Part of the World—Composed of Negroes and Filipinos.

Perhaps all of the people who were fortunate enough to leave the land from the fort as it played on the streets during the day of the Fourth, were not aware of the fact that they were listening to music made by one of the oldest bands in the regular army, and the second oldest colored band in the service.

The band is as old as the army itself and there are musical associations in the different branches of the United States military and naval departments, which can trace their origin back to the days of the nation's infancy, but the tracing soon reveals itself into tradition and loses much of fact when the march beyond the time of the civil war.

The band of today, the bands that we hear at the various stations of the army are all, or nearly all, the children of the reorganization of the army after the late war had been ended and peace had been declared. And since this is so, the band of the Ninth cavalry is one of the oldest bands of the united service, and the second oldest colored organization in the army.

The band of the Twenty-fourth infantry is the oldest colored musical organization in the service, having been organized at Baton Rouge, Louisiana, in 1863. The Ninth cavalry band, the one that played on the streets of Pendleton on the Fourth, was organized in the same place on July 24, 1867. Since that time it has been in almost all of the posts of the union and has seen service in Cuba and in the Philippines.

From Baton Rouge, where it was recruited, the band was sent to Fort Brownville, Texas, and from there to Fort Belvoir, in Mexico. After spending a long time in that place it was sent to Santa Fe, and from there to Fort Riley, Kansas, where they stayed two years. Fort McKinney was their next place of abode and from there they went to Fort Robinson, Neb., where they were located at the time of the declaration of war against Spain. They were sent with the regular troops to Cuba and were in the thick of the fight throughout the campaign there, where they did good service and won many laurels.

After the band was returned from the front it was sent to Fort Grant, Arizona, where it stayed for two years when it was again ordered to the front and shipped for the islands. For two years the colored boys saw all of the hardships and the real service in the field and then they were once more ordered to the United States, where they were assigned to Fort Walla Walla, their present station.

Chief Trumpeter John Wilson is the oldest member of the organization, having seen continuous service since his enlistment in 1876. There are others who have served long terms with the band. Carl S. Gunzgal, the chief musician, having been the leader since 1888.

In the ranks today are several Filipinos who have joined the band since the Spanish war, and they are good musicians and good members of the band. It was not a chance gathering that was here, it was the perfection of years of toil and discipline, which has evolved one of the best bands of the nation in any of her branches of service. It is one of the old organizations of the country. The members of the band are: C. S. Gunzgal, J. W. Wilson, J. T. Thompson, H. Woodard, T. H. Henderson, H. H. Henderson, C. Condon, Lew Patton, M. Green, T. Brinson, T. Morris, John Dickson, W. H. Oliver, V. Alcomendaz, G. B. Bain, T. H. Henderson, S. Brooks, George Covera, D. Forest, L. Gonzales, C. Hammock, L. Jarriault, C. Losa, B. Wright, C. Singleton.

SCALPED BY ACCIDENT.

Boy Badly Hurt While Coasting With Running Gears of Wagon.

Yesterday afternoon while playing with the front wheels of a wagon of a heavy wagon, the little son of Daniel Shaw, who lives about 10 miles out of the city, on McKay creek, met with a serious and painful accident.

The little boy, who is about 9 years old, and his older brother, also but a mere child, were coasting on the wheels of the wagon down a hill near the home. They had the front wheels and tongue of an old farm wagon and would pull this to the top of the hill and then coast down. Several times they made the trip in safety, but the last time one of the wheels struck an obstruction and the boys were thrown off and the little one had practically the whole top of his head scalped.

He struck on some sharp obstacle which laid his scalp open from the middle of his forehead to the back of his neck, leaving a portion of the skull bare nearly two inches in the whole length of the cut. Besides the cut on his head the left ear was practically torn from the head, as it hung but by a thread when the boy was picked up and carried to the house.

When the accident happened the little fellow was carried to the house and Dr. Cole was sent for. Care was taken for the injuries and at the report the patient was progressing well as could be expected. The nature of the injury being considered.

