

FAINT GLIMPSSES OF SPIRIT WORLD

DR. L. SCHLESINGER, M.D.
DUM, VISITS PENDLETON.

Wonderful Demonstrations of Mediumship Before a Party of Friends at Dr. W. G. Cole's Home—Names Written on Tightly Folded Slips Are Read—Private History of the Unknown Persons Readily Given—Object Is to Prove Immortality of the Soul.

That was a surprised, delighted, and yet awe-struck party of friends, which gathered at the beautiful home of Dr. W. G. Cole last evening to witness the spiritualistic demonstrations of Dr. Louis Schlesinger, one of the most noted spiritualistic mediums in the world.

Dr. Schlesinger came to Pendleton yesterday morning by the way of Spokane, and being ill from a cold and night travel, decided to stop over and receive medical attention.

He called on Dr. Cole for this purpose and while talking with the doctor in his office in the Judd building, made known that he was a medium, and as an evidence of the power of his mediumship, told the doctor that he (Dr. Cole) did not believe in spiritualism, a thought which was uppermost in Dr. Cole's mind at that moment.

The conversation led to an extended discussion of the subject of spiritualism and Dr. Schlesinger offered to make a demonstration that would convince anyone of the genuineness of the science or theory of spiritualism and immortality of the certain of immortality.

By this time Dr. Cole was interested deeply in the medium and invited Dr. E. A. Vaughn to witness a demonstration of spiritualism.

The demonstration of Dr. Schlesinger's powers of mediumship was made in the following manner: Dr. Cole went into his private office and wrote several names on slips of paper, some names those of dead and some those of living persons, placed the bits of paper, tightly folded in a hat held by Dr. Vaughn, where they were vigorously shaken, so it was impossible for Dr. Cole, who had written the names, to distinguish one slip from another.

Then Dr. Schlesinger called the name on each slip as it was taken, yet tightly folded, from the hat, complementing the name of the person with a few words of personal history.

The performance was repeated with R. Alexander, Dr. Vaughn, E. J. Sommerville and others who by this time had come in until all were amazed at the wonderful revelation of the man's powers.

At the earnest solicitation of Dr. Cole, Dr. Schlesinger consented to remain over for a day and give a private entertainment at his home and last night in Dr. Cole's parlors, strange instrumentality of the spirits brought the visible and the invisible worlds so nearly together that materialistic doubters and men and women who had looked upon spiritualism as a myth, were forced to admit of the awe-inspiring reality of this something, which they could not attempt to explain.

The performance at Dr. Cole's office in the morning was repeated in the presence of about 20 guests in the evening. W. C. Burgess, who was a total stranger to Dr. Schlesinger, wrote a half dozen names of dead and living people on slips of paper, folded the slips tightly and drew them out one at a time. Dr. Schlesinger spelled out the names on the folded slips. Mr. Burgess' name was then placed in the hat shaken and it was readily selected by the medium as the names were again taken from the hat.

Dr. Schlesinger receives no introductions at public meetings, preferring to get the names of his auditors from his spirit guides, which he readily does. The guide, or spirit advisor of Dr. Schlesinger, is his brother, named Ben, who died in early youth and who has always acted as his communicator in the spirit world.

Dr. Schlesinger is totally deaf in the ear to which his spirit guide always speaks, and in reading the names on the slips, he continually asks his guide to give him the name and help him to know.

Dr. Schlesinger is 34 years of age, the oldest living medium known. He is a Mason of high standing and has over 8000 voluntary press notices of his wonderful feats. He says his aim in demonstrating the power and presence of spirits, in constant communication with man, is to prove the continuity of life after death, and says cheerfully that he is ready to cross over to the spirit world, it being only a step distant from this.

He is a Hebrew of venerable appearance and wonderful vitality for a man of 34 and his performances have set a large circle of highly intelligent men and women in Pendleton to thinking seriously.

He will be a guest of Hotel Pendleton for a few days.

He has a home in Chattanooga, Tenn., and one in San Francisco. He does not lower his wonderful power to a mercenary level, and gives advice and counsel free to the poor, accepts cheerfully whatever is paid for his services, but has no fixed price and says his whole aim in life is to spread the gospel of the immortality of the soul, help the suffering and fit mankind to enter aright the mysterious spirit world, glimpses of which he gives to the most stubborn unbeliever in a most startling manner.

SURVEYORS IN HARBNEY.

John T. Whistler and Party Look Over the Silver River Project.

W. C. Sawyer and J. H. Lewis, two government employes connected with the geological survey, have been here for the past few days looking after the water gauges in the Silver river, says the Burns Herald.

The presence of these gentlemen has led some to suppose that the government had not abandoned the Harney valley irrigation project and some were under the impression that possibly the reclamation act was being considered to continue investigations further before allowing the withdrawal to again be thrown open for settlement.

Such is not the case. These gentlemen inform the Times-Herald that an appropriation is made for the purpose of measuring streams which has the connection with the reclamation service and that such measurements are conducted in all sections of the United States.

The two gauging stations will remain in Silver river and those having charge of this work will visit them at intervals to make notes of any

NO NEW DISEASE

DR. W. G. COLE DENIES PRETTY THEORIES.

Says Dr. Woods Hutchinson's "New Disease" is Only Old Fashioned Dysentery and That Dr. Hutchinson Likes to See His Name in Print—Some Good Work Ahead of the State Board if They Would Do It—Better Quarantine Regulations Needed.

"O, fudge!" is the way Dr. W. G. Cole, county health officer, referred to the report circulated by Woods Hutchinson, secretary of the state board of health, that a strange bowel trouble is ravaging the state of Oregon and making business lively for the undertakers.

