

The Halo of Motherhood.
The halo of motherhood is a divine thing, we all revere it, and we all appreciate at what a cost it has been won. Apprehension, tears, worry, and actual suffering make up its cost, and yet all this might be easily lessened by the simple agency of a balsam dedicated to the easing of parturition and its accompanying suffering.

It is applied externally, and the results following its use are nothing short of marvelous. "A friend in need is a friend indeed," that's what Mother's Friend is. Sold at all drug stores for $1.00 per bottle. Send for our book, "Motherhood," free if you ask.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1914.

Japan, the Beautiful. The ghost of grace through heathen tides and times Hath kept her vigil near thy trembling stars! Thy cherry blossom cheeks, in peace or wars Still beam rapport with all thy sweetest chimes!

New states may grow where fallen states have been! The pulse of Beauty, dead, shall beat no more! Thine not the cause of wall and tower and store— Thy citadels are laid in hearts of men!

—Ivan Swift in September Sunset.

J. H. Cradlebaugh, in speaking of Salem, in September "Sunset" magazine says the stranger notices an air of "quiet dignity" in the city. Now this is an artistic term for downright dullness. Over in Baker or Sumpter, where the stranger notices this same air, he immediately says the town is "on the bum," but in Salem it is just "quiet dignity."

That honesty in public office may still be found is shown by the fact that former Governor Robert E. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, left an estate of only $9000. He had served two terms as governor of Pennsylvania, and had also been sent to congress for several terms. But he had not used his official power to add to his income by any of the questionable means which so many office-holders find profitable. Governor Pattison's family is left comparatively poor in this world's goods, but they have the greater satisfaction of knowing that the name they bear stands for cleanliness and high honor.

Every inland Empire farmer has an ear upon the ground listening for the portage whistle—that rate-reducing sound! He has watched the legislature drill the hole and buy the fuse; he has flinched to feel his master turn again the grinding screws; he has seen the state commission pour the powder in the hole, where around the stony gateway, the waiting waters roll; he has heard the hot air music from the press defiant flow, piping, "all is ready, gov'ner, say the word, and let 'er go!" He has seen the shots all capped and primed, has heard the doubters scoff. Now he's listening for some one to touch the durned thing off!

Every night the Pendleton Commercial Association meets in its present crowded quarters, the necessity for a club building, designed and equipped expressly for club purposes, is thrust upon the membership. The past year in Pendleton has been singularly and happily free from calls of charity or public expense. Nature has poured into the lap of the city and county a bountiful volume of prosperity and before another winter, with its long evenings and demands for social recreation comes, Pendleton should treat herself to such a building, not forgetting in the meantime, a swimming pool and a public park for the hot summer afternoons and evenings. This is a good year to begin.

Speaking of Pendleton newspapers, the Athena Press makes the following comment, which is duly appreciated. It shall always be the aim of this paper to be independent, accurate and progressive, and the esteemed constituency at Athena and other Umatilla county towns will be given the best to be had in the way of local and general news. The Press says: "The Pendleton Tribune came up this morning in eight-page form, the first page carrying a limited Associated Press service. The typographical appearance of the paper is helped materially by solid composition, but the general mechanical effect is marred by inferior press work. As a local and county paper the Tribune is yet far below the scale that for many years has been set by the East Oregonian. This fact is verified in the circulation of the two papers in the 'squat town,' as the Tribune sees fit to designate Athena."

Beware, Japan, beware. Your world of admirers are now hanging breathlessly on the latest news from the Orient. You are venturing far inland. You are drunk with victory, exhausted with hard fighting and hard marching. You are confronted with a trap, which may be your undoing. If you pursue Kuropatkin to Harbin, you will be worn out and battle tired. His force there will be joined by a new army collected from Vladivostok and from Russia by way of the Siberian road. You will be in the enemy's country, cut off from help from your ships and exhausted from the long chase. With his new recruits your enemy may encircle you, fling out a new and refreshed army and then crush you! It may be the trap that lies back of all old Kuro-

MARVELOUS SHOOTING.

Captain Matousevitch, chief of staff of the late Admiral Witthoft, says that the shot which shattered the bridge of the flagship Czarevitch and killed the admiral, was fired by the Japanese a distance of eight miles.

