputed, and will not be paid without legal proceedings, there would be sufficient litigation to run a court the whole year through. Mr. William Russell's assessment is rather an expensive luxury.

Hancock Ahead.

Now that the official count of all the votes cast at the late election has been made, it is indisputably proven that Hancock has a majority over Garfield of more than 20,000 votes. It had been proclaimed over the country that Garfield was some 2,000 ahead, but a trifling mistake was made in the vote of Texas—the banner State. The slanderous imputation had been cast upon the Lone Star State that it had gone Democratic by only 85,000, while the official count shows 103,230—hence the difference. Of the white vote of the United States Hancock has a popular majority of 1,500,000.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22, 1881.

If the week from January 22 to January 29 should be blotted out of the history of Congress the public business would not be grievously set back. One day was given to the electoral resolution, which was not passed, and another (yesterday) to a heated political discussion over a small claim. The appropriation bills made no progress in the House and little in the Senate. In the committee on commerce of the House an agreement was reached to add $1,600,000 to the River and Harbor bill for expenditure on the Mississippi River. There have been earnest discussions in committee on the several propositions to construct canals or a ship railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but no report has been made. The prospect of an agreement between the two Houses on a funding bill is better than a week ago, and probably the bill, when passed, will provide for long time bonds at 3½ per cent., and short time Treasury notes at 3.

There is little hope now of passing more than the appropriation bills, and the funding bill. Mr. Cox is sanguine of getting a Re-apportionment bill through, but that is because Mr. Cox is the most sanguine of legislators. The Republicans improve every opportunity for political discussion, especially when there is a chance to allude to "Rebel Brigadiers," and to the civil war, and resort to fillibustering and semi-revolutionary tactics whenever any measure is proposed which does not exactly suit them. They are determined—the Radicals say so them—that the country shall be in a ferment when the new administration comes in. This is desired chiefly because of the influence it will perhaps have on Garfield. They wish to start him in the same narrow ruts in which Grant moved so regularly and into which they forced Hayes so speedily. Inconsiderate Democrats are aiding these enemies of good government.

There are, however, further signs of a conflict within the Republican party itself, to spring from dissatisfaction at General Garfield's Cabinet selections. The rumors all point to Conkling, as they have done ever since Blaine was named for Secretary of State. So well confirmed are the latter stories, that Garfield's Washington friends are said to have advised him to come here as soon as the Presidential vote is declared, and consult personally with Congressmen from all sections.

Those in charge of preparations for the Yorktown celebration in October next are cramped for means. The programme, so far as it is announced, does not promise such a celebration as the great event to be commemorated deserves. The project was not started soon enough, nor has the government been as liberal as it should have been. There will, however, undoubtedly be an immense number of visitors from the original thirteen States especially, and Virginia promises to provide for them.

CARICLE.

POPULAR SCIENCE NOTES.

The Cosmograph is a new invention by M. Rivier, of Marcilles, France, for popularizing astronomical knowledge. The instrument is mounted upon a monument from ten to fifteen feet high in some public place, and consists of a vertical circle, the plane of the meridian; a rod, directed toward the polar star, showing the position of the earth's axis; a circle placed at right angles to the first, indicating the plane of the equator, etc., etc. Useful astronomical facts and data are engraved on the pedestal and inscriptions in relief show the names of the various portions of the instrument from which much can be learned by all who may give it their attention. Several of these instruments have already been erected in the towns and cities of France.

Some of the Scientific Physicians of the land have of late produced wonderful results in their experiments in artificial respirations. Prof. Fort, of Paris, recently restored to life a child three years old by practicing artificial respiration on it some four hours, commencing three hours and a half after death. Dr. Fournol, of Builoncourt, is reported having reanimated a nearly drowned person after four hours of artificial respiration. The person had been in the water ten minutes, the doctor being called one hour after asphyxia. Numerous other cases similar to those have been reported, proving the new theory to be a practical one, beyond question.

The various urban sanitary authorities of England and Wales have expended no less an amount than $75,000,000 during the last five years, in works of a sanitary nature, and judging from the steadily decreasing death rate of the period, it is implied that the large sum has been judiciously paid out. The example is one that might well be followed, and that with profit in many localities of this country.

It has recently been fully and satisfactorily demonstrated that fire and water-proof houses can be built out of cotton and straw. The cotton used is the refuse of the plantations and factories, and when ground up in about an equal amount of straw and asbestos, is converted into a paste and subsequently into large slabs or bricks which become hard as stone. The article, thus made is pronounced the best of architectural material and will be much used.

Joseph Albert, the renowned Munich photographer, has invented a new process by which it is said he is enabled to produce pictures of persons and objects with the finest shades of their natural color.

A remarkable bed of Kaoline, covering an area of eighty acres and of considerable depth has been discovered near Bremond Texas. A factory for the manufacture of the article into porcelaine ware has been established at New Orleans, and it is said it is turning out work fully equal to that made from imported kaoline and will compare favorably with ware made in Europe and other foreign countries.

