Major Lee Moorhouse, deputy clerk of the supreme court, this morning received a decision from the court, in the case of the state of Oregon against George T. Miller, James Colwell and Bert Bailey, jointly indicted for the murder of J. W. Curtis, in Harney county, on March 22, 1902. In the trial, Bailey was discharged and Miller and Colwell were found guilty of murder in the second de gree. The supreme court reverses the decision of the trial court and grants the defendants a new trial on legal technicalities explained at length in the decision. Judge Morton D. Clifford, of Grant and Harney counties, was the trial judge. J. K. Weatherford represented the appellants and the supreme court opinion,
