D. C. BROWNELL INVESTITIGATES UTAH METHODS.

Debate From Umatilla to Irrigation Congress Studies Systems of the Idaho and Utah Farmers—Conditions Much More Favorable in Oregon.

D. C. Brownell, of Umatilla, who was a delegate from this county to the Ogeda Irrigation Congress, has just returned home from that city.

The first great difference between the irrigated farms of Utah and Idaho, for the purpose of studying the methods employed there, with a view to introducing new features into the irrigation of his own land in this county.

Mr. Brownell spent several days on the farms in the vicinity of Salt Lake City and Ogeda, studying the ditch dam and reservoir systems, the crops methods of applying water, and all the various details of the science of irrigation, after which he went to the Blackfoot district, in Idaho, which is one of the most progressive irrigation districts in the West, and which has been reclamationed and put under cultivation, within the past seven years.

Mr. Brownell is deeply impressed with the details of the science of irrigation, and while the climate, soil and natural conditions surrounding the Utah and Idaho irrigators, are far inferior to those of Oregon, yet the results of irrigation are almost beyond comparison in some districts in those states.

Mr. Brownell feels greatly encouraged with the prospects for irrigation by the government in this county. He feels that the interest taken by Oregon in the last congress has encouraged the engineers to push the work here as fast as possible.

A WAITING EMPIRE

JEFFERSON MYERS RETURNS FROM CENTRAL OREGON.

People are Waiting for Railroad Facilities—San Francisco Enterprise Crowding into the Interior—Portland May Lose the Trade Through Inactivity.

The following interesting interview with Hon. Jefferson Myers, appearing in a recent number of the Oregon Daily Journal, is of such vital importance to Oregon, that the East Oregonian takes pleasure in running it in full that it may have the widest possible publicity. The Journal says:

Jefferson Myers, president of the Lewis and Clark state commission returned from an interesting journey through Central Oregon and will at once call a meeting this evening in J. Couch Planners' office, at which time the commission will consider plans for the administration building.

In the event the plans are satisfactory and arrangements may be made to that end, the plans for the construction will be advertised for at once, and the building made ready at the earliest possible moment. It is probable that headquarters on Front and Pine that the new structure will be occupied about June 1, 1904, by both the commission and corporation.

The fair officials are anxious to get into their new quarters as soon as possible and be upon the job of the work to be done in preparation for the exposition.

President Myers returned from his trip through the interior impressed with the splendid future of that region, and enthusiastic over the attention assumed by the people there.

"These people in the interior country," said he today, "are of a kind to make one glad he has gone to see them. I found them more willing to supply exhibits and they even refused to accept money to pay for the freight of the stuff across the mountains to the railroad. They donated the exhibits and pay the carriage 150 miles by team."

They Want a Railroad.
Those folks want a railroad. They want it so badly that they will do anything to get it. They have seen the railroads that have been built in the interior and they are jealous of them.

Portland must get rail communication with that region, else San Francisco will capture all the trade of that part of Oregon. Were the Oregon & Pacific extended to the foot of Mount Jefferson, it would then be a matter of time before the road would be built to Prineville or Burns, and then it is to Shaniko. Now they have to pull over the Blue mountains and over the State road, 2100 cars of 20,000 pounds each were required to take to Burns, and the same quantity to Prineville.

"I would urge Portland to get in to that region with a railroad now as possible and prevent the capture of the trade by California merchants."

Products Will Be Exhibited.
The products of the interior will be well represented at the St. Louis fair, for the reason that the Lewis and Clark exposition. There will be apples, peaches, plums and cherries, besides other things. The fruit interests are for the reason that in Burns it is grown at an altitude of 1200 feet above the sea, yet I saw a cherry tree in the yard of Professor Williams of that place that has grown 10 feet 10 inches this year. He has strawberries yielding at this time. There will be grains and fruits and vegetables.

Harney, in my opinion, is the most wonderful valley undeveloped in the entire West. One stands upon a hill near Burns and sees for miles around the valley continuous succession of haystacks reaching far down toward the Narrows. Vast quantities of livestock are sustained on this hay.

Cattle Are Low in Price.
Cattle raisers there are discouraged at the low prices that prevail. They also are a hard winter with much live stock dying from scarcity of food. They believe relief will be afforded in part by the ingress of a railroad, and they look towards Portland for that relief. Portland is the natural center for them, and yet the southern half of the district trades mostly with California, because of easier access to those markets. Although, without it, they are prosperous, it is difficult to hold prices and scolding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, sent free by mail, if you send a note to the publisher, Dr. J. C. DeWitt, 219 Broadway, New York, N. Y., on every bottle.

Benefit to Country.
The people of the interior appear to believe they will receive more benefits from the exposition than will the cities and towns and oil sections of the coast. They have the largest proportion of public lands owned by individuals, and not yet improved, and the attention drawn to Oregon by the fair will operate to increase the opportunity to dispose of these unoccupied lands. They are simply waiting for requests to aid the fair, and respond enthusiastically to all appeals."

Alba, Sept. 28.—Stock men do not care to sell at present, and those who have a plenty of pasture and feed will hold for a rise in the market.

Chas. Kimble, after being confined to the hospital for four weeks, is now able to be around. He has been disabled from shooting himself through the foot with a load of buckshot. He had not at hand, and mistaking it, had pointed the gun toward the ground, and inadvertently pulled the trigger on the second barrel.

While Ed Brim was returning from Pendleton on horseback, his horse started, throwing him. He was bruised and taken to the home of J. Clemmer, where he still is. A PASTOR'S WIFE

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless—Cured by Peruna.

MRS. ANNA B. FLEHARTY, recent Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, who was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, at Lincoln, Neb.

In a letter written from 401 Sixty-seventh street, W. Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Fleharty says the following in regard to Peruna:

"Having lived a very active life as wife and working partner of a busy minister, my health failed me a few years ago. I lost my husband about the same time, and gradually I seemed to lose health and spirit. My daughter is a confirmed invalid, and we both felt great need of an invigorator.

"One of my neighbors advised me to try Peruna. A bottle was immediately secured and a great change took place in my daughter's case as well as in my own health. Our appetites improved very greatly, the digestion seemed much helped, and restful sleep came so that we seemed like new women.

"I would not be without Peruna for times its cost."—Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty.

What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvis organs are the cause of most cases of female diseases.

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's great physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women, and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female diseases. He therefore began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female diseases ever known. Every where the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of the disease.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.