Milton, July 5.—For the last two weeks the people of Milton have thought and talked, laid plans and speculated about making the Nation's holiday a success in this little city, and now since it is past and they look back upon the hundreds and thousands of visitors that came from far and near, it is no longer a question will it be, but how did we make it such?

After three days of as windy weather as this section ever saw, old Sol settled down below the horizon and under the booming of the anvils he arose the next morning in all his brilliancy, as if the wind had never blown; but in less than 30 minutes he hid his face under a cloud and refused to show himself at any time during the day.

From early morn until noon people kept pouring in until the crowd numbered about 2,000. The procession, which was artistically arranged, formed on Main street in Freewater and marched to the depot to await the arrivals of the trains which brought large crowds from the neighboring cities; thence to the grove in the south end of Milton, where the forenoon's program was carried out and dinner was eaten. When the hour for the afternoon's exercises arrived "the low-hung clouds" began "to drop their garnered fullness down," and kept dropping larger and larger drops and thicker and thicker drops, until every pool and puddle was full, and the streets an inch deep in slippery mud. At 4 o'clock the dark rain cloud passed on and the ball game was called. After two hours hard work that part of the program came to a close, and the crowd dispersed itself along Main street to see the foot and bicycle races, etc.

All went merry as a marriage bell until it was too dark to see, when the crowd dispersed to their several abiding places except those who cared to repair to the new opera house to spend an hour or more.

WISMER WANTED AGAIN.

Young Man Who Was "Persecuted" in This City Is Wanted for Safe Cracking in Seattle.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer of July 4, contains a picture of Floyd D. Wismer, the young man who was arrested by Sheriff Taylor, some weeks ago, on information from the Baker city sheriff, on a charge of forgery.

It seems Mr. Wismer is now on his acts in Baker City, intent to secure his release, and after spending a few days in this city, he went to Seattle.

On Saturday night of June 27, a safe in the office of the C. B. Smith Manufacturing Company, of Seattle, was blown open by what led the police to believe were expert cracksmen, and $217 taken. Before the smoke from the explosion had cleared away, a policeman had reached the office and saw no one at the safe nor leaving the building, which at once led him to believe the money had been taken out before the safe was blown open and the safe then cracked to hide the true criminals.

Mr. Wismer and George Briggs, a stenographer in the Smith office, once left town. The men had been chums since Mr. Wismer's arrival in Seattle, and the circumstances surrounding the crime pointed to their complicity in it.

Wismer and Briggs are now wanted by the Seattle police on a charge of safe blowing.

The Jones Family.

FOURTH OF JULY

ENJOYABLE DAY FOR ALL WHO CAME TO PENDLETON.

One Accident Only That Involved Loss, While No One Was Injured—Rain in the Evening Spoiled the Fireworks—The Public Order Was Exceptionally Good.

The Fourth was observed in this city in a quiet and orderly manner and while there was not an official celebration, there was a lot of music, fireworks, dancing and fun.

Early in the morning the people began to gather in the streets from the country around Pendleton, and by the time for the Walla Walla band to make its appearance the streets were crowded with a merry throng, all intent on having as much fun as was possible.

Throughout the day the band played at different parts of the city, and this was in fact, all of the celebration that the city furnished, with the exception of the fireworks in the evening.

While the morning was fine, the afternoon turned into a jumble of rain and sun and wind, and this dampened the enthusiasm of the spectators to some extent.

During the afternoon there was a dance in the big tent which was largely attended, and in the evening there was a large number of visitors to the fireworks in the Army hall. All of the visitors seemed to have a good time and departed for their homes in the evening tired and well pleased with the day.

During the day there were no accidents of a serious nature, and the weather was good natured and orderly. This morning the police court handled no more cases than on any Monday morning, and the cases that did come up were transients and Indians.

