THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is an epitome of newspaper history. It is also regarded as an official register of circulation. This feature requires the closest scrutiny to prevent it from leading to abuses. The plan adopted by the publishers of the DIRECTORY to secure correct and trustworthy reports is rigid in its requirements, and is adhered to with impartiality. Successful publishers, who have something to gain by a comparison, are generally prompt, not only to send reports in conformity, but give Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. such information as enables them to weed out unsubstantiated statements of pretensions in journalism. The popularity of the book, and the general confidence in its accuracy and good faith, are attested by the immense body of advertisements it receives. 4-26

I was first induced to try this medicine by the strong recommendation of a friend, who was well-nigh gone with consumption, and whose relief from the use of it satisfied me of its great value in cases of colds and decline, and most clearly demonstrated to my mind its great value as a restorative, that only needs a fair trial to insure a grateful recognition from the public." "In with you, man!" Peliah said, "You'd better try to earn your bread Than like the birds to bill and woo! 'Twill do for them to sigh and woe, For they have nothing else to do."

DAVID AND ANNA MATSON'S

By Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway. Editor "New Northwest," Portland, Oregon.

WITH BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS, AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

A new epic, from a vigorous and skillful pen, on a subject which occupies a large place in the social discussions of the day. The subject is taken from Mr. Whittier's short narrative of "David Matson," with which the reader is probably familiar. David Matson, a Merrimac sailor, was captured by the Algerines (during one of his voyages) and sold into slavery. After many years he obtained release and was on his way to the home of his boyhood, when he fell in with his old employer, who informed him that his wife, believing him dead, had remarried, and, stung by his trouble, he surrendered all claims as husband and father to the man who had stepped into his place, and departed. Mrs. Duniway has found a theme in this story with which her heart beats in warmest sympathy, and her lines flow on in the smooth endued indicative of the fullest accord. She pictures the gentle, tender, trusting Anna and the wily, covetous Peliah, in vivid colors; and how years of poverty and longing, and the cries of the hungry boys, compelled poor Anna to yield to Peliah's importunity.

"Hiss, rejoice, My poor, unmade dove," said he, "And look henceforth for love to me." A little further on he says: "Become my wife and you shall be Made happy through prosperity."

While, if she persists in declining his advances, woe-like, he threatens to abandon her to starvation and cold. And this Peliah was a "deacon." "In exhortations deep and loud."

The wanderings of David, his captivity, release, hapless interview with Peliah, discovery of Anna's second wifehood, and his sad going back to Algeria, are all told so pathetically that our feelings are deeply enlisted. No one, with any true sentiment, can read the poem without being thoroughly stirred. The illustrations are in admirable keeping with the passages they are designed to portray, and a fine engraving of the author is a fitting frontispiece. The subject, spirit, and passion of the poem should give it an extensive reading, aside from the interest which the literary reputation of the author must awaken in it. As a specimen of book-making the volume is certainly beautiful, and would adorn any center-table.

We know of no work so well adapted as a present. It is printed on heavy tinted paper and most beautifully bound, price, $2.00; full gilt extra, $2.50. For sale by book-sellers, or by mail, post-paid, by S. R. WELLS & Co., Publishers, 737 Broadway, New York.
