Twenty marriage licenses were issued in Multnomah county on October.

Mrs. Hayward cautions all persons not to trust in any manner her incorrigible son, Willie.

John A. Beck has just received an elegant stock of jewelry for the holidays. Give him a call.

Mr. J. A. Hene is under engagement to return to New Market Theater, and will appear about the 15th.

There are thirty vessels classed as belonging to the grain fleet in the river, though five or six are not yet under engagement.

At the matinee at New Market Theater, on Saturday, standing room was at a premium. The largest audience ever gathered in that theater was present.

O. M. Barnard, county assessor, who was seriously injured a few days since by being thrown from his buggy, has recovered sufficiently to be upon the street.

Peter Wagner has succeeded Williams & Fuller in the management and ownership of the Empire Bakery, and will keep, as usual, excellent bread, cakes, pies, etc.

The lecture of Mrs. Lake, on Sunday evening, at Good Templars' Hall, was largely attended and well received.

This lady's ability has won for her a host of friends and admirers in this city.

G. Neimeyer has the happy faculty of selling his customers elegantly. Call at his establishment, on First street, between Ash and Pine, and leave your measure if you desire a stylish and serviceable suit.

The fifth concert of the Amateur Musical Society was given at Masonic Hall, on Wednesday evening, drawing a large audience. The entire entertainment was excellent, more than one piece receiving a deserved encore.

A contemporary says: "The owner of the schooner 'Fato' has employed a number of young girls to do the fishing, packing fish, and doing them much more expert than Chinese, to say nothing of neatness and cleanliness."

The Oro Fino Theater has been closed, the "variety performance" not proving permanently attractive. Happily the class who patronize such questionable places soon reach the bottom of the purse, and when this occurs, the scourge to good morals is lifted.

The "Seaman's Bethel Union meeting" at the Taylor-street Church on Sunday evening drew a large audience. So eloquent and effective were the pleas made for the sailor and for funds to erect a marriage home in this city that $5,000 were pledged for that purpose.

The entertainment at the Unitarian Church on Friday evening was varied and interesting. The instrumental music by Professor Sedlak and sons, and Miss Deane, and the songs, and the recitations, were especially fine. The funds raised will be appropriated to the Sunday School library.

Rev. C. V. Anthony will deliver a lecture at Good Templars' Hall, on this (Friday) evening, for the benefit of Multnomah Lodge, I. O. G. T. Subject, "First Impressions on the 'Heavenly Islands.'" The object is a worthy one; the lecture will doubtless be excellent, and the admission only 25 cents.

The "big out" on the West-side road, so well known to disgusted and belated travelers, sent down another slice on Monday, delaying the incoming train and detouring passengers as directed to go out in this city. The heavy rains render the detouring unavoidable, even while it is extremely vexatious.

Professor Plummer will give one of his enjoyable entertainment at Masonic Hall, on this (Friday) evening, the proceeds to be donated to the "Heavenly Home." There is certainly a no more worthy institution in this city, nor one more deserving of aid. Aid is also much needed, and we hope the entertainment may be largely patronized. Professor Plummer's talent as an entertainer, together with his vast fund of sparkling humor, renders his entertainments enjoyable from first to last. Let the house be crowded in aid of this noble charity.

The open temperance meeting at the hall of the Y. M. C. A. last Saturday evening was simply immense. Early in the evening the crowd began gathering, and by eight o'clock every available seat and space was occupied, and it was estimated that hundreds who came to the door during the evening retired without being able to find room inside the hall. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was splendid, and the enthusiasm great during the whole evening. Excellent speeches were made by several good speakers, and over fifty new names were added to the pledge. A special effort will be made to have the meeting on next Saturday evening excel in interest any of those preceding it. The attendance and co-operation of all is earnestly solicited.

The grand jury on Saturday rendered the following report: "The jail in this county is a disgrace, and it is a disgrace to the county jail, poor farms, and insane asylum: 'The county jail is kept as well as the number of prisoners will permit. There have been confined in the jail in the last year, in addition to the county prisoners, fifty-two United States prisoners. The aggregate of their time therein confined is sixteen hundred days. The county has been at a large expense on account of these prisoners, in the way of bedding, furnishing, and medicine and medical attendance. Nothing has been received for this outlay, nor for the use of the prison. The large number of these prisoners fill the jail so that there is not sufficient room for the county prisoners. We consider the jail insecure and unhealthy, and recommend that the county court take steps toward the erection of a suitable building for a jail, and see that the United States pays for the things furnished, and for the use of the building. The asylum is kept, but is not sufficiently provided with means of escape in case of fire. The county poor farm and buildings we found in good condition, and the inmates well cared for.'"

Another soul has risen superior to creeds, and, leaving behind the dark superstitions of the cloister, has entered the portals of the "City Immortal." Miss Mary Norton, in religion, "Sister Mary of the Precious Blood" (what nunnery) died at the Mother House in Vancouver last week.

JUST PUBLISHED. A NEW ILLUSTRATED POEM. DAVID AND ANNA MATSON. By Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway. Editor "New Northwest," Portland, Oregon. WITH BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS, AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

"In with you, man!" Peletiah said. "You'd better try to earn your bread Than like the birds to bill and coo! 'Twill do for them to sigh and wail, For they have nothing else to do."

DAVID AND ANNA MATSON. By Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway. Editor "New Northwest," Portland, Oregon. WITH BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS, AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

A new epic, from a vigorous and skillful pen, on a subject which occupies a large place in the social discussions of the day. The subject is taken from Mr. Whittier's short narrative, "David and Anna Matson," with which the reader is probably familiar. David Matson, a Merriam sailor, was captured by the Algerines (during one of his voyages) and sold into slavery. After many years he obtained release and was on his way to the home of his boyhood, when he fell in with his old employer, who informed him that his wife, believing him dead, had remarried, and, stung by his trouble, he current social all claims as husband and father to the man who had stepped into his place, and departed. Mrs. Duniway has found a theme in this story which her heart beats in warmest sympathy, and her lines flow on in the smooth cadence indicative of the fullest accord. She pictures the gentle, tender, trustful Anna and the wily, covetous Peletiah in vivid colors; and how years of poverty and longing, and the cries of the hungry boys, compelled poor Anna to yield to Peletiah's importunity.

"Give, rejoice. My poor, unmade dove," said he, "And look henceforth for love to me."

A little further on he says: "Become my wife and you shall be Made happy through prosperity. While, if she persists in declining his advances, he threatens to abandon her to starvation and cold. And this Peletiah was a 'deacon.'"

In exhortations deep and loud. The wanderings of David, his captivity, release, hapless interview with Peletiah, discovery of Anna's second wifehood, and his sad going back to Algeria, are all told so pathetically that our feelings are deeply enlisted. No slight and true sentiment, can read the poem without being thoroughly stirred. The illustrations are in admirable keeping with the passages they are designed to portray, and a fine engraving of the author is a fitting touchpiece. The subject spirit, fire and passion of the poem should give it an extensive reading, aside from the literary which the literary reputation of the author must awaken in it. As a specimen of book-making the volume is certainly beautiful, and would afford any center-table.

We know of no work so well adapted as this present. It is printed on heavy tinted paper and most beautifully bound, price, $2 00; full gilt extra, $2 50. For sale by book-sellers, or by mail, post-paid, by