"Every medical book," declared Dr. Cole, "devotes page after page to dysentery in its varied forms. The disease that Hutchinson is raising such a row about is nothing more nor less than dysentery. His story that he has discovered some new disease may sound all right to the average layman, but to the members of the medical profession it is a bore."

"It is merely a scheme of Dr. Hutchinson to get his name in print and advertise himself. He is always advancing some new scheme and is as full of theories as President Harper of Chicago University. He is a very impracticable man when it comes to the practice of medicine. He is all right when it comes to sitting out doors and watching the song birds and then writing something pretty about them, but he wasn't cut out for a doctor; he should have been a preacher. I doubt if he would know a typhoid bug if he saw one."

"The health board is never doing anything that is of any special benefit to the state. They got in a fight with Salem on account of the water there. Next it was the canneries, then the butchers. During the days of the relief work at Hepper the board members stayed away until things were organized and in working order and then they stepped in and usurped the honors from the people who were doing the work."

"If they would fix up the quarantine laws something of great benefit and assistance to doctors all over the state would result. Instead, however, they are too busy with their theories as to what causes summer complaint."

"I think at times that God is like the loving Cordelia," said Mr. Bard, "who only tries to comfort the maddest Lear. How the loyal daughter follows the stricken king wherever he goes. She whispers words of love in his ear, but he does not listen. She caresses his wrinkled brow and strokes his temples the while sheing locks, but he does not feel it. She is ever around him, loving, caressing, comforting, but the king is deaf and blind. He knows not Cordelia."

"And is not man like Lear, mad with his passions, enveloped in himself, and lost in the hum and bustle of the streets? What if God should speak to us through the fragrance of the rose, the radiance of the stars, through the smile of childhood and through the nobility of a loyal woman?"

"What if he wished to warn us through the passing breeze, caress us with the stillness of the night or inspire us with the music of forest-mistrelsy?"

"This at least, was Tennyson's idea when he said 'the ear of man cannot hear and the eye of man cannot see, but if we could see the vision, were it not He?'"

LOCUSTS A PLAGUE IN EGYPT.

Great Anxiety Felt for the Young Crop.

There is every probability of the plague of locusts which has now descended on Egypt proving a very serious one says a Cairo correspondent of the London Daily Mail. Great anxiety is felt for the young cotton and other crops.

The locusts first arrive in comparatively small numbers, but they multiply very rapidly as soon as they reach the edge of cultivation. Within 10 days the young insects, though still wingless, advance in a solid phalanx, sometimes two or three feet deep and several miles in length. It is essential that at this stage they should be destroyed, as it would be impossible to check the ravages of flying locusts.

The method adopted during the last visitation, that of 1896, was to dig deep trenches, sometimes miles in length, between which the advancing swarm huge heaps of straw were laid and fired. Any locusts which succeeded in escaping the flames and smoke fell into the trenches where they were destroyed by natives under the supervision of English instructors. It is a providential habit of young locusts never to turn back or aside when once started, no matter what obstacles are put in their way.

One Crop Pays for Land.

E. E. Bennighoven, a farmer living near Colfax, is another of the many farmers of this section who has almost paid for a farm with a single crop. Two years ago Mr. Bennighoven came to Whitman county from Watsburg and bought the farm known as the Halsey place, near Diamond, for $25 per acre. This year Mr. Bennighoven had 67 acres in grain. He cut seven acres for hay and got 21 tons, worth $10 per ton, or $210 per acre for the crop. He threshed the remainder of the wheat—60 acres—and got 2717 bushels, which he sold for 67 cents per bushel, or $1809.40 for the crop. This is a trifle more than $100 per acre for the entire crop, hay included, which, after deducting the expenses of raising, threshing and marketing the crop, left Mr. Bennighoven almost enough to pay for the land which the crop had grown. His experience has been duplicated by a number of farmers in Whitman county this year, but many other farmers had larger acreages.

Others Are Implicated.

Ralph Luncford was brought to town Sunday by an officer and was put under $200 bonds to appear next Monday at the preliminary hearing of young Elliott, accused of stealing horses from John Johnson and trying to sell them in Pendleton. It is hoped there must be some mistake in this implication of young Luncford, who resides with his mother on Pine creek and who is a most estimable woman.

It is said that a couple of young men have "disappeared" already from this section, and many have expressed the opinion that more will be wanted before this case is over, as many horses have "evaporated" of late years.—Long Creek Ranger.

Wanted Whitman's License.

"Want better kind. Want whitman's license," declared August C. Alexander, a Umatilla brave, who came into County Clerk Frank Falgout's office this morning and asked for a permit to marry. His strange declaration was in answer to the clerk's query as to why he didn't get the license at the agency. Alexander is to marry Hin-bin-que, Monanic, a well known Indian of the reservation, witnessed the license.

A sample stalk of corn raised by Mrs. S. J. Wilson on her ranch in the edge of town is on exhibition at the Enterprise office, which measures 12 feet 6 inches in height and has a 12-inch ear of corn, which is well matured. This corn is of the yellow Dent variety and was raised wholly without irrigation. How is this for Grant county?—Monument Enterprise.

"RALLY DAY."
A Movement of Importance in the Congregational Church.

Next Sunday is "rally day" at the Congregational church. All the members of the church and Sunday school will at the morning service report the result of their efforts to increase the attendance at the Sunday school and church, and will bring with them as far as possible, the visible evidence of their efforts to re-energize the church.

Next Sunday the pastor will deliver a specially prepared sermon which will be in part a history of the movement of which the above is an outline, and which was inaugurated about 16 years ago, in all Congregational churches.

Will Preach in the Valley.

Rev. E. E. Jones and wife are in town awaiting advice which will determine where Mr. Jones' field of ministerial labor will be during the term. In general terms Mr. Jones knows that he is slated for some valley point, but just the community he does not yet know. He preached from Rev. Howard's pulpit yesterday.
