Our Letters.

What is the matter? Oh, it is the Mrs. Sarah L. Knox, of San Jose, a mail again! You didn't get your letter woman who has given liberally of her for two days after the proper date of remeans, time, and influence in aid of the ceipt, and last year you lost one? "Uncle woman's cause, publishes in the Mer-Sam uses his children dreadfully; the post office is shamefully managed," and Well, write to the papers, if you like. Every one is free to do that. But, on the whole, we are preity well off, as to ur mail matters. tors in our own households we generally leave out the name of the city, why naturally, there is a little difficulty Under such circumstances the wis postmaster is puzzled, and it is a case for the Dead Letter Office.

Uncle Sam is a pretty good old uncle. as far as letters go. We have very little to complain of; less than your fathers had, and how much less than your great-grandfathers! Have you any of those old, yellow letters on long sheets of foolscap, without envelope, and often crossed? For letters cost something then, and people made them as light as possible. Ah! they were waited for long and sadly while the old stagecoaches plodded along, or the sloop took its time from port to port; and so

I, for one, don't like to hear Uncle Sam abused, where he so little deserves it. He has his faillogs, but he is very good about our let ters, considering all things,—Mary Kyle Dallas, in New York Ledger.

Bob Ingersoll on Children's Rights.

In speaking of children he said that, a his opinion, they have all the rights protected. If women have been slaves, what shall I say of the little children; of the little children in the alleys and The building in which we were assumed the world, and I was astonished without due process of law; and the taint of the swindle still clings to several high officers and members without due process of law; and the taint of the swindle still clings to several high officers and members without due process of law; and the taint of the swindle still clings to several high officers and members without due process of law; and the taint of the swindle still clings to several high officers and members without due process of law; and there was not in the world red out. Clings distinct the several high officers and members with the several high officers and members with the several high officers and members with the children of poverty, the children of congruence was new shorted out. Clings distinct the several high officers and members with the several high officers and members with the several high officers and members with the children of congruence with the child have the same rights that we have, and we ought to treat them as though they were human beings; they should be reared by love, by kindness, by tender-ness, and not by brutality. When your little child tells a lie, don't rush at him or her as though the whole solar system was going into bankruptcy. Be honest with the child; tell it you have told hundreds of them yourself, and it don't pay. A tyrant will always have liars for chiliren. I thank Mother Nature that she had put ingenuity enough in the breast parent, to throw up a little breastwork in the shape of a lie. A negro minister who married rather sooner after the death of his wife than some of the sisters thought proper and becoming, excused himself as follows:

An old bachelor was rather taken aback a day or two since, as follows: Picking up a book, he exclaimed, upon seeing a wood-cut representing a man kneeling at the feet of a woman, "Before I would kneel to a woman, I would encircle my neck with a rope and stretch it. ' And then turning to a young woman, he inquired, "Do you think ! would be the best thing I could do?" "It would undoubtedly be the best thing for the woman," was the sarcastic chance to marry in de Lord, I did so, and would do so again. Besides, bred-
