IN SAN FRANCISCO

OBSERVATIONS OF AN EASTERN OREGON PILGRIM.

The Wondrous Spectacles of the California Seaport—The Observation Car for the Benefit of Visiting Sightseers.

San Francisco, Jan. 18.—(To the Editor.)—San Francisco is a big subject for a halting pen to tackle. I did not love them overmuch
When I had turned away,
But now they glimmer through my dreams,
They haunt the summer day;
The low brown hills, the bare brown hills
Of San Francisco Bay.

No one slim blade of living green
To make the soft slopes gay,
No dim secluded forest dells
Where one might kneel and pray,
But low brown hills, and bare brown hills
Of San Francisco Bay.

The low brown hills are still here, some bare but many clothed with the fruits of the commerce of two continents which passes through this busy city; but among the many impressions which take root in the mind of the casual visitor here the idea that this busy city particularly feels the need of a place to kneel and pray is apt to be very prominent, although there are many handsome piles of brick and stone with steeples pointing heavenward where the prayerfully inclined can listen to any shade of doctrine from the theology of Calvin and Loyola as expounded by their interpreters, to the Mahometanism of Gwaim Room, the local apostle of the prophet.

On Market street, the principal business thoroughfare of this city, where at 12 o'clock and again at 6 the crowd is so thick that if you are in a hurry you had better leave the sidewalk and take to the street, there are two restaurants under one management known as the Puritan Dining Room, which serve very excellent meals out which close their doors religiously at 12 o'clock on Saturday night and reopen again on Monday morning, conscientious, perhaps, but one cannot help speculating a little as to what the result would be if all the eating houses in this big city were Puritan.

One result would certainly be a flood of profanity from the hapless strangers within their gates beside which the solitary if somewhat choleric oath of "Uncle Toby" would not be a drop in the bucket.

Every line of business is represented here from the cripple who occupies a seat on the sidewalk with a basket on his knee, filled with lead-pencils, shoelaces and other valuable merchandise, to the large department store with a stock running perhaps into the hundreds of thousands, also many different kinds of public benefactors, sometimes called takirs, with valuable discoveries along various lines, without which the human race have simply been dragging out a miserable existence for the last six thousand years.

Art galleries and book stores with stocks so large and so ridiculously cheap that it must certainly be a critical taste which cannot find something to please, the only trouble is to keep from going flat broke buying a lot of stuff which is a nuisance to pack around. In one corner of a window filled with paintings and statuary is one picture which arrests the attention of the passerby and once seen is apt to make him go a block or two out of his way for another look, a student is represented as burning the midnight oil only to twine the laurel wreath around the brows of death, death being represented by a grinning skull at his side, and underneath is the words, "What is the use?" bad philosophy may be but a very striking picture nevertheless.

And here, too, is found the ticket office of that wonderful road which perhaps more than any other of the world's highways, challenges the imagination, which reduces the time of Jules Verne's famous voyage round the world by two-thirds, and which, says a returned traveler, runs through the land made famous by the exploits of Alexander of Ghengiz Kohan, and of Gammerlane, and which was also looked upon by the first of mankind for the cradle of our race was there, the Trans-Siberian railway, whose transportation charges are so moderate that any Russian peasant who can make the raise of $25 can travel from Moscow to Vladivoostock, a distance of over 6000 miles.

At a corner on Market street stands an observation car which makes two trips around the city daily, taking about four hours to the trip and visiting Ocean Beach, Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Union Iron Works, Presidio and other points of interest, these places would each require a separate letter so no attempt will be made to describe them here. The forms of entertainment which San Francisco offers to the stranger within her gates are many and varied, so that he is very apt if his time is limited to try to see too much in too short a time. Museums with collections of statuary, paintings, curious specimens in endless number, which the eye may wonder over, but whose significance the mind can hardly grasp. Theaters and concert halls in endless number where the visitor can find anything he wants from Nance O'Neil in "Lady Macbeth," to the lightest shade of performance known to the profession.

The drummer, who is usually a man of discernment in such things, sums up San Francisco as the town where you can take $5 and have a better time than you can in New York or Chicago for $25, some allowance might, of course, be necessary for different definitions of a good time.

