On Tuesday morning, Wm. Algeo, a contractor, left for Cello with 100 men to commence cutting trees for the railroad. The contract calls for 400,000 trees. Six cents per tree will be paid for cutting and eight for sawing; or laborers will be given $2 per day.

A short time since, an unpretentious grocery house was established on B street by Messrs. W. H. Marshall & Co. They advertised their business liberally, made fair promises, and kept them. They brought about a revolution in the grocery business in North Portland. Their integrity and enterprise have been rewarded, and it is to be hoped that they have been compelled to secure extensive accommodations in Central Market. Read their advertisement under "New This Week" for particulars.

Business at the New Market Theater this week has been pretty good. The best company which has favored Portland for some years is giving novelties in rapid succession. Geo. D. Chaplin is an actor of great merit. Annie Adams is a charming leading lady. Gertie Graville is one of the best soubrettes who ever appeared in Portland, and William Stevens is a popular comedian. Mr. Linday, Miss Douglas, and the other members of the company are well-known to our public. The troupe deserves a large patronage.