He asserts that in the battle, the Japanese would not permit the Russian ships to approach nearer than eight miles, and that the great damage to the Russian vessels were brought about by shots fired at that distance.

This is marvelous shooting when all the conditions are considered; namely, that both gunners and target are in motion, going forward and tossing about, that the target at a distance of eight miles must appear very small and that all kinds of allowances must be made by the marksman. It seems evident that the Japanese have made target practice a most conscientious duty, and that they have brought marine firing to a science.

This war is teaching us many things, and none so important as the fact that, without marksmanship, the biggest and best armed ships are no better than junk.

The gradual inner development of a city comes to light every day. The need of a better system of electric wiring in Pendleton has been brought to light, in the prospect of a straggler current reaching the city zone. Insurance rates, public safety and practical utility all suggest an ordinance prescribing the kind of wiring to be in use hereafter. This is just as necessary as the proscribed fire limits, and the ordinance regulating flues and stove pipes. Poor wiring will be more dangerous than poor flues, after the heavier voltage of the new electric system is turned into the city, with the present system of wiring.

While Secretary Taft is justified to a certain extent in declining to discuss the right of way for the ship canal until it becomes the property of the government, yet he is fully advised of the urgent need for the portage road, and could have yielded far enough to have given some word of encouragement to the people of the inland Empire, in the matter of allowing the portage to occupy part of the ship canal right of way. The people would very much regret to accuse the war department of being a party to the delay of the portage road.

Sheriff Brown of Baker county has been the theme of Oregon newspapers for the past month, because of his enforcement of the law on the Sunday closing of saloons. Has it come to a stage in Oregon where an officer who enforces the law is the exception, and must be lauded so loudly? Thousands of officials in Oregon are quietly enforcing the laws on the statute books without all this flare of trumpets.

An Eastern Oregon exchange says: "A large delegation from Wallowa county has just left for St. Lewis. Clark will have a just kick coming that he is not also canonized by the press."

Frank Chester Andrews, Detroit Napoleon of Finance, former police commissioner of the Michigan city, vice president of the wrecked City Savings Bank and convict out on ticket of leave while under 15 years' sentence for uttering an overdraft of $1,500,000, committed in connection with the wrecked bank, is now and has been for months a Wall street operator. He has offices at 49 Wall street and rapidly amassing a new fortune.

What a sense of the utter littleness and emptiness of his mission must fill the mind of Gen. Fred Grant today, as he parades in mock warfare, in command of a few "tin soldiers," over the ground once stained in actual carnage with the best blood of the nation, under the generalship of his Spartan father. In comparing the two scenes, this rather puffed-up son of a great man, should be so thoroughly imbued with the nasty folly of these mock battles that he would refuse to participate again, even to please a warlike president.

Umatilla county would have the largest attendance of any county in the state at the Ontario Irrigation meeting, if attendance were measured by the actual results and benefits of irrigation.

A new pest in the form of a rod spider is found in the Oregon hop fields this year, and threatens to be injurious to the crop.

INHERITED SCROFULA

When a child I had a very severe attack of Diphtheria, which came near proving fatal. Upon recovery the glands of the neck were very much enlarged, and after the free use of iodine, the right one was reduced to its normal size, but the left one continued to grow—very slowly at first, until it was about the size of a goose egg, which began to press on the wind pipe, causing difficult breathing, and became very painful. An incision was made and a large quantity of pus discharged. The gland was removed, or as much as could with safety be taken out. For ten years I wore a little piece of cloth about an inch long in my neck to keep the place open. During this time I had to have it cut open by the doctor every time I took cold or the opening clogged. In the Spring or early Summer of 1884 I was persuaded by my wife to use S. S. S., which I did, strictly in accordance with directions. I took twenty-six large bottles, and was entirely cured, for I have not suffered since that time.

Only a constitutional remedy can reach an hereditary disease like Scrofula. When the blood is restored to a normal condition and the scrofulous deposits are carried off there is a gradual return to health. S. S. S. is well known as a blood purifier and tonic. It is the only guaranteed, strictly vegetable remedy. If you have any signs of Scrofula, write us and our physician will advise you free.