Not long ago a newspaper kept watch of its columns for a week to see what men or profession received the most notice or attention, with the result that the names of Morgan and Gould appeared 80 times, while those of Mark Twain and W. D. Howells only apeared four times, so says the paper. If you would become famous become a millionaire. But that is not the last analysis in. In strolling around this town the faces which look down from the marble columns in its handsome public square are not its millionaires—Stanford, Flood or Fair, nor yet Gould or Vanderbilt or Huntington, but here stands Lincoln with his hand on the bowed head of the slave, and the words: "And on this act I invoke the blessing of Almighty God." Here Goethe and Schiller stand side by side. There the author of the "Star Spangled Banner" with the words of his song carved in the marble beside him, and here, too, is a column to the memory of Robert Louis Stevenson, with a fresh wreath of flowers from somebody with whom his memory is still green and this inscription from his writing:

"To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little, to spend a little less, to make on the whole a family happier for your presence, to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation, to renounce when that is necessary, and not be embittered, here is a lash for all that a man has of portitude and delicacy."

A fitting epitaph, surely, for one who from his sick bed was able to write to his friend.

"Life is over, life was gay.
We have come the primrose way."

STORE WAS BURNED

J. A. HUBBARD LOSES GENERAL STORE AT McKAY.

Building and Contents a Total Loss—Was Insured for $2,000—Will be Rebuilt at Once.

The general store at McKay, belonging to J. A. Hubbard, was burned yesterday morning early. The building and contents were a total loss.

Mr. Hubbard only succeeded in saving his account books, and ran great risk in getting hold of them. The fire took place very early in the morning—while the lamps were lighted and Mr. Hubbard was at the barn doing the chores.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a lamp which was left in a room without anyone being present. Whether the lamp exploded, or whether a curtain or some other goods were lighter from it is not yet known to a certainty and may never be known. When the fire started Mrs. Hubbard was alone in the house or at least there was no one else present who could render any assistance, and the fire got under full headway in a few moments.

The building, a one-story frame, was crowded with goods—household and mercandile— from end to end, and the fire in the face of a stiff wind spread rapidly. Water was scarce, and almost nothing could be done to check the fire or save the contents of the building.

The building was valued at about $800, the stock of goods at $900, and the household effects at $600. Total insurance, $2,000. The building was almost new, having been built, it is reported here, but two or three years. Mr. Hubbard will rebuild immediately and put in another stock of goods.

Echo Notes.

Messrs. Robinson & Ripper are busy arranging their new stock of hardware in their new building which has just been completed.

Wheat is coming in every day in large quantities to the P. C. E. Co. warehouse.

There was a mass meeting of the citizens of Echo held at Masons' hall for the purpose of discussing the proposed new charter, Mr. H. C. Wills presiding; Mr. J. Robinson, secretary. It was unanimously resolved that a committee of five be appointed to arrange the boundary lines more satisfactory. The following gentlemen were appointed: J. H. Koonts, John Dorn, J. Robinson, Frank Spike, R. Jones. This committee will report next Friday evening.

Charlie Miller has handled nearly a car load of alfalfa seed this season.

Grading lots is the rage at this time. Streets next.

Mrs. Lane Dead.

Mrs. Mary F. Lane died Saturday last at Nolan of cancer of the stomach, aged about 60 years, after a long and painful illness. Mrs. Lane was in St. Andrew's hospital for about two months, and was operated upon. After the operation she rallied considerably and lived for two months. Her son, B. F. Lane, of Arago, was present at his mother's death. The funeral will take place this afternoon at Nolan, conducted by Rev. Dozier.

Had No License.

W. C. Hankins, for peddling sewing machines without a license, was fined $5 in police court today. He was released on his own recognizance, and it is not likely any attempt to collect the fine will be made if he refrains from further efforts to impose his wares without taking out a license.

New Bridge.

Upon the completion of the new steel bridge across the Walla Walla at Wallula, the steel bridge just east of Pendleton will be pushed to completion. It is now expected that operations will begin here in about two weeks, and by the same gangs and bosses now engaged in the finishing of the Wallula bridge. The bridge here, exclusive of the trestle, is about 400 feet long.

