

The New Northwest.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1912.

The Herald has been sold to the "Oro Fino clique."

"Rosendale" is the latest sensation at the Oro Fino Theater.

The wheat crop is said to be uninjured by the late hard weather.

Real estate transactions in Portland are reported as being very brisk.

The prospect for a good mining season in Eastern Oregon is very good.

The Harrington Academy will give an exhibition during the latter part of next month.

Jacksonville is growing rapidly, and is now one of the most active towns in Oregon.

The reports concerning the Harrington bridge are pronounced false by the Oregonian.

The Quartermaster at Vancouver is ordering a removal of buildings from the government reserve.

The Northern Pacific Railroad has seven hundred men on the line from Kalama to Puget Sound.

The winter in La Grande and Powder River valleys has been very mild. Very little snow has fallen.

The ice blockade has been broken up, and boats are now running regularly between this place and the Dalles.

Wyche is mentioned as a prominent Democratic candidate for the Delegation in Washington Territory.

The city council of Portland recently appropriated $2,500 to ascertain the best method of furnishing the city with water.

The Reverend Huntington fulminated against Woman Suffrage again at Olympia on Tuesday last. How he does strive against fate.

The contract for building the Court-house in Salem has been awarded by the County Court to Messrs. Boothby, Miller & Myers of that city.

A. W. Hart, the delinquent railroad contractor, has departed for Victoria. There is much tribulation among the insured creditors in consequence.

The Territorial Treasurer of Idaho is reported to be a defaulter in the sum of some six or seven thousand dollars. That's the way the money goes.

A move is being made to construct a plank road to connect East Portland and Vancouver. This would surely redound to the benefit of both Portland and Vancouver.

The editor of the Mountaineer gives an account of his first appearance as a ball-singer, a short time since, at the Dalles. It was encores, and feels happy.

The several adverse claimants to rights in the Caruthers estate of this city have agreed upon general terms of compromise, and are now engaged in settling the details.

Mr. W. Miller's poem, entitled "To a Dancer," is addressed to a dancer named, Joaquin Miller—and which was first published in the New Northwest—is going the rounds of the Eastern press.

Two Dalles Mountaineers have news that England has declared war against the United States. It seems that in spite of the ice blockade the citizens of the Dalles have received more news than has yet come to hand here.

"The right of way" is the vexed question now in railroad quarters. Some of the farmers of Lane county have made a practical test of the matter, even going so far as to tear up the track. Considerable litigation is going on about it.

We have received a concise and reliable Business Directory of the leading wholesale and retail business houses of Salem and Portland, for 1912. Published and compiled at L. Samuel's Advertising Agency. Office, 30 Front St., Portland, Ogn.

The feature of the Lane County Fair for 1912 will be a grand horse race for the magnificent premium of $1,000 in gold. We advise the sensible men and women who take no stock in horse-racing to stay at home and let the jockeys run the race.

Last Wednesday was St. Valentine's day, and of course the usual amount of sentimental silliness and nonsensical trash customary on this anniversary found its way through the postoffices. It was also the anniversary of Oregon's admission as a State.

Murphy, city editor of the Herald, has "resigned." Chas. Newell takes his place under the new administration. The "Oro Fino fellows" evidently don't like the Hilarian Frenchman, hence his "resignation." Alas, alas, poor Murphy! Hall and farewell.

The land excitement in Olympia appears to have died away. The railway company have been presented with four thousand acres of land situated in and around Olympia, in return for which they engage to build a depot within one mile and a half of the center of the town.

Gold has been discovered at Canyon City within 300 yards of the Court House. Great excitement exists there in consequence. The ledge is eight feet thick and yields gold in fabulous quantities. This discovery it is believed will create a revolution in affairs at Canyon City.

Godley's Lady's Book for the months of January and February have just reached us. Both are excellent numbers, and we enjoyed the reading of them exceedingly, if the mails did keep them back awhile. Godley's Lady's Book is one of the best, if not the best, magazine of the time.

Mr. Lassater, member of the Legislature from Walla Walla, W. T., and Mr. Newell, of the Walla Walla Statesman, have been having a little unpleasantness, a race account of which appears in the Walla Walla Union. Newell called Lassater names, in consequence of which Lassater pummeled Newell, for which amusement he was fined twenty dollars.

According to the Beacon, Kalama has got a brand-new bake shop. Some of the Webfoot papers poke a little fun at the Beacon for its enthusiasm over the matter, but, after all, we think our contemporary is right. A good bakery is a very good thing—especially for the stomach's sake.

By a blunder it was stated in the last issue of the NEW NORTHWEST that Mr. McCormick delivered his lecture on Father Matthew, the Irish apostle of temperance, on the evening of the 31st inst. We were a week ahead of time. The lecture did come off last night, and was listened to by a highly pleased audience.

Our many readers from the country who visit Portland should not fail to avail themselves of a visit to the Oro Fino Theater under its present management. Rational, reasonable and honorable amusement is a necessity of the human family, and Mr. and Mrs. Waldron and troupe certainly furnish the best entertainments ever given in this city.

General Tilton, who arrived in this city yesterday, says the Herald informs us that the surveyors of the Northern Pacific Railroad are running lines on either side of Budd's Inlet, for the purpose of ascertaining which is the most practical. As soon as the line is determined a town-site will be located. The company represents that the mud-flats in front of Olympia will render it impossible to make that place a shipping point of any considerable importance, and, therefore, the necessity of a new town.