The laboratory for the Johns Hopkins zoological investigations, established at Beauford, North Carolina, some three years ago, has proved a most useful one. Some especially valuable results in the examination of crustacea have been obtained. Four hundred and eight species of animals have been found in that locality, which are pronounced excellent ones for scientific study.

A strange and rare phenomenon of an inverted rainbow was observed at Inns-bruck on November 25th last. For some minutes the end-points of the semicircle, centre of which was the sun, rose and moved westward with the latter, the remarkable spectacle then vanishing. No satisfactory theory has as yet been given explanatory of the cause of the phenomenon.

A new comet, a remarkably large one, was discovered by Penule, at Copenhagen Denmark, on the 16th of December last, in right ascension 18 hours, 49 minutes; north declination 10 degrees 35 minutes. Its motion is northeast something more one degree daily and can be seen with an ordinary telescope quite plainly, but will probably not be visible to the naked eye.

The manufacture of glass cloth is becoming a profitable industry at Pittsburg, Pa. The thread, which is made any desired color with minerals when the glass is originally melted, is drawn out of a melted bar by means of rapidly revolving wheels at the rate of 2,000 yards a minute. The weaving is done about the same as with silk, on looms.

The Almacantar, is a new invention for the determination of time and latitude. The instrument is said to be superior to the transit instrument in calculating the correct time and is much more simple in its constructions and workings, combining as it does a time and latitude instrument in one.

The outside fibre of the Cocoanut is being manufactured extensively for shoe heels and is said to a most excellent substitute for leather. In fact, its wearing qualities are said to be superior to that of leather, and is much cheaper.

Putcher Share Dot Cat.

(Tommy to John, the Butcher boy:)

Putcher share dot cat,
Harm not von single hair,
Mine head vas filled mit sad,
Der grief I dont can bear,
Do see mein kidden cat,
His feet tied mit a rope,
Mein eyes mit dhears vos vet.
I feel like I vill choke.

I had dot dhomas cat
More as a gouple of years,
Of gourse I feel me sad,
Und veap meinself mit dhears;
Bleas, putcher, drob dot knife,
Let loose dot kidden's feed,
Dook not a greature's life,
To make your sausage meat.

Or I vill got me mad,
So hob him ouf you dhare.

Here and There.

Virginia manufactured more tobacco last year than any other state.

The Sheriff of Linn county has collected and paid over $25,000 State taxes.

The Goldendale Gazette of Feb. 3d, says: Hay in Goldendale is scarce at $20 a ton, and at The Dalles, $40 is the price.

General Joseph Lane is suffering considerably from the effects of a gunshot wound received years ago during the Indian wars of this State.

Of the $28,992 61 due from tax-payers of Jackson county $18,559 94 have been collected; last year at this time but $6,670 74 had been collected.

It has just been discovered that it is wicked to allow a Mormon to sit in Congress. Still, however, there is no talk of expelling Roscoe Conkling.—Standard.

Workmen digging a trench near the alms house in Philadelphia on January 22 unearthed a pile of 60 coffins. They contained the remains of victims of the cholera of 1848.

Stock in Lane county are in such excellent order now that could survive a long continued season of rough weather and deep snow. There is little chance for any loss this winter.

On February 9th, 1881, at 12 o'clock M. the two Houses of congress went through the formal procedure of counting the electoral vote—giving Garfield and Arthur 214 votes, Hancock and English 155.

The Philadelphia North American thinks if a man is ashamed of his business he ought to get out of it. Well, supposing his business is to peg shoes in the penitentiary; what the blazes is he to do?—Boston Post.

The tallest trees in the world are in Australia. A fallen tree in Gippsland measured 435 feet from the root to the highest point of the branches. Another, standing in the Dandenong district in Victoria, is estimated to be 450 feet from the ground to the top.

Howell E. Jackson, a solid Democrat, has been elected Senator from Tennessee and thus the Democrats will control the Senate let big David Davis and little William Mahone vote as they will—"we'll be gay and happy still."

The Chinese treaties have been reported back from the senate committee on foreign relations with recommendation that they be ratified without amendment It is said to contain a clause prohibitory of Chinese naturalization and nullifies all naturalizations already accomplished.

Ben Snipes and J. B. Huntington stayed in Goldendale last Sunday night, en route to The Dalles from their ranches in Yakima county. They report cattle in a deplorable condition, hundreds of them starving to death. They say that any number of cattle could be bought for $1 a head.

Mr. Charles Russell, the man who swore on the trial of Thomas that he saw Brumfield alive after he was murdered by Thomas and found dead, pleaded guilty to the charge of perjury before the district court Tuesday, and was sentenced to a term of five years imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary.—W. W. Statesman.

A man by the name of Buchanan near Fort Colville, W. T., shot and instantly killed a Mr. Louis Fenwick, wounded a Miss Mary King, fired at Major O'Neil and then shot himself through the heart with a revolver, falling dead. On the same day a soldier of the garrison named Desmond committed suicide by shooting himself through the body with his rifle.

