G. Neimeyer, fashionable merchant tailor, First street, between Pine and Ash, is closing out his elegant stock of gent's furnishing goods at cost prices. The present is a fine opportunity to purchase a splendid suit of clothes at extremely low rates.

The announcement that the "Jubilees" would sing at the services held in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms on Sunday, caused the place to be densely crowded long before the usual hour. Hundreds were unable to gain admittance. The exercises throughout were more than usually interesting.

We call special attention to the advertisement of Dr. Warner's Health Corset. We will send one copy of the New Northwest one year and one of these Corsets post-paid to any address on the receipt of $4.00. We cordially recommend the article to our lady friends, and feel confident they will appreciate them after a very short trial.

The first criminal conviction under Stewart's bill to prevent cruelty to women took place in Judge Moses' court at Virginia City, Nevada, on the 9th inst. A man named Marshall, convicted of wife-beating, was tied up to a post near the Court-house at 2 o'clock on the day specified with a placard, "Wife-Beater," fastened on his breast. There was considerable excitement over the affair. This law may be an improvement on the whipping post penalty for this cowardly class of offenders, though we confess to a partiality to the latter mode of punishment. There is nothing so salutary as giving such fellows a smart, sharp, and decisive dose of their own medicine.

A woman who lives in Salt Lake City, speaking of the young women of Utah, says: "They suffer from their too implicit faith in man, and from the confidence so guilelessly placed in a man-made religion, or more particularly in one feature of that religion known as the 'Divine Revelation of the plurality of wives.'"

He purchased his sweetheart a pair of ten-button kid gloves, and handed them in at the door himself. The servant-girl took them, and going to the foot of the stairs, laid out, "Please, miss, here's a young man has brought you a pair of leggins."

Remarkable Cure. MESSRS. S. W. FOWLER & SONS, 150. Gentlemen.—Several years since I took a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, where it remained without relaxation. I was then in Massachusetts, and growing worse and becoming unable to attend to my business, I returned home and commenced searching in earnest for some medicine which would restore my lost health. I consulted physicians, I tried many remedies, but obtained no help, but daily grew worse. I had a terrible cough, and raised a good deal of blood. I had profuse night sweats and severe pain in my side. I continued in this state for months, and became so weak that it was with great difficulty I could walk, when I was advised to try WISTAR'S BALM OF WILD CHERRY, and to my great joy I soon found that this remedy had arrested the disease. I continued to use the BALM to the extent of five bottles, and have since then experienced no difficulty of the lungs. I believe the BALM saved my life, and I shall ever hold it in high estimation. Yours truly, LEWIS PRELPS.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is an epitome of newspaper history. It is also regarded as an official register of circulations. This feature requires the closest scrutiny to prevent it from leading to abuses. The plan adopted by the publishers of the DIRECTORY to secure correct and trustworthy reports is rigid in its requirements, and is adhered to with impartiality. Successful publishers, who have something to gain by a comparison, are generally prompt, not only to send reports in conformity, but give Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. such information as enables them to reveal out such unsubstantiated statements of pretenders in journalism. The popularity of the book, and the general confidence in its accuracy and good faith, are attested by the immense body of advertisements it receives.

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS. JUST PUBLISHED, A NEW ILLUSTRATED POEM.

"In with you, man!" Pel'tiah said, "You'd better try to earn your bread Than like the birds to bill and coo! 'Twill do for them to sigh and woe, For they have nothing else to do."

DAVID AND ANNA MATSON, By Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, Editor "New Northwest," Portland, Oregon, WITH BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS, AND ELEGANTLY BOUND. A new epic, from a vigorous and skillful pen, on a subject which occupies a large place in the social discussions of the day. The subject is taken from Mr. Whittier's short narrative of "David Matson," with which the reader is probably familiar. David Matson, a Merrimac sailor, was captured by the Algerines (during one of his voyages) and sold into slavery. After many years he obtained release and was on his way to the home of his boyhood, when he fell in with his old employer, who informed him that his wife, believing him dead, had remarried, and was stunned by his trouble, he surrendered all claim as husband and father to the man who had stepped into his place, and departed. Mrs. Duniway has found a theme in this story with which her heart beats in warmest sympathy, and her lines flow on in the smooth cadence indicative of the fullest accord. She pictures the gentle, tender, trustful Anna and the wily, covetous Pel'tiah in vivid colors; and how years of poverty and longing, and the cries of the hungry boys, compelled poor Anna to yield to Pel'tiah's importunity. "Rise, rejoice, My poor, unmade dove," said he, "And look henceforth for love to me." "Become my wife and you shall be Made happy through prosperity," While, if she persists in declining his advances, will-like, he threatens to abandon her to starvation and cold. And this Pel'tiah was a "deacon," "In exhortations deep and loud." The wanderings of David, his captivity, release, hapless interview with Pel'tiah, discovery of Anna's second wifehood, and his sad going back to Algeria, are all told so pathetically that our feelings are deeply stirred. No one, with any true sentiment, can read the poem without being thoroughly afflicted. The illustrations are in admirable keeping with the passages they are designed to portray, and a fine engraving of the author is a fitting frontispiece. The subject spirit, fire and passion of the poem should give it an extensive reading, aside from the interest which the literary reputation of the author must awaken in it. As a specimen of book-making the volume is certainly beautiful, and would adorn any center-table. We know of no work so well adapted as a holiday present. It is printed on heavy tinted paper and most beautifully bound, price, $2 00; full gilt extra, $2 50. For sale by book-sellers, or by mail, post-paid, by S. R. WELLS & Co., Publishers, 737 Broadway, New York.