House Quarantined.

A quarantine was set this morning over the rooming house of Ed Love, on Johnson street, because of a case of smallpox therein. The patient is Miss Edna Kennedy. Dr. J. L. Miller, who is attending, states that it is a mild attack of the mildest form of the disease.

G. A. R. Officers.

The following are the newly elected officers of the G. A. R. post in Pendleton: Commander, G. W. Rigby; vice commander, W. H. Heuston; junior vice commander, Henry Sokey; adjutant, P. P. Collier; quartermaster, T. J. Million; officer of the day, B. F. Renn; assistant adjutant, J. B. Mumford.

To Become a Citizen.

Carl Mollsted, a subject of His Majesty King Oscar of Sweden, today filed his declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States.

THE TOURNAMENT

HIGHEST AVERAGE YESTERDAY MADE BY F. W. WAITE.

Highest Instance Score Was Made by J. S. Jent, of Lewiston—Was Closely Seconded by Peter Frazier—List of Entries—The Score by Events.

Yesterday, the first day of the shooting tournament, was very nearly an ideal day—clear, and with wind only during a part of the day, and just cold enough to add a real sportsman's zest to the affair. The arrangements for the accommodation of the shoot were excellent, and the visitors were not chary about complimenting the plans and the carrying out of them for the event. The shelter tents were appreciated, and the restaurant was well patronized. The traps worked perfecyy, and throughout the day there was not a hitch in the program of a discordant note.

The highest average for the day was made by F. W. Waite, whose per cent average was 88.04. He was closely followed by T. B. Ware, of Spokane, and J. S. Jent, of Lewiston, each of whom averaged 86. F. J. Holohan, of Warduer, and J. A. Forbes, of Spokane, tied on a general average of 84.08. Frank Howe, of Portland, averaged 84.02. The other average scores exceeding 80 were made by Frimp Shields, of Harrington and H. J. Sullivan, of Pendleton, who averaged 83 per cent each; and a practice shooter, named Blake, who averaged 81.04; and L. N. Knettie of Dayton, who averaged 80.06.

The highest instance scored was made by J. S. Jent, of Lewiston, who in the tenth and last event scored 25 birds out of a possible 25. He was closely seconded by Pete Frazier, of Lewiston, and a man named Blake, who did not shoot for money, but was, with Frazier scored 24 out of a possible 25. The next best individual scores were by Dr. France, of Warduer, T. B. Ware of Spokane, and a practice shooter named Mapes, all of whom scored 23 each out of a possible 25.

Regular Entries.

The following list is of the regular entries for money:

Lewiston—Peter Frazier, J. S. Jent, W. Butler and Gus Larson.

Heppner—A. H. Rea, Mike Roberts, W. R. Erwin, Lee Matlock, Dee Matlock, Leslie Matlock, Frank Natter and William Spencer.

Portland—Frank Howe, who represents the Union Metallic Cartridge Co. and the Remington Arms Company; A. S. Winters, Maurice Abrahams, Dick Carlon, Harry Eaton, Dave Honeyman, What Monteith, W. A. Storey, E. E. Young, John Derstees, Cader Powell and R. L. Cate.

Spokane—T. B. Ware, J. A. Forbes and M. B. Brownlee.

Dayton—George B. Baker, Thomas Barclay, F. C. Hindle, F. C. Stephens and L. N. Knettle.

Salem—Jack Ryan.

Warduer—Dr. Hugh France and P. J. Holohan.

Kendrick—L. A. Kerr, R. C. West and C. B. Green.

Harrington—Phillip Shields and S. E. McDonald.

Rosalia—C. H. Bossong and G. G. Persins.

Pendleton—J. R. Means, T. W. Ayers, C. J. Ferguson, Otto Bottcher, Joseph Tallman, W. J. Sewell, W. W. Hoch, D. C. Clark, F. W. Waite, S. R. Thompson, J. M. Spence and W. J. Stillman.

There was an unusually large attendance of ladies among whom were the wives of Sheriff Storey, of Portland, and W. R. Irwin, of Heppner. Ben R. Thomas of Duluth, was in attendance. Mr. Thomas represents the Marshall-Wells Hardware Company. Among the sporting celebrities was M. B. Brownlee, of Spokane, the millionaire sport and P. J. Holohan, the "boy wonder" of Wardner.