Rev. Mr. Eliot lectured on Tuesday evening before the Washington Delegation Society. Subject—Music. The lecture was quite well attended, and the lecturer, as we expected, proved himself master of his subject. He treated of the different stages of the progress of musical science, tracing it step by step from the rudest creations of the savage brain to the divine achievements of Beethoven, Handel, Mendelssohn and other masters. He particularly urged the cultivation and practice of music in the home circle and its study as a necessary means of ideal elevation.

Mrs. Annie Jeffries lectured on Monday evening of this week before a small but intelligent and appreciative audience in Philharmonic Hall. Her subject was "Ethics of Marriage," and was very tersely, ably and happily handled. It was the speaker's maiden effort, and her manner was somewhat constrained and timid, as might have been expected. She is quite young, a blonde of neat figure and pleasing address. Her ideas are sensible, plain and practical. We should have been pleased to see all the young men and maidens of this city present, and hope she will repeat the lecture soon before a large audience.

The Oregonian says "that one day last week a young lady at Forest Grove attempted to commit suicide by placing a quantity of chloroform in her bed and then getting in and covering her head and ears. The smell of the chloroform attracted the attention of the family, who by dint of hard labor, succeeded in defeating this little bit of a tragedy. A note on the stand explained all. Her beau had cut her acquaintance and had capered with other girls in a manner not to be borne. There is to be a wedding soon, as the young man says he is now satisfied that she is 'stuck' for him." The world has still some fools left.

The daily papers give an account of a horrible outrage upon the person of a little girl in this city recently, committed by a wretch named Hoboy. And they also tell of the disgraceful fact that large numbers of men and boys flocked to the Police Court to hear the revolting particulars, who were wisely deprived of their purport feast by His Honor Judge Denny, who turned the case over to the Grand Jury. Scarcely a day passes but we hear of some dreadful depredation upon feminine purity, committed by some ballot wielder of the "protecting" sex, who pride themselves upon their prowess as defenders of womanhood. We emphatically declare that nobody but mothers have any moral right to try or sentence that villain, and that fathers only have a moral right to execute their sentence.

A Flea Entertainment.
In London, a young Englishman is causing a great deal of amusement by his character. He is the proprietor of a stud of performing fleas; or, to use the words of his own announcements, of "trained Apocynon insects, the only specimens of the Arthropoda ever brought to perform." The London Daily News says: "We went to the sight, fearing that our sense of refinement would be shocked; but found, on entering the room, a tastefully decorated apartment, and several ladies, with their children, admiring the household fleas which a wholesome sense of duty teaches them generally to crush. Mr. Kitchingman, the exhibitor, has told hard and long to bring his exhibition to its present successful conclusion. Like the ever-lasting cockery-book hare, the fleas have had first to be caught, then shipped hither from Russia, Belgium and France, or elsewhere, and afterward subjected to a training in which severity and tenderness are pretty equally proportioned. Without going so far as the exhibitor, who believes the little wretches he protects have intellects, and says he has seen their brains, we must confess our astonishment at the novel figure they are made to cut, although in an age like this, one ought not to be amazed at such a sight as the spread of education among fleas. The insects in Regent street draw carriages, as tug to a man-of-war, fire off a gun, perform on the tight-rope, draw a bucket out of an imaginary well, leap and swing, and execute other evolutions upon a white, smooth table.

"These things, however, are not done by the fleas as by other beings. The voluntary system is quite untried, and the wonder of the exhibition is rather the marvellous delicacy of the machinery than the genius of the performers. Mr. Kitchingman, after years of patience, has perfected a set of Lilliputian articles, designed and made by his own hands, that are of themselves of the rarest kind, and the visitor will soon perceive that they are most ingeniously made for the fleas, and not the fleas for them. Taking the raw untutored flea between his finger and thumb, with a touch that few could command, the proprietor fastens, by a peculiar noose, a round the insect's trunk, leaving the two ends standing an inch or two above the back, like a couple of overgrown feelers. These hair ends are fastened to the apparatus, generally by insertion in the split of a tiny straw, and this difficult operation having been done without injury to wing or limb, the harnessed captive is attached to the particular service for which its talents are fitted.

"The Russian and Belgian fleas are, of course, much starved and training, become the toughest and best. We observed one on Saturday, however, trotting in the collar very painfully, and drawing his ivory car with a hop, skip and jump, instead of the steady, easy trot which the Russian or Belgian are affected. Perhaps it was too much to expect a right-minded flea to dole out under the circumstances in the presence of ruddy children and blonde ladies. One or two of the performers were pointed out as having reached a green old age; they had lived nine months, and were now, in the course of nature, nearing the day of their death. Three or four months—may, weeks—however, are considered a hard age for a flea to live.

Mr. Kitchingman, with touching affection, allows his fleas to live out of himself, which is nothing but fair, seeing that he lives out of them. Every day, when something attempted and something done has earned them a night's repose, he feeds his flock upon the back of his hand, puts each individually between two blankets, and the whole layer into a box, where they slumber secure—out of harm's way, and ought to be able to rise in the morning with clear consciences to face the day's work. The untrained reserve stock (two or three hundred) are kept in a stoppered bottle full of flannel wool. The exhibitor gives his visitors much information upon this special branch of natural history."

THANKS TO GOV. CAMPBELL.—At a recent business meeting of the New York Woman Suffrage Organization, Mrs. L. D. Blake presented the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: "That this organization presents its hearty thanks to Gov. Campbell, of Wyoming, for his noble course in vetoing the bill repealing woman suffrage in that Territory, and hopes that he may long remain in the office which he honors, to do battle for justice and right."

A worthy Quaker thus wrote: "I expect to pass through this world but once; if therefore, there can be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow human being, let me do it now; for I will not pass this way again."
