TRIP ON THE OCEAN

FROM 'FRISCO'S SUNSHINE TO PORTLAND'S MISTS.

San Francisco Bay and the Golden Gate—Across the Bar of the Columbia—Stop at Astoria—Up the River to Portland.

Pacific Ocean, Feb. 4.—Not the least interesting part of the ocean trip from San Francisco to Portland is getting out through the Golden Gate.

If the traveler has not already realized the importance of San Francisco as a shipping point the number of ships of all nations through which the steamer wenas its way from the wharf to the gate will give him some idea of it.

A day of bright sunshine made a pleasant start for the trip. The California coast was plainly to be seen all day with dwelling houses here and there.

On a day of deal convictions to hold your head to gale; Calm as the Flying Dutchman from truck to tall framed deck.

With noise and music and dancing on her deck; All's well, all's well aboard her; she's dropped you far behind.

With a scent of old-world roses through the fog that ties you blind; Her crew are babes or madmen; her port is all to make.

Well! tinker up your engines, you know your business best; She's taking tired people to the islands of the Blest.

Night comes and a light house somewhere on shore sends out its friendly warning across the water.

Other lights farther seaward show that others besides ourselves are occupying floating homes.

Morning brings fog, rain and wind and the crowd at the breakfast table is considerably diminished.

The rain lasts nearly all day with a sullen sky through which the sun vainly tries to show himself occasionally.

The fog lifts long enough to show the coastline on which the waves are dashing themselves into spray.

The change from yesterday sunshine to this fog and rain is decidedly depressing and the probability of the islands of the Blest being anywhere in the neighborhood is decidedly vague.

In spite of fog and head wind steady progress is made northward.

The Columbia river is reached some time in the night. The bar is decidedly choppy and is not crossed until daylight.

A stop of two hours at Astoria to unload freight gives time to get your feet on solid ground once more, a privilege which is appreciated.

VISITING IN PENDELTON.

Prominent Citizens of Umatilla City Spending a Few Days Here.

J. W. Kelley and J. M. Griffith, residents of the town of Umatilla, are in the city today.

At the present time the Holbrook Ditch Company has 30 miles of ditch surveyed, with 11 miles constructed.

Settlers are now looking over that portion of Umatilla county and ranch immigration is anticipated this year.

Mr. Kelly has been superintendent on the Holbrook works for the past year. He has just recovered from a severe spell of the pneumonia, which confined him to his home for three weeks.

A large acreage of alfalfa is seeded on the farm this season and the ditch construction will be hurried as fast as possible.

The Fernside School. Superintendent Novella attended the last session of the school board at Fernside a few evenings since.

The board re-elected Frank Wells and his wife, Mrs. Louie Wells, to the management of the Fernside school for next year.

Clarence Brown was brought to town as soon as a wagon could be procured, and his lacerated hands were dressed by Dr. Ringo.

None of the shot were extracted, as the hands were badly swollen. Dr. Ringo states that in his opinion there is some danger of blood poisoning.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT

CLARENCE BROWN SHOT BY EARNEST GROESCHMIG.

The Two Were Members of a Hunting Party—Brown Receives Load of Shot in His Hands.

Clarence Brown, aged 21, of Comb Canyon, was accidentally shot this morning about 10 o'clock, while out hunting with his brother Charles, their nephew, Ivin Simpson, and Earnest Groeschmig.

All four were walking in a bunch in the canyon, looking for ducks. No game was in sight at the time of the shooting.

Groeschmig immediately explained and stated that he had cocked the gun accidentally. His gun was a break-loading shotgun, and to fire the trigger must be cocked first.

MORPHINE ROUTE

CARRIE PICKERING, BROKEN-HEARTED, COMMITS SUICIDE.

Empty Bottle in Her Room Tells the Tale—Said She Had Taken Nothing—Restorative Failed to Offset Deadly Drug.

Carrie Pickering, known also as Cecil Norwood and nicknamed "Cecil," a woman who was formerly an inmate of a house of ill-fame in this city, committed suicide at the Columbia lodging house here last night by taking morphine.

She complained of feeling ill in the evening about 10 o'clock and was induced to take a walk, in hopes that the bracing air would relieve her and consequently left her room at the Columbia in company with Jake Welch for this purpose.

She grew worse while out for the walk and was carried back from the vicinity of the Sisters' school, to her room, about 11 o'clock. Her condition grew so alarming that Mrs. Miller and Ringold were called. They found her suffering from morphine poisoning and administered restorative and did everything possible to relieve her.

An empty morphine bottle was found in her room, and she denied that she had taken anything and in answer to questions of the landlady of the Columbia, Mrs. F. X. Schupp, only replied that she was broken hearted.

She was formerly proprietress of a house in the tender district here but has been absent for a year. She returned to Pendleton last September and has apparently led a virtuous life since her return.

MILLER DIES.

Underwent Nine Operations for Appendicitis in One Year.

Walla Walla, Feb. 7.—After undergoing nine distinct operations for appendicitis, extending over a period of a year, Thomas Miller, the 23-year-old son of ex-Senator David Miller, died at the home of his father yesterday.

Over a year ago Mr. Miller was stricken with a severe sickness, and shortly afterwards it was announced that nothing but an operation would save his life.