There were two fires in the city on the evening of the Fourth, neither of which was of much magnitude. During the time that the fireworks were being handled from the tops of the buildings in the evening a large rock crashed through the plate glass window of the Nolt store, cutting a hole about eight inches in diameter in the center of the window and setting fire to the fireworks piled in the window. By some exertion and a great deal of haste on the part of the employees of the store the contents of the window were thrown in the street before it began to explode, and a serious fire was averted. Had the stock become fairly ignited it would have made things terrible for the firemen, as the store was carrying a large stock of cannon crackers and bombs and rockets. As it was, the store was slightly tinged by it, while the goods in the window were damaged or destroyed. But the damage done was not serious, and the principal loss being the window, which is cracked and broken.

Late in the evening the house occupied by M. Carter and family on West Webb street was seen to be on fire and an alarm was turned in. The house was so full of smoke that it was with difficulty that the fire could be saved and most of it was lost. The house is a small one and the loss will be small.

ORDER FOR RABBITS.

American Hare Packing Company Closes Contract for Ten Thousand Animals.

The American Hare Packing and Cold Storage Company of Echo has closed a contract with Harry Rodgers of Butter creek, for the delivery of 10,000 fat, sleek, young hares, beginning the first of next September. J. P. Nelson, recently from Wisconsin, has also contracted to furnish a large number of the American hare and will prepare for the delivery of catching and delivering them alive, as the company has decided to receive them in no other condition. Mr. Nelson will fence a large tract of sagebrush land with rabbit tight wire and make a business of taking the game in large numbers, having a ready market for his entire catch.

The company will take nothing but prime, fat young rabbits, as the market demands only the best quality. The deed from the town of Echo to the packing company for one choice block of land for a cannery site will be completed this week, and the company will then immediately begin the erection of the plant which must be three times the value of the land, according to the terms of the deed.

ARRIVED AT NOME.

Wesley Matlock and W. M. Beagle Reached Their Destination on June 17th.

A private letter from W. M. Beagle, who left here several weeks ago with a shipment of horses and mules for Nome, reached their destination on June 17, were well and in the best of spirits, after their long trip to the north.

One of the animals was lost en route, but otherwise they were in good condition and would bring high prices. One pair of small mares was mentioned as being worth $500 there.

The letter was dated at Nome, June 19, and stated that they would start next day for the claims in the interior. Some very rich ground has been opened up near their property, recently, and the prospects are good for a busy season.

CELEBRATION AT BINGHAM.

Over Five Hundred People Gather at This Famous Resort on the Fourth.

Bingham Springs, July 5.—Over 500 people from La Grande, Athena, Milton, Weston, Helix, Dayton, Walla Walla and Pendleton, gathered in this place Saturday to do honor to the nation's birth. The order of the day was camping, fishing, picnicking and merry-making in various ways. The crowds filled the spacious groves on the Umatilla, and the weather was ideal for the occasion.

There was no formal program, but the people were equal to the occasion and the day was passed as pleasantly as if all the orators and poets show attractions in the state were present.

Under almost every sheltering pine a group of jolly picnicers spread their luncheons and told their experiences. It was one of the most enjoyable events in the long history of Bingham Springs.

The sawmill will change the location of his large mill plant from Meacham as first intended, to this city. The East Oregonian gave the news of mill to be built at Meacham, some time

EXAMINING BOARD

LAW TO REGULATE THE PLUMBING OF CITIES.

Careless Wording of an Act Passed by the Last Legislature—Who Will Comprise the Board of Plumbing Inspectors in This City?—A Duty That is Up to Mayor Hailey.

At the last session of the legislature there was a law passed requiring the meaning of the act, and the board of plumbing inspectors, who shall meet and organize and who shall look after the plumbing of the city or town and shall examine all applicants who wish to work at the trade.

All towns of 5,000 inhabitants or more shall have an inspector who shall look after the plumbing in the town and see that it is done in accordance with the rules and regulations as made by the council, and all towns having 4,000 inhabitants or more shall make ordinances which shall govern the plumbing in the city and specify as to how it shall be done.