Near Canyonville, Douglas county, a twelve year old son of Mr. Glasgow had a narrow escape from death. He was out hunting and was suddenly confronted by two panthers. The boy having been taught never to run from a bear, thought the rule would apply to panthers as well, and with true spunk fired at one of the animals. The wounded and now infuriated beast made a spring at the boy, and but for the help of a dog he would have been torn to pieces. The boy yelled for help but continued to fight and in doing so broke his gun over the animal's head Fortunately the dog succeeded in driving off the panther. Soon after a brother of the boy arrived and the other panther was killed.—Standard.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Coroner Robbins has received a letter from Napa, Cal., inclosing an article from the Napa Daily Reporter, making inquiries of the whereabouts of one James Montgomery Parker, who has a brother, Chestley, living in that city now. We are persuaded that the remains which were found buried in the sand opposite this city on the 16th of last July were those of this unfortunate man and whom, it was supposed, James Cook murdered. The Times in its issue of July 20th contained a full account of the disinterment of the bones, and also finding shreds of clothes and memorandum book. The memorandum book contained an O. S. N. Co. ticket from Portland to Columbus, W. T., dated May 14th, and marked book No. 63, Ticket No. 31. The other leaves of the book were blanks of the Napa Valley Savings and Loan Society, envelops stamped by the same society and a blank check on the same. The date given in the Napa Reporter is May 11th, 1878, when Mr. Parker sailed on the steamer Oregon from San Francisco for Portland. Allowing three days, (the usual time required by steamers between these two ports,) would make the 14th of May the date of the issuance of the ticket in Portland. There were remains of a dark coat, a plaid woolen shirt, a light-colored pair of pants, and one No. 6 heavy shoe found near the bones; also lock of dark auburn hair, a five-shooting revolver and a large jack-knife. In digging up the skeleton, two skillets and an old shovel were exhumed. The skull and bones were evidently those of a small man. From all we can learn from this silent evidence, we believe Mr. James M. Parker is the name of the man, whose death has been a mystery for some months past whose skeleton was first brought to sight by the waves of the Columbia last July.—Times (Dalles).

GOTTAGE GROVE, OR., January 23, 1881.

EDITOR, E.O:—It has been some time since you have had a communication direct from this place. News of importance has been scarce here up to the late high waters. On the eleventh of this month the waters were nearly as high as they were ever known here, and on the 14th we had a second coming of high waters, but not so great as on the 11th. A great deal of damage has been done to railroads, public roads, bridges, fencing, and in the changing the channel of the river in one or two places—also some stock has been lost. We have not had a through train from Portland since the 12th inst. consequently are not advised as to the amount of damage done. We expect a train to-morrow (Monday). The damage done in this section is small compared with what the country below here has suffered.

The general health of the country here is good—financially, times are close and money scarce. Since the flood the weather has been fine and every one is busy repairing damages and getting ready for plowing and seeding. Our town and country is still improving fast. The winter so far has been mild and pleasant and up the time of the flood we had had but very little rain. The most of the water mills are damaged more or less. The mill dam of R. C. Hazelton at Cottage Grove was carried away almost entirely. Mr. Brumbough's saw mill was badly injured and he also lost 700 logs. The most of the bridges are damaged to some extent and a great many have been carried away. The waters are all low now and things are about as usual.

We will say something more at some future time. CUMTUX.

HEPPNER, OR., Feb. 7, 1881.

ED. E. O.—Charles Beal came in to-day on horse-back with very little mail, from Pendleton, but the first we have had for several days. Among the other mail, however, was the EAST OREGONIAN, which seemed to satisfy to a certain extent the ravishing hunger for news that has been worrying our people here so long. We have not had any mail from Portland in nearly three weeks and the last stage that came in from below was last Thursday. There is considerable mail at the post office for Pendleton which has been there for some time. The people here seem to be lost when the mails do not come regularly, as there are so many who do nothing during the winter but sit around and read newspapers. The drivers report the roads below here as being in a terrible condition and a great amount of work will have to be done before anything like time can be made. The late freshet seems to have been general. Wm. Welch, a stock man from John Day river, came in from his ranch last week and reported that the river there was three feet higher than he had ever known before—said he knew of no damage having been done except that considerable fencing had been washed away. He reports that the winter in that section had been a very moderate one, but very little stock having died. We are having very pleasant weather now. This morning the sky was clear when the sun arose and everything seemed so bright and pleasant it seemed as though spring had come in earnest—even the squirrels were seen frisking about on the hillsides and some were heard to conjecture that the grasshoppers would be induced to put in an appearance. The grass is growing rapidly and the old cows that have been bawling around, living on gunny-sacks and clothes-lines for a couple of months, may now be seen grazing peacefully on the hills; in fact "all earth seemed to smile."

Wm. Gilmore took his departure for Portland the other day on the hurricane deck of a white cayuse accompanied by Robt. Curran. The rumor is that Will's business below was to take unto himself a better half. We can't vouch for the truth of said rumor.
