OREGON PIONEER SYSTEMIC CATARRH SO LITTLE UNDERSTOOD. Claims Many Thousands. A Tragedian's Thanks to Per-ru-na.

T. BEALE, OF PILOT ROCK, HELPED FOUND THE STATE.

From Old Fort Boise to Diamond Peak His Party of 200 Wagons Made the First Trail Across the Central Oregon Desert—At Oregon City His Company Met a Hot Rebuke From Dr. McLaughlin—Oregon Reached to the Rockies in 1850.

Among the hardy pioneers who helped to found the state of Oregon, Umatilla county has a goodly share. Yesterday T. Beale, who has resided at Pilot Rock for the past 24 years, visited this office and related a few pioneer experiences which enter into the very foundation of civil government in this state.

Mr. Beale came to Oregon with the great immigration of 1850, from Sonoma, Missouri. He was one of a company in which there were 200 wagons, and when the company reached old Fort Boise, it started west, through the Harney and Malheur country, and was met at the headwaters of the Willamette river.

They struck the Cascade range at Diamond Peak, and cut a road down the west slope of the mountains, to the present site of Corvallis. There has been no wagon over the route through Central Oregon at that time. The brush and timber were so thick on the Cascades that their progress was very slow, down the little creek, and across the headwaters of the Willamette river.

They knew they were near the Willamette valley when they came to the site of the Three Sisters in the Cascade range, for they had been told in a letter from Oregon the year before, that the three peaks were sure landmarks that stood over the beautiful valley on the west side of the range.

They sighted these peaks while many days travel out in the barren Southern Oregon desert and it gave them renewed courage in the hard and laborious task of climbing the mountains on the east side and in cutting a road down the west side.

Where the company started down the west side of the range, they were compelled to let the wagons down with ropes, so steep were the cliffs. They were six months from Bates county, Missouri, to Oregon City, arriving at the latter place on November 1, 1850.

BEET CROP IS GOOD. ECHO BEETS INDICATE HIGH SUGAR PERCENTAGE.

F. S. Bramwell, field superintendent of the La Grande sugar factory, spent last night in the city, in the effort to encourage Umatilla Indians in thinning and weeding the beet crop at Echo.

Mr. Bramwell says the crop at Echo is further advanced and more uniform and thrifty than the crops in Grand Ronde valley and that the plants are much more smooth and beautiful than in the colder soil of Eastern Oregon.

He gathered several samples from the crops at Echo, to exhibit in La Grande. The young beets are as smooth and clean of defects in growth, as any ever grown in the choicest beet lands of Utah, where the world's record is held. The crop is now ready for thinning, and the form of the young plants indicate a high sugar percentage.

Mr. Bramwell feels confident that the Echo district will prove to be one of the leading beet producing sections of the west if the people will only try the experiment of planting them and cultivating them properly. Everything is favorable at Echo.

WHEAT INJURED. Must Rest to Make a Crop, and Cannot Be Depend on. There is considerable uneasiness, beyond question well grounded, lest the late severe cold spell injured the winter wheat. In fact, it is known to be injured, but just how much cannot be told at this time.

Many fields, or rather parts of fields, which were a bright and vigorous green just before the late cold snap, are now of a more or less dingy, sickly yellow. The greater part of the effects of the freeze was felt on the lowest ground in the various fields affected.

In many instances the yellow, sickly effects follow the bottoms and sides of the hollows. In some cases the entire field, provided it lay quite low, was hurt in an almost equal degree. In many cases not only is the blade damaged, but the stalks so severely so that if the crop is to grow there it must come from a complete retooling, and the season is too late for any dependence to be put in any such chances.

Deputies Report. All of the deputy assessors have made their returns except C. F. Weiss, W. H. Gould, W. B. Ross, J. B. Walden, Ralph J. Stanfield, J. W. Sturdevant and J. S. Cherry, but all these gentlemen are known to have their returns either nearly completed, or entirely so, but not to have reached town with them yet.

ROBERT DOWNING, THE FAMOUS TRAGEDIAN. In speaking of Peruna, Robert Downing, the famous tragedian, says: "I find Peruna a preventative against all sudden summer illnesses that swoop upon one in changing climates and water. It is the finest traveling companion and safeguard against malarial influences."

Dr. Hartman was the first physician in the United States to accurately describe systemic catarrh. His remedy, Peruna, the only systemic catarrh remedy yet devised, is now known all over the civilized world. A person having used it once can never be persuaded to be without it when in need of such a remedy.

Write for a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book entitled "Summer Catarrh." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.