The last section of the law is an example of the careless wording of the legislation that is enacted. After going on throughout the act and specifying the duties of the inspectors, and the qualifications of the plumbers and all of the details of the law section eight reads as follows:

"Section 8.—Any person who works at the business of plumbing the houses or conducts a plumbing shop in any incorporated city or town in the state, containing more than 4,000 inhabitants, or otherwise violates any of the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof in a justice court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10, nor more than $100."

Of course the court would construe the meaning of the act from the text before, but judging by the last clause it is a misdemeanor for a person to engage in the plumbing business after the first of the current month.

Owing to the press of other business the mayor has had no opportunity to appoint the board from this city, but he has had the matter under his notice for some time past, and the board will in all probability be appointed in the near future.

There are seven plumbers in the city, and from this number the board will have to be appointed. William Keller, L. A. Edmonds, M. Keating, T. P. Lund, Paul Paulsen, Smith and Sam Sams are all of the men in the city who are at present engaged in the plumbing business, and from their ranks the board will be composed.

PROBABLE THAT THE LIGHT PLANT WILL CHANGE HANDS.

A Philadelphia Syndicate Has a Thirty-Day Option on the Establishment—If the Deal Goes Through the Plant Will Be Enlarged—Dr. Vincent Will Retain the Management.

There is a deal on with a syndicate of Eastern capitalists whereby the Pendleton Light & Power Company will be sold and enlarged. It is virtually an assured fact that the company will change hands inside of the next two weeks; but in the hands of the Pendleton people who are now at the head of the management, into the control of a Philadelphia syndicate, and if their plans carry out as it is expected they will, Pendleton will have an all day service inside of 18 months.

The people of the East have a 30-day option on the plant, and in that time the deal will be consummated and the new company will take control. The management of the plant will still be entrusted to Dr. Vincent, who will, if his health permits, remain at the head of the business for another year at least.

USED PULLEY ON JOE FLAVEL.

Shoulder Bone Broke Through Ligament and Stuck.

The rare operation of setting a dislocated shoulder by means of a rope and pulley was yesterday morning performed on Joe Flavel, who was at the Walla Walla hospital, says the Walla Walla Union. The subject was Joe Flavel, who several weeks ago fell from a hayrack, and his manager below, dislocating his shoulder. Upon examination it was found that the bone had broken through the capsular ligament at the joint, and it resisted the ordinary pressure that could be brought to bear at the hands of the physicians.

Returned From the East. Joseph McCabe, vice-president of the W. & C. R., accompanied by his wife and daughter, returned to Walla Walla from a month's visit to New England and Canada, last evening.

An enjoyable family reunion was held at the Bunker Hill battleground, in Massachusetts. They traveled extensively through Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and Eastern Canada, and had a most enjoyable trip.

Davidson-Harris. Sunday afternoon at the home of E. N. Smith, 10 miles south of the city on McKay creek, Rev. G. W. Rigby united in marriage Miss Bertha E. Harris to Harry Davidson. The young people are residents of that place and are well known here, where they have spent the greater part of their lives. A number of the friends of the principals were at the wedding and after the ceremony a bountiful dinner was served.

From Pilot Rock. John P. McManis, the mail and hustling editor of the Pilot Rock Record, accompanied by Oliver Kretz and a party of friends, left Pilot Rock, spent the afternoon in the city, returning home this evening.

Profitable Cherry Trees. J. M. Evans, the well known fruit man of Freewater, is the owner of a few Royal cherry trees which have netted him, this year a total profit of $30.50. The trees are eight years old, and have never failed to produce a good crop since they began to bear.

British Women Who Work. The British census of 1901 returns one woman as a dock laborer and another as a paver. There are five female farm servants returned as in charge of horses, while four women are working as bricklayers, four as boiler-makers, two as locksmiths, and one as coopersmith. Women brewers number nearly 100 and women builders 177, while the lighter "men" bargemen, seamen, boatmen and pilots of the fair sex run into several hundreds.