The following are the 10 events of the day in detail, copied from the official record:

The Score.

Kendrick Tournament.

The Kendrick, Idaho, local sportsmen's association, is arranging for a two-days' tournament which will take place there March 19-20. It will offer $250 of added money, and be free to all who enter under the rules which usually govern such tournaments. Its chief promoter is L. A. Kerr, one of the visiting sportsmen at the tournament here, and who is chief warden of the Idaho division of the American League of Sportsmen.

ON FEBRUARY 22nd,

Rev. Wilson Will Conduct Dedicatory Services in New Christian Church.

Allen Wilson, of Irvington, Ind., national evangelist of the Christian church, will conduct the dedicatory services in the new Christian church. If possible, the dedication will be on February 22—the brethren are doing all they can to get the arrangements all made to have the dedication on that date. With Mr. Wilson will come one of the finest singers of sacred music especially, in the United States. The dedication will be an initial point for a great religious rally and revival. Mr. Wilson and the vocalist are expected to remain here any where from three to six weeks.

Rev. Morton L. Rose, of Tacoma, has been secured as pastor of the church here, and will be installed as such on February 15. Mr. Rose was president of the Christian state missionary work in Oregon for four years. He comes here after a very successful pastoral work in Tacoma.

Stickler vs. Sheets.

The case of Stickler vs. Sheets, being an action to recover $95 alleged loans of money, will be tried next Friday at Weston, on a change of venue from Milton. Kirkland & Powers represent the plaintiff and J. T. Hinkle the defendant. The parties concerned are all young men who were playing the races on a wide swath, or perhaps circuit, would better express it, last fall together, and the plaintiffs claim to have loaned the money in driblets at different points. The case will be tried by jury.

IN CIRCUIT COURT

J. FRANK DAY SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

In Company With George Haigh, Mr. Day Was Convicted of Stealing Wool in 1901—Has Been at Liberty Pending Good Behavior.

Judge W. R. Ellis sentenced J. Frank Day of this city, to two years in the penitentiary this morning.

Mr. Day's case is a peculiar one and many people will read his sentence with interest.

In August, 1901, J. Frank Day and George Haigh were arrested for stealing wool from the Pendleton Scouring Mills and Mr. Haigh was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary for complicity in the crime.

On account of the condition of Mr. Day's family at that time, Judge Ellis upon recommendation of District Attorney Hailey, suspended sentence, placing Day's good behavior and allowed him to remain at large, to support his family.

Last Saturday Mrs. Day filed a petition for divorce from Day, alleging in her complaint that Day had become threatening, quarrelsome and dangerous and today, the court deeming that the term of probation to the accused and convicted man had been of sufficient duration, to prove his good intention, passed sentence upon him and he will now join his confederate in the penitentiary.

The case of A. S. Pearson against John Hoon, of Freewater, which occupied the time of the court all day Saturday, was decided in favor of the defendant, late Saturday evening.

Today the civil case of Simeon Bethers against Harry H. Harvey, is being heard.

The Bruchois case will probably not be reached before tomorrow morning.

BREVITIES.

Joe Ell has returned from La Grande.

H. A. Harrison, of La Grande, spent Sunday in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fowler have returned from The Dalles.

Clark Nelson spent Sunday in Freewater with his mother, who is visiting there.

J. C. Pritchard, of Milton, a juryman, was excused this morning and went home.

Miss Laura Muir went to Heppner today to visit friends. She will return Saturday next.

Mrs. H. T. Bagley, of Hinsboro, who has been visiting friends here, returned home today.

There was born at Meadows, January 25, to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cleghorn, a nine-pound boy.

William Searcey, of Missouri Gulch, is gradually regaining his health and will move into town in a short time.

Mrs. W. R. Irwin, of Heppner, returns home today. She came to Pendleton with her husband, who is attending the tournament.

Mrs. M. E. Pomeroy, of Stewart creek, returned from Dayton last night where she has been visiting for two weeks with relatives.

Newton Bentley has returned from Modesto, California, where he has been visiting. Mr. Bentley reports that part of California as needing rain badly.

