"HAIR OIL PETE" NOW ON TRIAL

SHOT HIS PARTNER OVER PROPERTY DIVISION.

St. Cyr Claims that the Shooting Was Done in Self-defense—Finnish Girl, Who Cannot Speak English, Only Outside Witness—St. Cyr Was an O. R. & N. Engineer and Saved Two Trains From Horrible Collision at Camelia in 1889—Well Known Here by Old Timers.

The trial of "Hair Oil Pete," or H. M. St. Cyr, formerly of this city and La Grande, (where he ran an engine on the main line of the O. R. & N. for several years), for the murder of Archie Emmons, his partner, at Lardo, Idaho, last July, is now being heard at Idaho City. St. Cyr and Emmons were partners in some mining property, teams and other property, and in the division of this partnership there was a misunderstanding about the ownership of the team. St. Cyr claimed, and had possession of the team, and it was in a stable on his place at Lardo, when Emmons, who also claimed the team, appeared upon the St. Cyr ranch and deliberately took the team out of the stable and started to lead it away. St. Cyr made his appearance just as Emmons was wandering away with the team and remonstrated with him. St. Cyr claims that Emmons shot three times at him with a 44 Colt's revolver, and that he, St. Cyr, went into the house, procured his rifle and shot Emmons in self-defense. A Finnish girl, who cannot speak English, is the only witness to the shooting except Mrs. S. Cyr, and the evidence so far produced is in St. Cyr's favor. There are three bullet holes in the woodshed near the door, where St. Cyr was standing. Who he claims Emmons shot at him, and a coroner and jury found Emmons' pistol and hat near a pool of blood about 40 feet from the woodshed door, when summoned to investigate the killing last July. St. Cyr has been in the county jail at Idaho City since the killing, last summer, and hopes to prove that the shooting was in self-defense. "Hair Oil Pete," as St. Cyr was called, when running on the O. R. & N., was one of the old-time engineers on the system, having come to La Grande, from Colorado, along in the

CITY COUNCIL STRUGGLING WITH STUBBLEFIELD WILL.

Prominent Citizen Offers to Sell 40 Acres at Reduced Cost and Donate Part of the Proceeds to the Home Fund—Ladies Relief Society Offers to Give to Property. The city council of Walla Walla is struggling desperately with the Stubblefield home proposition, with very good prospects of succeeding in landing the prize at this time. The county court declined to donate $10,000 of the people's money for the purpose of bringing the home to the county, so the council, awake to the importance of the institution, took up the fight for the funds. The matter now stands like this: W. W. Baker, a wealthy citizen of Walla Walla, has agreed to sell the city a choice tract of land in the suburbs, consisting of 40 acres, for $16,000, the amount being $4,000 less than the actual value of the tract on the market. In addition, Baker offers to donate $5,000 in cash to the fund, and the Ladies' Relief Society of Walla Walla has offered to donate, free of charge, their property in the city, valued at $2,500, as part of the fund, leaving the council with $1,500 year's income. The council is in favor of voting this amount in order to secure the home for that city, and from all appearances the will will be closed soon and the home will be located at Walla Walla. The only objection raised to this procedure so far, is to the valuation placed on the Baker land, but when it is remembered that he has donated $5,000 in cash to the fund, in addition to the Ladies' Relief Society's land from $20,000 to $16,000, this objection does not have much weight with the council.

WAS BRYAN'S FRIEND?

While in Boise on his way north Mr. Bennett made very few acquaintances, possibly for a number of comfortable circumstances in search of recreation. He was shown the greatest consideration by his associates and left a highly favorable impression of his personality upon those he met in this city. It is said that Mr. Bennett's regard for Bryan was most ardent and veneration. He was never prominent in politics and, so it is asserted, never interested himself in a campaign until he formed the acquaintance of Mr. Bryan. From that time forward, although he was advanced in years, he became deeply interested in political affairs and was one of Mr. Bryan's staunchest supporters. While journeying westward on his way to Idaho, Mr. Bennett visited Mr. Bryan at Lincoln, Neb., a gentleman who was with him at the time and who accompanied him on the fatal trip north, said that Mr. Bennett was almost paternal and thoroughly reciprocated.

He came to this city about two years ago from Walla Walla, and was here for nearly a year. Sunday night, Rhodes had a fight with a man who was creating a disturbance in his saloon, and after some time the stranger returned and shot the bartender in the back of the neck as he turned to ring up some change in the cash register. The ball went through the neck, the roof of his mouth and came out near the right temple, missing the arteries and brain. Rhodes was taken to St. Vincent's hospital and it is thought that he has a fair chance to recover, though he will be blind. Tex Lavender, of this city, was a witness to the tragedy.

The storm this week has been the most severe on the Mason prairie ever known and all the sheep in this section are now being fed hay. It is expected that by the first of December feeding quarters will be established in Tammany and 2,600 sheep will be fed there for the market. All of the sheep attended here will be sold in the local market or shipped to Seattle. The feeding quarters for the stock sheep will be established on Forest water about the first of the year, but it is believed that the stock sheep will be carried through the winter with much less feed than last year. The range has been good for stock sheep until the recent snow and it may be possible that after the melting of the snow on the ground that the herds will be carried over with very little feed except during the severe storms of January.

TRIAL OF GEN. CRAWFORD.

In the Event of Disbarment, Governor Chamberlain Favors a Pendleton Man. The disbarment proceedings against Attorney General A. H. Crawford, came up today before a committee of the State Bar Association at Portland. He is accused by Judge Willis of having perjured himself, and the judge will attempt to prove his assertions. Mr. Crawford is represented by Judge Watson.
