A dwelling at the foot of Robinson's Hill was for some days and evenings of last week assailed by rocks, which, coming from an invisible source, annoyed and mystified the occupants, and caused quite a haunted-house story to be circulated throughout the city. Investigation disclosed the fact, surmised from the first by the incredulous, that from the first by the incredulous, that the unseen agency that propelled the missiles consisted of hoodium muscle and mischief.

The copartnership existing between Joe, Oppenheimer and Henry Ackerman, better known as Ackerman's Dol-lar Store, will be dissolved January 1, 1877. It is imperatively necessary that our stock be disposed of before that time. It being a very large and complete one, comprising in the main elegant holiday presents, crockery, glass and fine plated ware, it will be readily seen that great sacrifices must be made to dispose of it all within the time set. The attention of the public, and especially of dealers throughout the State, is called to the above.

11 ACKERMAN'S DOLLAR STORE. The "Robinson Hill ghost" was caught on Tuesday night. His ghostship is none other than a son of Mr. Miller, the owner of the haunted mansion, aged about 18 years. Judging from the appearance of the windows of the bombarded dwelling the youth's sport might be called "paneless play." It will hardly be painless, however, if he is again caught at it. Since the above was in type we have received a communication from the parties interested giving detailed account of the whole mat-ter and denying in toto that their son was in any manner concerned in the disturbance. They further declare that they have not believed from the first that the annoying missiles were buried by spiritual agency. Their article came too late for publication.

DAVID AND ANNA MATSON,

By Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway,

Editor "New Northwest," Portland, Oregon, WITH BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS, AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

A new epic, from a vigorous and skillful pen, on a subject which occupies a large place in the social discussions of the day. The subject is taken from Mr. Whittier's short narrative of "David Matson," with which the reader is probably familiar. David Matson, a Merrimac sailor, was captured by the Algerines (during one of his voyages) and sold into slavery. After many years he obtained release and was on his way to the home of his boyhood, when he fell in With his old employer, who informed him that his wife, believing him dead, had remarried, and, stunned by his trouble, he surrendered all claim as husband and father to the man who had stepped into his place, and departed. Mrs. Duniway has found a theme in this story with which her heart beats in warmest sympathy, and her lines flow on in the smooth cadence indicative of the fullest accord. She pictures the gentle, tender, trustful Anna and the wily, covetous Pelatiah in vivid colors; and how years of poverty and longing, and the cries of the hungry boys, compelled poor Anna to yield to Pelatiah's importunity,

"Rise, rejoice, My poor, unmated dove," said he, " And look henceforth for love to me," A little further on he says:

" Become my wife and you shall be Made happy through prosperity,"

While, if she persists in declining his advances, wolf-like, he threatens to abandon her to starvation and cold. And this Pelatiah was a "deacon," "In exhortations deep and loud," The wanderings of David, his captivity, release, hapless interview with Peiatiah, discovery of Anna's second wifehood, and his sad going back to Algeria, are all told so pathetically that our teelings are deeply enlisted. No one, with any true sentiment, can read the poem without being thoroughly stirred. The illustrations are in admirable keeping with the passages they are designed to portray, and a fine engraving of the author is a fitting frontispiece. The subject, which the literary reputation of the author must awaken in it. As a specimen of book-making the volume is certainly beautiful, and would adorn any center-table. We know of no work so well adapted as a holiday present. It is printed on heavy tinted paper and most beautifully bound, pulse, $2 00; full gilt extra, $2 50. For sale by book-sellers, or