T. T. Quinn, foreman of the mechanical department for the O. R. & N. at Umatilla, spent Sunday in this city, returning home on the delayed train last night.

B. Cooley, of Cold Springs, was in town yesterday and returned home with several loads of lumber, which he will use in the construction of a warehouse on his ranch. The building is to be 40x100 feet.

J. M. Hoen, of Milton, a fruit raiser, believes that, judging from all present indications, all kinds of fruit will come out next spring in good condition—in fact, that it is bound to—barring possible damage by frost Every variety is sturdy and vigorous.

Local Wheat Market.

Today, in the Pendleton market, No. 1 club wheat is worth 65½ cents, and the buyers aver that that figure has been its real value at all times of late, the extraordinary figure of last week being a spasm merely—having no relation to the laws of supply and demand. Bluestem is worth 75 cents. Barley is quoted today at 95 cents. The present low figure of barley is attributable to the mild winter largely. The farmers have had to feed so little that there is much more on hand now than would have been had the winter been more severe.

Returned From Lyle.

W. H. Fowler and family have returned from Lyle, where Mr. Fowler is running a construction train on the Columbia and Northern railway, being built from Lyle to Golden dale, Wash. He will return to his work after a brief visit in this city.

Indian war veterans of Oregon are asking for an appropriation of $300,000 for back pay, due them from the wars of 1856.

ROESCH'S BREWERY

BUILDING WILL BE FINISHED AT ONCE.

Ice Plant Will Have a Capacity of 16 Tons a Day—Ross Company Will Also Erect a Plant With Equal Output.

Incidental mention was made in these columns Friday of the return of William Roesch from the East, where he had gone to purchase new machinery for his brewery and the ice plant, now under construction. When completed, his plant will be one of the most modern and up-to-date on the Pacific Coast and will be a credit to the town of Pendleton. The brewery will have a capacity adequate enough to supply the town and vicinity and one of the best brew masters in the East has been secured to assist Mr. Roesch, which gives every assurance that the product will suit all connoisseurs of good beer.

The work of constructing the new plant was delayed by inability to secure brick, but this trouble has been overcome and work will again commence so that the building will be finished and machinery placed so that beer will be ready for the market by this coming summer.

The ice plant is to be modern in every way and will have a capacity of 16 tons of ice a day. Very little will be on the market for domestic purposes. Half of this will supply the wants of the people locally. The new ice plant of the Ross company, which is to be built on the site of the old warehouse opposite the O. R. & N. freight house, is to have a similar output, so that the people of Pendleton will have plenty of the cold stuff to ward off the unpleasant heat of summer. The wise ones are nodding their heads knowingly in anticipation of a slash in prices and are watching the outcome with a good deal of interest. Not very much pond ice has been put up this winter, the weather being against it, but those that did not get a crop are not worrying much, for they figure that "competition is the life of trade" and that they will be able to fill their ice houses for less money with the present outlook. However, be this as it may, there will be plenty of ice and no one will need to go to the poor house paying ice bills.

Saddle Stolen.

James Nelson had a saddle stolen Saturday afternoon off his horse while it was tied at the side of the street. The article was afterward found in Thompson's second-hand store, where it had been sold.

A Somnambulist.

An interesting feat in somnambulism was recently performed by one of Ontario's citizens. A prominent young lady of that city had just completed the knitting of a very fine shawl, but on arising the next morning found she had arisen in her sleep during the night and unravelled the entire shawl, and carefully rolled up the yarn and placed it away. She had broken the thread once but found it again and completed the work as carefully as if awake. She is now making it over again, but will probably keep it under lock and key until completed, with the key in another's possession.

With a ne plus ultra—"nothing beyond"—sign, you might as well stop short if you are convinced the signboard speaks the truth. It does when it means the best to be had in the line of carriages, buggies, hacks and plows is to be found here. The bottom of this advertisement shall be: Seek no further for good things on wheels.

We have the Syracuse plow. It is the best and slickest plow on earth, pulls easier and does better work; made by the latest process and will scour in in any soil. A car of Winona wagons, all sizes, will arrive soon. They recommend themselves.
